F EUROPE WILL DISARM, HOOVER MAY CUT DEBTS

Capital Stirred by News of Proposal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Indications that President Hoover is striving with a proposition to refund, if not cancel, the war debts owed the United States, provided Europe agrees to reduce armaments, has produced a considerable stir in official Washington.

The matter has been discussed, it appears, at White House councils and there have been informal interchanges on the subject between Washington and London, if not between Washington and Paris also, the object of which, on the part of each government, was to sound out the position of the other. The utmost secrecy surrounds the developments, is being observed, and whether the idea of linking the debt problem with disarmament was originated in Washington or in London is a matter of speculation.

The thought is credited to Mr. Hoover's.

In quarters the belief obtains that Mr. Hoover conceived the scheme of sending out to Europe the promise of debt cancellation in return for a substantial reduction of armaments. He is said to be actively exploring the possibilities of the suggestion he made to the International Chamber of Commerce that a debt moratorium would go hand in hand with other single measure looking toward recovery of the world from the depression.

It is confirmed that the suggestion originally from the White House, which never has denied that, somehow, some appeal to the American people or the statesmen will result in relieving her debtors.

The effort to induce the United States to link its war debts with German reparations and to agree to reduce both commensurately with reductions in armaments, the Britishers, in line with this theory, were instructed to support the President's speech to the disarmament conference in the chamber to suggest the cancellation of war debts and disarmament as a single transaction that the British government, sufficiently fervent to the cause of peace, might be able to bring about the disarmament of Europe by reducing all or a part, if not all, of the war debts.

Debts Represent 11 Billions.

To the debts owed the United States amount to about 11 billions of dollars, the debtors and the amounts of their funded indebtedness follow:

Great Britain	$4,426,000,000
France	3,865,000,000
Italy	2,017,000,000
Belgium	404,730,000
Poland	178,860,000
Czechoslovakia	170,071,023
Rumania	64,560,500
Greece	61,850,000
Yugoslavia	31,760,000
Austria	13,830,000
Hungary	6,059,000
Latvia	6,235,207
Estonia	5,775,000
Finland	1,920,315

The proposition of linking the debt problem with disarmament originated in Washington or in London is a matter of speculation. It is a fact that as long ago as last December some of the highest officials of the administration were insisting that the American government would eventually adopt a more liberal attitude toward debt revision. Efforts were to agree on a reduction of armaments at the conference to be held under the auspices of the league of nations next February.

Public Sentiment.

The impression was put in various ways by members of the administration that always stated that Mr. Hoover was irreconcilably opposed to revision of the debt question so long as there was any possibility that any part of which the United States would receive its debtors would be invested in larger armaments.

Another impression drawn from such statements and activities on the part of the administration was that a trial balloon was being sent up on behalf of Mr. Hoover to ascertain whether the country would react favorably to a proposition of reducing or canceling the debts in return for disarmament in Europe. In some quarters it is said to be held that this is all that is possible in the situation today and that the administration finds the country is still strongly opposed to revision of the war debts there will be no disarmament at the White House and that the President never has considered the proposition.

What heightened the impression that there really was some fire where there was so much smoke was the disclosure of Secretary of State Stim-

TEACHERS WANT FAT FRIED OUT OF BUILDING JOBS

War on Proposal of Educational Cuts.

Teachers and other employés of the school board last night began preparations to combat a proposal submitted yesterday to make an annual saving in operating expenses of the schools by eliminating automatic pay increases, by the elimination of jobs, and by reorganizing plant operation and engineering functions.

SENATOR CUTHBERTSON.

The teachers, backed by outspoken sentiment of at least one member of the board, are starting a fight to have the fat fried out of the building department as well as the other school departments.

The plan for saving was submitted yesterday in the report of an audit of school finances, made at the request of the state senate committee on education at a joint meeting of the committee and the school trustees. The audit was completed recently at a cost of $10,000 by a force of twelve men from the Cleveland Audit company.

Total Saving Is 2 Millions.

The report, which embodies the results of the financial survey, recommends the elimination of $1,405,315 in the operating expenses of the schools, which now total about $60,000,000 a year.

It also suggests that an added saving might be made by discontinuing Crane Junior college, on the legal ground that the operation of a college is beyond the board's powers. The cost of operating the junior college is placed at $653,571 in the 1931 budget, therefore the total savings recommended in the report is $2,058,886.

State Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson, chairman of the senate committee, presided at yesterday's joint meeting after it had been opened by President Lewis E. Myers of the school board. The auditors' report was then presented, which proposed the distribution of the cut in annual expenses among the school departments as follows:

Law department	$ 23,000
Educational department	867,555
Business department	514,760
Total	$1,405,315

The report found that the law department position of special tax attorney and special assistant attorney were "dispensable.' William D. Saltiel, who as a member of the city's law department under the old administration acted as "official greeter" for Chicago, is special tax attorney at $50 a day. James Todd, former board attorney, is special attorney at $10,000 a year.

Suspension of Increases.

In the education department, the principal item of saving recommended was the suspension of automatic increases for teachers and civil service employés, which would amount to $607,000 a year, it was pointed out.

It had been announced that several large teachers' delegations would protest against the abolition of automatic increases at the hearings. Several delegations were represented but remained silent when President Myers said:

"Anybody should consider himself fortunate to be drawing any salary at all during these times. I am in favor of adopting this recommendation and I am sure that no teacher will have so little pride or patriotism not to coöperate as a matter of civic duty."

Hold Hearing Thursday.

The delegations and also several representatives of the civil service workers and union laborers were told to return on Thursday when the board will hold a public hearing in which the report will be considered in detail and when every one concerned may have a chance to be heard. The board also decided to hold a meeting at 2 p. m. tomorrow for further discussion of the report by the trustees.

Among the proposed items of saving in the educational department was $72,240.50 for the financing of the educational features of the Chicago and Cook county school for boys.

Would Reduce Superintendents.

It was also suggested that the number of district superintendents in the elementary schools be reduced from 31 to 10, thus effecting a saving of $72,000 a year. A saving of $31,500

NEGRO PREACHES 12 HOURS; COVERS SUBJECTS FULLY

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—The Rev. G. Z. Brown, Negro pastor of the Mount Zion Baptist church, today claimed the world's record for the longest sermon. For twelve hours and ten minutes he preached yesterday. His sermon had been prepared and consisted of 88,794 words by official count.

Four lamb chops, a chicken leg, and a glass of milk sustained him during the ordeal. He had just finished a three weeks' vacation which the congregation voted to prepare him for his long cherished ambition.

Brown's first subject was gambling, which took more than three hours. Companionate marriage occupied him until dark. Law breaking, prohibition, fast living, and "The Evil in Dancing" followed in order. "Famine" was reached about 10 p. m., when time out was taken for the chicken leg. Then "Pestilence" and "Drought," the latter a signal for a few gulps of milk.

The Rev. Mr. Brown finished at midnight "a little husky," as he put it. He described the attendance as excellent; the collection the same.

BROKER WINS ON RACE; LOSES TO 3 BANDITS

James Norris Jr., a member of the Norris & Co. grain brokerage firm, won $500 yesterday on Homewood in the seventh race at Washington Park. In jubilant mood Mr. Norris, who lives at 3500 Sheridan road, and two companions returned to Chicago.

He and H. S. Moore, who occupies a bachelor apartment with him, took the third man of the party, R. R. Finnell, to his hotel at 4135 Sheridan road. As Mr. Norris stopped his automobile in front of the hotel three young men approached. Paying no heed to the crowds passing in motor cars on Sheridan road, the trio displayed pistols.

They first ordered Finelli, sitting on the rear seat, to hand over his money. He gave up $33.

"Now you," said the leader of the gang, indicating Mr. Norris, "give me the money you won on Homewood, and don't argue with me. I saw you cash the tickets."

Sadly Mr. Norris surrendered $700. The robbers drove away in an automobile with Pennsylvania license plates.

Anderson, Labor Draftee, New Minneapolis Mayor

Minneapolis, Minn., June 8.—(AP)—William A. Anderson, a 57 year old lawyer who was drafted by labor organizations to run against a veteran campaigner, today was elected mayor of Minneapolis, defeating George E. Leach, four times holder of the office.

With returns in late tonight from more than one-half of the city, Anderson, who is chairman of the Farmer-Labor state central committee, had a lead of nearly two to one. Figures from 243 precincts out of the 353 precincts in the city gave Anderson, 48,700; Leach, 24,875.

Mr. Hardinge Proves He Is Man of Vision

Franklin Hardinge, wealthy oil burner manufacturer who was in the public eyes two years ago when Ann Livingston sued him for breach of promise, entertained a caller Wednesday afternoon in his office at Hardinge Bros. Inc., 4149 Ravenswood avenue. The affable caller, who gave his name as Mr. Clawson, declared Mr. Hardinge might benefit financially if he would arrange a conference with a M. K. Higginbotham, described as a man of financial vision.

Mr. Hardinge was sorry, but he was engaged until Friday. Mr. Clawson said Mr. Higginbotham might be able to squeeze in an appointment with the manufacturer Friday afternoon. So the appointment was made and a distinguished appearing man presented himself at the proper hour. It was Higginbotham.

A Cure for Depression.

In the conference Mr. Higginbotham outlined a plan to end depression by encouraging people to "invest" in bonds. With a ready tongue Mr. Higginbotham declared public confidence had been shattered in the bond market because of "the middleman's profit." His arrangement, he said, obviated the middleman and transferred his profits to the investor.

Mr. Hardinge listened politely for a while and then excused himself. He said he had a phone call to make. He returned in a few moments to declare he was forced to cut the conference short, but made another appointment for yesterday after expressing interest in the plan.

When Mr. Higginbotham presented himself for the second appointment Mr. Hardinge introduced Louis A. M. Phelan, millionaire head of the Absolute Con-Tack Tor company of Elkhart, Ind., as a friend who was also interested in the plan. He left the two together with Mr. Phelan's secretary.

The secretary pounded a typewriter as Higginbothom explained that the idea had the backing of Senator Watson of Indiana.

"How much would you like to invest?" Higginbothom asked.

"About $50,000," Mr. Phelan answered.

A Vision of Profits.

"Well," answered the financier, "that will pay you $5,000 profit the first three months. At the end of ten years you will realize $10,000,000 and we will give the senator a block of stock."

Phelan asked Mr. Higginbothom to meet his secretary.

"I am happy to meet one of Chicago's leading con men," said the secretary, smiling.

As Higginbothom gasped the secretary explained he was Sergt. John Howe of the detective bureau and had been making notes of the conversation on the typewriter. Mr. Phelan he introduced again to Higginbothom, this time as Sergt. John Drury. At the detective bureau Higginbothom was revealed as having a long record as a confidence man.

The detectives had been on the case since Mr. Hardinge phoned them last Friday.

RIGHT TO SHOOT SEARCHER WHO HAS NO WARRANT

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—(AP)—Citizens searched for liquor on the streets, Judge Edwin O. Lewis, in Common Pleas court, said today, "would have a perfect right to shoot" officers who attempt to find intoxicants in their pockets without a warrant.

Judge Lewis freed a man searched by Patrolman Frank Palozzi as the man came out of a speakeasy just before a raid.

"What authority have you to search persons on the public highway?" the jurist asked the officer.

"You have not a shadow of right to do such a thing and under such conditions a man would have a perfect right to shoot you."

The officer explained, "I was in uniform."

"That makes it worse," retorted the judge. "In the future you had better be careful."

N. U. Professor Shot at Home of Friend in East

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—[Special.]—Dr. Lloyd Herrold, a professor of Northwestern university, Evanston, was mysteriously shot in the right arm tonight. He was inspecting the roses in a garden at the rear of the home of C. C. Parlin, a friend. Police investigators held that some one in the neighborhood had fired the shot while practicing with a rifle. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Parlin, nor Dr. Herrold's wife, who were in the garden, heard the shot.

G. M'Laughlin Dies in Headon Auto Smashup

George D. McLaughlin, 67 years old, veteran Chicago business man and a resident of Lake Forest, was killed late yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which he was riding collided head-on with another car in Waukegan road a mile south of Deerpath avenue, west of Lake Forest. Mr. McLaughlin was a brother of Maj. Frederic McLaughlin.

Mrs. Edith Frost McLaughlin, wife of Mr. McLaughlin, and their daughter, Harriet, 32 years old, were also in the car. They were slightly injured, as was the chauffeur, Fred Smith.

The driver of the other car was Linus Cunningham, 49 years old, 1221 North 31st street, Milwaukee, salesman for a mattress company. He suffered a fractured knee and internal injuries.

How Accident Occurred.

An inquest, with a coroner's jury composed of millionaire residents of Lake Forest, was held last night in the Alice Home hospital, where Mr. McLaughlin was pronounced dead. Testimony showed that Cunningham, south bound, had swung off the road to pass another car going south and that in returning to the pavement his car skidded, swerved to the wrong side of the road, and met the McLaughlin car full on.

It was also shown in the testimony that an almost empty bottle which had contained moonshine was found beside Cunningham's car and that there was a strong odor of liquor on his breath when he was taken to the hospital.

In view of the testimony produced, and with Cunningham unable to testify, the coroner's jury, at the suggestion of Deputy Coroner Maurice D. Penney, continued the inquest to June 17. The members of the jury were Col. A. A. Sprague, John T. Pirie, E. J. Warner, A. A. Carpenter, Charles B. Pike, and D. M. Cummings.

On Way to Home.

The accident occurred at about 5:20 p. m. The McLaughlins were on their way to the family home at 80 West Laurel avenue. Mrs. McLaughlin had been attending a meeting at the Children's Memorial hospital in Chicago. After the crash she and her daughter were taken to the Alice Home hospital. There they were said to be suffering from shock, but left during the evening for their home.

Among those who went to the hospital when news of the accident was spread were Col. Sprague, Mr. Pirie, Mr. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick Sr., Joseph M. Cudahy, Mr. Robert McGann, and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody.

Son of Coffee Co. Founder.

Mr. McLaughlin was the son of W. F. McLaughlin, founder of W. F. McLaughlin & Co., wholesale coffee and tea merchants. He and his brother, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, husband of Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, took over the management of the company when their father died in 1905.

Mr. McLaughlin was also secretary of Wakem & McLaughlin Co., owning and conducting warehouses. He was a member of the Chicago Association of Commerce and numerous clubs, including the Chicago, Saddle and Cycle, Old Elm, Onwentsia, Shoreacres and Casino.

Besides his widow and daughter, Mr. McLaughlin is survived by three sons, George, Herbert and Fred McLaughlin.

CONSOLIDATIONS OF FOUR HOUSES GO INTO EFFECT

200,000 Depositors Are Reassured.

Assets of the Foreman-State banks, valued at about $200,000,000, were hauled through the loop last night while thousands of spectators looked on. The treasure was taken from the Foreman vaults to the vaults of the First National. Details on Page 3.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The greatest banking consolidations in Chicago's financial history, arranged in the early morning hours yesterday, were received with surprising calm yesterday by more than 200,000 depositors of the merged banks.

The officers and staffs of the First National, First Union Trust and Savings, Foreman-State National, and Foreman-State Trust and Savings banks were busily completing the detailed work of their consolidation. The staffs of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and National Bank of the Republic were similarly engaged. The only unusual activity among the downtown institutions so far as the public was concerned centered in the Foreman-State building at La Salle and Washington streets.

Speed Task of Removal.

As the huge task of moving the holdings of the Foreman banks, valued at $200,000,000, progressed last night it was announced that practically all the business of the Foreman-State banks will be done today and hereafter at the First National and First Union Trust and Savings banks, with combined banking quarters in the First National bank building at Dearborn, Monroe and Clark streets. Probably the only department to remain open in the Foreman-State bank building will be the safety deposit vaults, it was said.

The only really untoward incident connected, though indirectly, with the vast transactions was the closing of six outlying banks, three of which had been identified with the Foreman-State banks. On the other hand, two other banks in which the Foreman-State interests had stock holdings remained open. It was indicated that the closing of several banks was largely of a precautionary measure pending plans for reorganizations.

Atmosphere Is Cleared.

The statements of Chicago's financiers that all the deposits of the merged banks were well safeguarded appeared to have allayed all uneasiness. Among bankers, business men, and bank depositors, big and small, there seemed to be a feeling that the events of Sunday had "cleared the atmosphere" and that the mergers had resulted in increased power and prestige for Chicago as a financial center.

Chicagoans appeared to take pride in the fact that the consolidations give the city even larger banking institutions and greater financial power than heretofore. The First National-Foreman-State merger creates a banking group with resources of nearly $900,000,000, or within striking distance of the billion dollar mark. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company already is in the billion dollar class. The merger of the Central Trust company and the National Bank of the Republic into the new Central Republic Bank and Trust company creates an institution with total resources of about $350,000,000.

U. S. Stamp of Approval.

Something of the sentiment of Chicagoans was echoed by John W. Poole, controller of the currency of the United States treasury department and charged with the administration of all national banks in the country. He placed the stamp of government approval on the two big mergers.

"I think the mergers will have a clarifying effect on banking conditions," Mr. Poole said in Washington, D. C. "The benefits to be derived from these two mergers should be very great. Public confidence should be inspired by the concentration of funds in these institutions. The mergers unquestionably will meet with public approval.

"The consolidations fill Chicago's need for great banking institutions. A great city like Chicago necessarily requires great banking institutions. The great loop banks always have been progressive and the present combinations undoubtedly will be in position to serve Chicago's financial interests better than ever."

Posters Announce Safeguard.

The events of the previous thirty-six hours made it inevitable that the Foreman-State banks should be the chief focus of activity. These banks opened promptly on time yesterday morning and groups of depositors and investors were waiting to enter the banking quarters. They were greeted by large placards announcing that the First National and the First Trust and Savings banks were guaranteeing all deposits of the Foreman-State banks and had taken over the business. Posters on all the windows also announced that the banks were being operated by the new owners.

Twice during the first hour Walter W. Head, president of the Foreman-State banks, stood on a chair on the two main banking floors and explained to the throngs the main facts of the consolidation and that all deposits were safe.

"Now, all of you who believe me, raise your hands," he challenged, and hands swung up around the room.

"All right, then," he finished. "All of you who aren't afraid get out of the way and let those who are afraid get up to the windows and get their money."

Crowd Cheers and Laughs.

The final sally drew a cheer and a laugh from the crowd. Officers of the First National and First Union Trust banks, headed by Melvin A. Traylor, president, and Edward E. Brown, vice president, also were on hand to give individual reassurances. And then, as well as later, it appeared that the crowd was made up of curiosity seekers as well as depositors and customers.

The bulk of withdrawals that occurred during the day was accomplished in the first two hours, and these were somewhat offset by deposits. At the end of the day officials of both banks expressed surprise at the comparatively small net withdrawals. On the basis of these withdrawals, officials of the First National-First Union Trust group held high hopes of retaining the great bulk of the Foreman-State deposits, which aggregated close to $200,000,000.

Public Funds on Deposit.

Some $13,200,000 of the city of Chicago's general funds and about $100,000 of the river straightening fund was deposited in the Foreman-State banks. Also between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 of Cook county funds and about $8,000,000 of state of Illinois funds was on deposit.

Despite the placards in the Foreman-State banks and explanations of the staffs, numerous small depositors misinterpreted the announcements that Foreman deposits had become First National bank deposits. Mr. Traylor related an amusing illustration.

"A depositor appeared confused and I went up to him and asked if I could help him," said Mr. Traylor. "He said he had to get his money out of the Foreman-State bank and take it over to the First Trust and Savings. He was satisfied when I explained that we would do that for him."

Rush to Make Deposits.

Whether this misunderstanding was the cause or not, the First National and First Union Trust banks received an unusually large volume of deposits, even for a Monday. The long lines of depositors at the cages of the receiving tellers were in sharp contrast to the few persons before the paying tellers' windows. The Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic appeared to be doing about the normal Monday volume of business.

Anxieties of the army of employes of the Foreman-State banks and the National Bank of the Republic also were relieved, at least temporarily.

Mr. Traylor announced that all employes of the Foreman-State banks would be retained for the immediate future, while a similar announcement was made by Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, concerning employes of the National Bank of the Republic.

The details of the consolidation of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic will be worked out by joint committees of both banks with equal representation, according to an announcement by John W. O'Leary, president of the Bank of the Republic. He emphasized that the merger, creating a bank with a third of a billion dollars in resources, will help materially to advance Chicago's financial position. It will be the third largest Chicago bank.

While official announcement of the personnel of the new Central Republic bank will not be decided for several days, it was understood in La Salle street that Mr. Clarke will continue as president.

Yesterday morning the merger of two outlying banks also was announced. The Lawndale National bank, 3337 West 26th street, and the Twenty-sixth Street State bank, 3856 West 26th street, consolidated, the latter institution being moved to the quarters of the former over the week-end.

Money for Stockholders.

There was a word of cheer for the Foreman-State stockholders in the terms of the consolidation. The First National-First Union Trust group agreed to pay a fee of 1 per cent on commercial deposits and 3 per cent on savings deposits eventually retained. This would run into several million dollars if the First National-Union Trust group retained the bulk of the Foreman-State deposits.

However, such a return to the Foreman-State stockholders and anything else they may realize from their stock holdings will depend on the eventual liquidation of the business. The net value of the stock will depend on whether the assets can be liquidated for more than the two banks' liabilities, including their deposits.

The statement of the Foreman-State banks on March 25 showed combined capital, surplus and undivided profits of about $30,000,000. One of the difficulties in liquidating assets is the fact that the Foreman-State interests hold the Foreman-State Bank building and also the old State Bank of Chicago building at La Salle and Monroe streets, the latter being acquired when the State bank was absorbed several years ago. Disposal of these buildings probably will have to await a more favorable real estate market.

Valuation of Buildings.

The last statement of the Foreman-State banks showed the two buildings carried at a total value of $12,400,000. The banks also had more than $135,000,000 in outstanding loans and discounts and more than $31,500,000 was due from other banks. La Salle street bankers guessed yesterday on how much of the latter amount was due from the outlying banks with Foreman-State affiliations. The banks also owned bonds and stocks, aside from government securities, carried at $7,773,000.

The effect of the consolidations on the market quotations of Chicago bank shares also was interesting to stockholders. Only a nominal market was reported for Foreman-State National shares, with scattered offerings at $75 a share but no bids. National Bank of the Republic stock sagged to around $35 for the $20 par value shares, a decline of 5 or 6 points.

On the other hand, First National stock advanced some 30 points to around $415 a share and Central Trust stock advanced some 5 points to around $173 a share.

The shrinkage in value of Foreman-State National bank stock has been severe in the last two years. When the merger of the Foreman banks and the State Bank of Chicago took place in 1928, Foreman bank stock sold above $1,200 a share. The stockholders of the state bank were offered a share for share exchange for Foreman National stock or a cash price of $1,200 a share if they did not wish to make the exchange.

According to reports in La Salle street, a group of large Foreman stockholders, including the Foreman family and some of the directors, had invested around $6,000,000 in stock bought from the State bank stockholders of the State bank were offered two or three years. This group also was reputed to have invested several million dollars in the stocks of the outlying banks.

Combined holdings of the members of the Foreman family have averaged around 30,000 shares of Foreman-State stock, or nearly one-third of the total capital stock of 110,000 shares. At the peak of the bank stock market these holdings had a quoted value exceeding $36,000,000.

Outlying Banks Close.

The outlying banks that closed yesterday were the Sheridan Trust and Savings, 4753 Broadway; the Washington Park National bank, 6306 Cottage Grove avenue, and the South Side Savings Bank and Trust company, 4659 Cottage Grove avenue, which were identified with the Foreman-State banks; and the Inland-Irving National bank, 3985 Milwaukee avenue; the Industrial State bank, 4700 South State street, and the Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank, 2900 East 79th street.

These six banks had total resources of more than $35,000,000 on March 25 and aggregate deposits of exceeding $29,000,000, although these are reported to have shrunk considerably in the last two months as the result of withdrawals. The figures for the individual banks were about as follows: Sheridan Trust, resources $10,009,000, deposits $8,558,000; Washington Park National, resources $10,625,000, deposits $8,964,000; South Side Savings, resources $5,322,000, deposits $4,401,000; Inland-Irving National, resources $7,961,000, deposits $6,516,000; Industrial State, resources $509,000, deposits $263,000; Cheltenham Trust, resources $696,000, deposits $428,000.

Traylor Assures Depositors of 1st National Guarantee

The following information and instructions for the thousands of depositors and customers of the Foreman-State banks were issued yesterday by Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National and First Union Trust and Savings banks:

"The First National bank and the First Union Trust and Savings bank at 4 o'clock this morning became the sole owners of the banks, buildings, and other properties of the Foreman-State National bank and the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank. We have guaranteed unequivocally all deposits of the Foreman banks.

"All transactions with the Foreman-State bank from today on, and including today, are with the First National banks. Customers of the Foreman-State banks today make their deposits at the Foreman-State banks and the checks on Foreman-State banks are honored the same as if they were First National bank checks.

"All persons today presenting their bank books at the Foreman-State banks will have them stamped First National and savings bank books First National and Savings bank, until new bank books are issued, but we are doing business today at the Foreman-State bank on First National bank stationery. New pass books and new check books of the First National bank will be issued to all customers if requested. However, checks on the Foreman-State banks by customers will be honored just the same."

CENTRAL TRUST MERGER TOLD BY PHILIP R. CLARKE

The consolidation of the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic was formerly announced yesterday by Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Trust company, in the following statement:

"Pursuant to subsequent ratification by the stockholders, the respective boards of directors of Central Trust Company of Illinois and the National Bank of the Republic at meeting held this morning approved the following terms of the anticipated merger:

"The new bank will be known as Central Republic Bank and Trust company and will be located in the present quarters of Central Trust Company of Illinois at 208 South La Salle street. The total capitalization will probably amount to $33,000,000, of which $14,000,000 will represent capital stock of the bank and $14,000,000 will be allocated to surplus and undivided profits. The remaining $5,000,000 will constitute the capital and surplus of the investment affiliate.

"Other features, including the appointment of personnel of the new institution, will be determined by a consolidation committee within a few days. No date has been set for the actual physical consolidation, but this will be accomplished as soon as the various legal details will permit."

WOMAN BURNED AS FIRE SWEEPS HER APARTMENT

Firemen, summoned early today to the Canterbury apartments at 1220 North State street, broke into the apartment of Miss Geraldine Smith and found her, unconscious and possibly fatally burned, lying on the floor.

The floor and the furnishings of the apartment were blazing. After the fire had been extinguished Miss Smith was taken to the Henrotin hospital, where it was said her condition was critical. She is about 35 years old and, according to Paul Leston, clerk of the apartments, was believed by other residents in the hotel to be an attorney. Her name does not appear in the lawyer's directory. She went to live in the apartment building in August, 1930, and was formerly a resident of Tekamah, Neb.

In the opinion of Battalion Chief John E. Murray, Miss Smith fell asleep on a couch while smoking a cigaret and the upholstery ignited. Apparently smoke made her unconscious.

DISCUSS MERGER OF 2 IMPORTANT NEW YORK BANKS

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Discussions looking to a consolidation of the Continental Bank and Trust company and the International Trust company, two important downtown New York banks having combined resources of more than $67,000,000, are under way, it was reported today.

The Continental company, at one time known as the German-American bank, was reorganized in 1929 when its capital was raised from $2,000,000 to $8,000,000.

The International Trust was organized in 1927 as the International Germanic Trust company. Both banks, particularly the Continental, do a considerable volume of Wall street business.

THOUSANDS AWED BY $200,000,000 MOVING IN LOOP

Armored Trucks Transfer Bank Securities.

With thousands of spectators awed with awe or curiosity, a treasure valued at about $200,000,000 was moved through the blocked off streets of the loop last night in the consummation of the merger of the Foreman-State banks with the First National group.

The transfer of the gigantic store of cash, bonds, and other resources of the Foreman-State banks, of which the First National took control at 4 o'clock yesterday, was accomplished amid much craning of necks and delays by curiosity seekers, but with no untoward incident.

More than 500 armed guards, including 350 city police, 100 special police of both banking institutions, and fifty guards of the Brinks Express company were stationed at both ends and along the route of transfer to maintain order among the crowds and discourage any possible banditry.

Ready in New Quarters.

By midnight the fleet of 24 armored trucks and vans engaged on the task were down to the last few filing cabinets of the Foreman-State equipment. First National officers said they expected to be ready at 9 a. m. to accommodate all customers of the Foreman-State bank in the First National banking house at Clark, Monroe, and Dearborn streets.

With the exception, First National officials announced, would be the removal of Foreman-State safety deposit vaults.

The corner of La Salle and Washington streets, site of the forty story Foreman-State building, resembled an armed camp when the moving began. At 7:55 p. m. the time lock on the Foreman-State vaults snapped back and the first load was wheeled out.

Police Officials on Hand.

Flash guns boomed and the flares of several newspapermen cast a glare over the crowds as the hand truck piled with bags of silver was pushed up a ramp to a steel van. Police Commissioner Allman, Deputy Commissioner James B. Reanlan, Chief of Detectives John Burton and lesser police officials were on hand.

The first van moved off amid the hail of sirens and the clang of gongs as fired cars, one of which preceded the van while two others covered the rear. The route was south in La Salle street to Monroe and east on Monroe to Clark, traffic officers being stationed at each corner to warn the convoy through an occasional red stoplight.

Handling the Coin.

Rounding a sweeping circle, the van wheeled into position at the Clark street entrance of the First National with armored police tossed their vehicle and patrolmen spread elbows to hold the crowds in line.

"Take it on the run," yelled a police officer captain and a dozen men shouldered the load of coin in on the public bank floor while six others stood guard in the doorway with sawed-off shotguns.

The transfer was in charge of A. [illegible], vice president in charge of operations of the First National, and Elmer Dunphy, chief of the First National private police, directing the details of armed guards. It was the big story for Chief Dunphy, who helped transfer the assets of the National Bank of Illinois to the First National merger in 1836.

Baby Mixup Straightened Out

William R. Watkins and Mrs. Margaret Stahle Watkins, with their child, who was the center of attention last summer when the baby was accidentally exchanged for that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger at a local hospital. The case brought charges that Watkins' second marriage was bigamous. His first wife, Mrs. Anna Stan Watkins, Philadelphia, yesterday obtained a divorce and Watkins and his present wife were remarried to remove all doubts as to the legality of their match.

REWEDS MOTHER OF 'MIXED' BABY AFTER DIVORCE

Watkins' First Wife Is Granted Decree.

The final chapter of the family dispute of William R. Watkins, father of one of the infants in the Watkins-Bamberger baby mixup of a year ago, was completed yesterday. On the obtaining of a divorce by his first wife, Mrs. Anna Van Stan Watkins, in Philadelphia, Watkins remarried the mother of his child, Mrs. Margaret Stahle Watkins, last night.

ANNA WATKINS.

When the first wife appeared in the celebrated case last year Watkins asserted his second marriage was not bigamous. He declared he had divorced his first wife in Cook county in 1838. No record of the divorce could be found. Watkins then told inquirers he had keep the proceedings a secret because he did not wish to injure the reputation of the first Mrs. Watkins, who is 30 years old and a cabaret entertainer.

The mixup followed on the birth of two boys in a south side hospital. One of the mothers discovered the name of the other infant on some surgeon's tape on the child in her possession. For a time the women refused to exchange infants, but were persuaded to do so several weeks later by physicians after a series of tests to determine the parentage of the offsprings.

"Now Bill can remarry the mother of the tangle baby," the first wife said. "I want him to do the right thing. No I don't regret being divorced. It's better this way. His second wife is welcome to Bill and I wish them luck."

The suit was brought on grounds that did not interfere with the legality of the second marriage. She charged desertion. The couple have a son now 12 years old. The custody of this son was awarded Mrs. Anna Watkins. She waived alimony.

Word of the divorce was telegraphed to the Watkins home here at 1619 West 82d street. The Watkinses obtained a license and were remarried by Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli. They said they were very happy. The baby was present at the ceremony.

The first wife learned of the whereabouts of her husband through newspaper accounts of the baby mixup.

LIFE WAS SLOW FOR EX-PUG, BUT HE PEPPED IT UP

Catches Two Men Who Shot Policeman.

Frank Rogers, ex-pugilist, ex-aviator, and war veteran, was sitting in his automobile at Madison and Green streets yesterday afternoon dreaming wistfully of the days when he pommeled an adversary in the ring, or piloted a racing plane in a cross country air Derby, or participated in the bombardment of German lines in France. Life for Rogers, now an athletic goods salesman, had become a dull affair.

From the entrance of the Schulze Biscuit company factory at 25 North Green street, near by, emerged Patrolman Edward M. O'Donnell of the Des Plaines street station and Miss Lillian Rice, 2228 Abbott court. Miss Rice carried in a brief case $600 in cash and $2,400 in checks. O'Donnell was to escort her to the Mid-City Trust and Savings bank at Madison and Halsted streets.

Robbers Fire on Guard.

Two men stepped up to the policeman and girl. One snatched at the brief case. When O'Donnell grappled with him the other bandit drew a revolver and fired twice. One bullet penetrated the policeman's neck and glanced through his breast near the heart. O'Donnell fell to the sidewalk, probably fatally wounded.

Rogers, a short distance away, was awakened from his dreams by the shots, and ran to the side of the policeman as he fell.

"Give me your gun!" he shouted, and snatched the officer's pistol from its holster. The robbers were still in sight and running down the street. After them sped Rogers.

Fires in the Air.

As he ran east on Washington street after the men, the ex-pugilist fired two shots in the air to attract attention of policemen near by. But he did not stop.

Rounding the corner at full speed, he began to overtake the bandits. They attempted to hide beneath a parked car and were caught in the act.

"Come out from under there and come out with your hands in the air!" commanded Rogers. The two came out trembling. Police took them into custody. They gave the names of Mike Trotta, 25, of 924 South Ashland avenue, and Nick Floridia, 22, 1933 Taylor street.

On the roof of a shed near where they were captured the police found two 38 caliber revolvers. Two shots had been fired from one of the guns.

Both Bandits Confess.

At the detective bureau Floridia confessed to the shooting. He told Lieut. Phil Carroll that he had met Trotta Friday and that Trotta had planned the robbery, stating that he knew the girl. Trotta's confession differed only in that he stated Floridia planned the robbery. He said Floridia shot O'Donald.

They planned to stick up the girl and the policeman, grab the bag containing the money and the policeman's gun, and escape in their automobile, they said.

Yesterday they parked their automobile at Taylor and Halsted streets and walked to the scene of the robbery. Their plans went wrong when O'Donnell resisted and did not raise his hands. Both stated they ran immediately after the shooting and did not get the money. Police believe some onlooker ran off with the money during the excitement.

Policeman O'Donnell, who lives at 4907 Fulton street, and is the father of three children, was taken to the county hospital where physicians said he had little chance to live.

Three brothers of the wounded policeman were called to the hospital and their blood types determined for transfusion. One, Arthur O'Donnell, 38 years old, a fireman attached to Engine company 16, gave his brother nearly a quart of blood.

The two other brothers were Joseph, 39 years old, a patrolman at the Stanton avenue station, and William, 41 years old, a fireman belonging to Engine company 67. They and Arthur all live with their families at 4207 Congress street.

Rogers, who is 35 years old, once fought in the prize ring under the name of "Joe Totten." He served in the world war with both British and American field artillery units in France. After the war he became interested in aviation and was an entrant in the Spokane-Los Angeles national air races of three years ago.

LAND SEIZED FOR CABINET CAMP, OWNERS CHARGE

Say Marines Took and Hold Rapidan Site.

Madison, Va., June 8.—[Special.]—Seizure of private land without permission in conjunction with President Hoover's Rapidan camp and the erection thereon of a $20,000 camp for cabinet officers was revealed today in a hearing in condemnation proceedings to acquire several thousand acres of land for the Shenandoah National park.

The seized land for the cabinet camp, which is held without a lease, belongs to the Madison Timber corporation, a subsidiary of the Ward-Rue Lumber company. The company is claiming $20,000 for the value of the building built upon the property for the cabinet camp. This camp is about one mile below President Hoover's and is so protected by the marines that the owners have been denied entry to it.

The testimony that the cabinet camp was built without permission of any of the owners was given by C. D. Rue, vice president and general manager of the Ward-Rue companies.

State Disclaims Blame.

William Armstrong, attorney for the state of Virginia in the condemnation proceedings, repudiated responsibility for the seizure of the land and said: "I don't think that the state commission of conservation and development is responsible for the situation."

Earlier in the day it was brought out by testimony of Matthew L. Rue, president of the company, that the marine corral also was located on his company's property and that that land had been seized without permission and occupied for nearly a year before a lease was sought and obtained. When the owners attempted to enter the land they were detained and forced to leave, according to testimony.

The marines first entered the property of the two lumber companies in March, 1929, it was testified.

Outside Hoover Camp.

The buildings of the President's camp are not located on the timber company's property, but considerable privately owned land is in the possession of the marines who guard the camp.

That land is now leased, but was occupied for a year without lease or permission.

The camp for cabinet officers was built upon the timber company property two months before the condemnation proceedings were begun, it is asserted. Legal title to the property remains to this day with the Madison Timber corporation.

Because of "improvements" on the property and its proximity to the President's camp, the assessments have been increased and the owners have had to pay greater taxes than they otherwise would.

A marine guard is posted over a large area of the land and no one is allowed to enter the property except persons invited to the President's camp.

The condemnation proceedings, of which today's hearing is a part, were instituted by the state commission for the purpose of obtaining lands for the Shenandoah National park. Several thousand acres owned by the two companies are involved, but it is only a relatively small part of this area which has been occupied in connection with the President's camp. The marines moved upon the property in question apparently in the belief that it was controlled by the state commission, whose permission they had.

DEAD BURGLAR UNIDENTIFIED.

The body of a burglar, shot to death by a watchman as he fled from the Arnopol drug store, 731 South Dearborn street, early yesterday, remained unidentified at the county morgue last night.

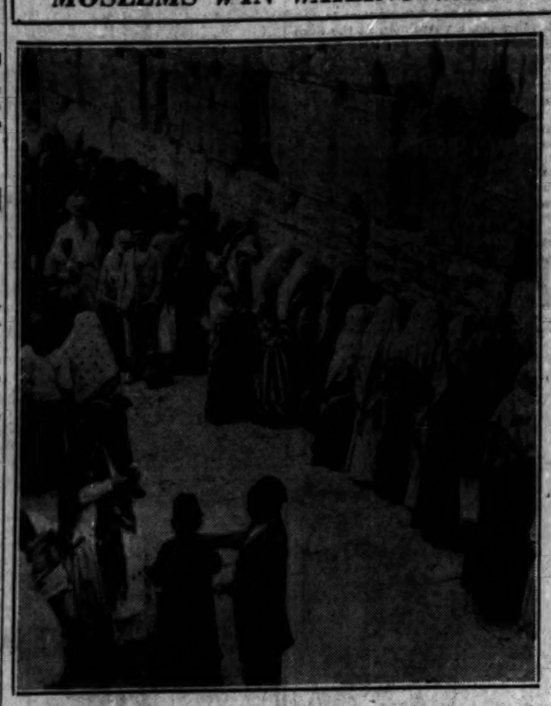
MOSLEMS WIN WAILING WALL



The famous wall at Jerusalem, supposed to be part of the ancient temple, over which Jews and Moslems have often clashed in fatal riots, has been awarded to the Mohammedans by the British. It is stipulated, however, that the Jews shall not be denied access to the wall for devotional purposes, although they are restricted in their religious exercises in several ways. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

BRITAIN AWARDS WAILING WALL TO THE MOSLEMS

But Grants Jews Access at All Times.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—Sole ownership of the historic wailing wall in Jerusalem and the pavement fronting it belongs to the Moslems. This was the unanimous conclusion of three non-British commissioners appointed last year by Great Britain with the approval of the league of nations council, according to a report issued tonight after a long investigation of the Jewish and Moslem claims.

Other findings of the commission include:

The Jews shall have free access to the wall for devotional purposes at all times, subject to certain stipulations concerning the "appurtenances of worship," most of which are to be allowed only on special occasions.

Ram's Horn Barred.

The shofar, or ram's horn, is not to be blown near the wall to disturb the Moslems, while the Moslem Zikr ceremony must not be carried on too close to the pavement during Jewish devotions.

Political speeches or demonstrations in the vicinity of the wall are forbidden.

Reports from Jerusalem tonight say the commission's findings meet divergent views there.

"It is a religious and political victory for the Jews, and a tactical victory for the Moslems," is the opinion of Auni Bey Abdul Hadi, secretary of the Palestine Arab executive board and the attorney for the Moslem supreme council.

Chief Rabbi Sonnenfeld, representing the extreme orthodox Jews, declared that the report was satisfactory.

The Jerusalem mufti, Haj Amin el Husseini, considers that the report is unfair for the Moslems, denying them unfettered privileges to which they were hitherto entitled.

Reproduction on Long Island.

Manhasset, L. I., June 8.—[Special.]—With the wailing wall in Jerusalem making news for the international press because of a long disputed right to its use by the Jews and the Moslems, Mrs. Martin W. Littleton saw the finishing touches placed today on a replica of the wall she has built on her Piandome estate.

Miss Frieda Abrahams, an artist of Jerusalem, who has won fame in this country and Europe for her biblical paintings, finished the panorama mural of Palestine thta extends along 100 feet of the wall. Mrs. Littleton has had the wall erected to inclose a biblical library that she has been collecting for many years.

LINCOLN SHERIFF COMING HERE TO IDENTIFY BANDIT

Sheriff Claude Hensel and County Attorney Max Towle of Lincoln, Neb., are on their way to Chicago, where they will attempt to identify Ernest Rossi, alias Ross, as one of the bandits who last September robbed the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company of $2,500,000. Rossi was arrested yesterday at Ogden avenue and Washington boulevard by Investigator George Williams of the state's attorney's office.

Four witnesses of the robbery will be brought here later by Deputy Sheriff Farley Young of Lincoln. Rossi will be taken before the four, who already have identified him by photographs.

Rossi is suspected also of the murder of Policeman Ray Martin, who was killed here two years ago while police were attempting to trap a gang of kidnapers.

COAST GUARD MOVES FROM EVANSTON TO NEW HARBOR HOME

Members of the Evanston coast guard crew yesterday abandoned their historic quarters at the foot of Clark street in that suburb to move into a new $80,000 building on the Wilmette yacht harbor.

The old building, erected in 1872, was the starting point of many a hazardous trip into the stormy waters of Lake Michigan by the crew which was composed originally of students of Northwestern university.

The crew saw its first service on the night of Dec. 8, 1860, when the steamer Lady Elgin burned with a loss of many lives. The student crew was supplanted by regular coast guardsmen in 1915. Since that time the station has been under the command of Capt. Otto E. Fricke.

STAND FALLS AT GARY PAGEANT; FIFTY ARE HURT

Women Trampled as 500 Crash to Ground.

Five hundred men, women, and children were crowded last night on a temporary stand, viewing Gary's pageant of progress on the Marquette park lake front, the climax of the city's spring holiday, when the supports of the structure gave way and precipitated the whole of the throng to the ground.

Seventy fifty and sixty were injured in the crash and the panic that followed. Of these fourteen, one a 14 year old boy and the others women, were so seriously hurt that they were taken to hospitals for treatment.

A crowd of more than 25,000 had gathered to attend the pageant which depicted the history of the industrial city at the foot of the lake and of the surrounding Calumet region since the days of the explorer, Father Marquette. These were spread out over the park grounds ward. Marquette park is on the lake front east of Gary.

Several Trampled Under Foot.

When the crash occurred there was a rush of those on the stands to get away and another rush of their friends on the ground to get to them and aid them out of the wreckage. Several of the injured were trampled before the policemen and firemen and members of the 113th Engineers, Indiana National Guard, could restore order.

Among the more seriously injured, all residents of Gary, are:

Mrs. Mabel Frane, 46 years old, 778 Connecticut street, fractured ankle and cuts.

Miss Ethel Brewer, 25 years old, daughter of Mrs. Frane, cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Hazel Fisher, 30 years old, 1112 Maryland street, fractured leg.

Mrs. I. R. Johnson, 70 years old, 673 Adams street, dislocated knee and fractured leg.

Mrs. Veronica Kish, 27 years old, 1101 Harrison street, bruises and cuts.

Mrs. Victoria Delatovich, 40 years old, 1061 West 6th avenue, fractured leg.

Mrs. Anna Filipovich, 40 years old, 1101 Washington street, fractured leg.

Miss Lucille Slaughter, 19 years old, 1101 Johnson street, head injuries.

Mrs. Rose Whittington, 30 years old, 1101 Johnson street, sister of Miss Slaughter, injuries to legs and ribs.

Mrs. Eleanor O'Brien, 50 years old, 1111 Carolina street, fractured leg.

John Figus, 14 years old, 1308 Lincoln street, fractured collar bone.

Miss Laura Fuga, 16 years old, 750 English street, fractured arm.

Mrs. John Marien, 56 years old, 16th Avenue and Tyler street, fractured leg.

One resident of Calumet City was among the injured. She is Mrs. John Wagner, 116 Warren street. Her injuries included a fractured hip and head cuts.

It was about 9:30 o'clock when the collapse of the stand occurred. The structure had been set above the steep bank of the lagoon and many of those with the supposedly favorable places on it were hurled down to the water's edge by the crash.

After order had been restored the pageant proceeded to its close. Many of the 2,000 who took part in it and of the large throng attending were unaware there had been an accident.

OFFERED BLOOD

MRS. RUTH M'CAULL AND SON.

STRANGE MALADY ATTACKS SECOND EVANSTON WOMAN

Seventy-five Evanston policemen yesterday volunteered to give their blood to aid the wife of a comrade, the victim of a strange malady, agranulo-cytosis, which causes a deficiency in white blood corpuscles and leaves the patient helpless to throw off the infection. The disease, which is puzzling physicians, has attacked Mrs. Ruth McCaull, 39 years old, 1916 Grant street, Evanston, wife of Policeman Robert McCaull.

Mrs. McCaull a week ago suffered an infection of the mouth. Four days later Dr. Lawrence J. Lawson of the staff at the Evanston hospital diagnosed her as a victim of the strange malady. Hers is the second case in the suburb in several months. Mrs. August R. Hatton, wife of the head of the political science department at Northwestern university, died after several blood transfusions.

Yesterday Dr. Lawrence called into consultation Dr. F. W. Burcky, who attended Mrs. Hatton.

JUDGE UPHOLDS WRIT TO DEPORT GANGSTER VOLPE

U.S. Scores Again in War on Public Enemies.

While federal prosecutors were conferring yesterday on plans to bring Al Capone to an early trial on charges of income tax evasion, Federal Judge Wilkerson, dismissing a writ of habaes corpus, remanded Tony (Mops) Volpe, one of Capone's leading henchmen, for deportation.

TONY VOLPE.

Judge Wilkerson's decision was believed by federal prosecutors to assure the deportation of Volpe for it was based on two Circuit Court of Appeals opinions in identical cases. Volpe, however, will appeal the case. Meanwhile he is at liberty in bond of $10,000.

Claim Two Grounds.

The government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Dodd Healy, contended that the Capone gangster, for whom a warrant of deportation had been issued by the secretary of labor, was deportable on two grounds. It was argued that Volpe's reentry into this country as an alien after an airplane jaunt to Havana was illegal because he had previously been convicted of a crime of moral turpitude. The second contention was that Volpe made false and misleading statements to the immigration inspectors at Key West, Fla., thereby evading inspection.

Judge Wilkerson cited two Circuit Court of Appeals cases holding against the government's first contention, and declared that aliens were excluded only when they had committed a crime of moral turpitude in another country. Volpe's crime, counterfeiting, was committed in Chicago in 1924.

Hit on Citizenship Claim.

As to the second contention, Judge Wilkerson reviewed the evidence showing that Volpe claimed to be a naturalized citizen when he entered at Key West, whereas the records show his naturalization certificate was revoked shortly after it was issued in 1922. The court then cited decisions of two Appellate courts holding that aliens who evade examination as to their qualifications for entry by claiming citizenship are deportable.

No date for Al Capone's arraignment was agreed upon at the conference of United States Attorney Johnson and his assistants yesterday, but it was reported that when the gang chief is called in for his plea the government wishes to be ready for a definite trial date. Arrangements must first be made for a judge to take the case.

GIRL SLAIN WITH A FILE; POLICE HUNT FOR SUITOR

Letters Reveal Many Love Affairs.

With a file half an inch wide driven through her heart, the body of Miss Rose Kulzer, 20 years old, was found yesterday morning in the basement of the apartment building at 2241 Commonwealth avenue, where she was employed by Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Smith. Mr. Smith is the Chicago representative of a manufacturer of women's apparel.

Police began a search for Folke Oberg, formerly an assistant janitor in the building, who had repeatedly asked the girl to marry him and had threatened her because of her refusals. A new white gold wedding ring was found under the body, where it had apparently been placed by the murderer.

Had Numerous Suitors.

The girl, a pretty blond, who came to this country from Germany two years ago, had numerous suitors, her employers said. On the night before her death she received a telephone call from a man who presumably complained because she had been avoiding him.

"I don't care if you haven't seen me for two weeks," the maid told the man over the telephone. "I'm going to get myself another fellow and you can go hang."

One Suitor Theatens Death.

Letters found in the maid's room revealed that Oberg was the most persistent of nine or ten men who were in love with her. Oberg wanted the girl to marry him and go to Sweden. At a party which the two attended recently, Oberg became angered because Miss Kulzer paid attention to another man and produced a revolver, threatening to kill her, witnesses said.

Among the letters found in her room was one signed "Folke Oberg," dated April 6 and postmarked Chicago:

"Oh, dear—oh, dear—oh, dear! How are things going?

"The greater the love the heavier the price and, many a man will tell you that love costs too much. They will say you are wasting yourself, but they will be wrong. Love is worth all it costs and much, much more.

"If any one ever was caught, I surely am. I feel as if I just can't do what I want to and yet I am bound to by the happiness we have known together. You boasted of your faith for me [was it a faith that never had to face a test, really such a great affair?]. Now that the test has come, how much faith have you, how much courage, how much love? But, my dear Rose, it is up to you, anything you say goes. You know what I promised you and that I will keep sincerely."

Another signed merely "E," but according to police written by the same hand, ran:

"Just a few lines to let you know that I am back in Chicago. It has been a long time since I met you, sweetheart. Please let me call you my own; I will never forget that night when I kissed you the first time. It was wonderful. I will be over to your house Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. I will take my car along and we could take a ride to Michigan City if you like."

Miss Kulzer is believed to have descended to the laundry in the basement about 5:30 a. m. to wash some clothing. No screams were heard, but upturned furniture about the place indicated that a struggle had taken place before the murder. The girl was also beaten about the head and face.

WHACK OUT FAT IN CONTRACT FOR WABASH VIADUCT

Sprague to Refuse to Pay Builder's Claim.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, has decided to save a large sum on the proposed payments for the viaduct and approach to the Wabash avenue bridge. The contracts were let by Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works under the old city hall régime. The Ketler-Elliott company is the contractor.

After a month of investigation Commissioner Sprague has decided that some of the work performed was unnecessary, other work was done at an exorbitant price, and a large part of the whole was unauthorized by the city council. Commissioner Sprague considers the claims of the contractor excessive and will deduct a minimum of $180,000, and perhaps another $100,000—the reckoning is not yet complete—from the contractor's total claims.

The contractor's unit prices applied to the department's estimates of the work involved show that the original viaduct contract price was an aggregate of $429,929.50. The contractor now asks $1,031,091.02.

Recall Various Contracts.

To explain the significance of the situation, present officials recall that the voters approved a bond issue on April 5, 1927, to erect a new Wabash avenue bridge, together with a viaduct and approach on the north side. The general plan was approved by the Chicago Plan commission on April 20, 1929. Wolfe obtained bids for the substructure of the bridge in August and awarded the contract to the Ketler-Elliott company on Nov. 3, 1929. That company also built the viaduct. Its contract price on the substructure was $457,505.50.

F. C. Martini, contract engineer of the department of public works has reported to Commissioner Sprague that "the final voucher estimate, dated July 24, 1930, indicates a total payment of $880,518.92" for the substructure. Martini says the "largest single item—$251,000—of the excess cost was caused by carrying the subpiers [caissons] to rock at —105 below city datum, instead of stopping at —75. The contract price was $12.50 per cubic foot."

Then came the superstructure for the bridge, the contract for which was awarded on Dec. 23, 1929. Again the Ketler-Elliott company was the low bidder. The contract price was a lump sum of $670,000, plus unit prices on 25 items for which the department had supplied no estimate of quantities.

Consider Excess Cost.

The final voucher indicates that Ketler-Elliott obtained $767,980 on this contract. Part of this excess cost is being considered by the council finance committee.

Then bids were asked on the construction of the viaduct. Eleven were received on June 9, 1930. The E. J. Albrecht company was the low bidder with a price of $514,130. The Ketler-Elliott company was second with a price of $529,930; but the Ketler-Elliott company was awarded the contract.

The specifications contained a provision for a small quantity of caisson work beyond 75 feet below city datum. On the quantity specified by the city the estimated cost was about $22,000. After the contract was awarded the city ordered all caissons down to bed rock and Ketler-Elliott's bill for that is $370,950.

The prices for this deep caisson work varied from $1.49 a cubic foot to $10—Ketler-Elliott submitting the high price of $10 and Albrecht—the lower bidder—a price of $2. The engineers who have reported to Col. Sprague called attention to the unbalanced bidding and assert that the deep caisson work was unnecessary.

Rush Work for Parade.

Wolfe, officials recall, ordered a hip hip hoorah celebration of the bridge and viaduct construction for Dec. 20, 1930. He wanted the job completed by that date for a political parade. The engineers were urged to hurry.

No contract had been let for doing the necessary street work below the viaduct. Plans and specifications were prepared upon insufficient information, it is charged, and the contract given to the W. J. Newman company.

The original plan for the viaduct was to stop at the south line of Austin avenue, but the grade was too steep and it was decided to extend the approach to Illinois street. That meant more work for Ketler-Elliott company.

The fill was to be covered with sand and was to be settled by being flooded. The weather became too cold for flooding, so slag was substituted for sand. This part of the work, which it was estimated would cost $160,299 has been billed at $209,096.

Bridge Bills Are Paid.

The payments to Ketler-Elliott company on the substructure and the superstructure of the bridge were out of the way before Commissioner Sprague came into office with the Cermak administration. But on the total viaduct claim of $1,031,091 only $424,207 had been paid, although officials say the records show that two efforts were made to get the money out of the city treasury late in March, immediately before the April mayoralty election. Those efforts were balked by the acting city controller. He declined to pay out more than 10 per cent in excess of the original contract price.

On the original viaduct contract Commissioner Sprague has reckoned that Ketler-Elliott has claims for $508,780, and he is willing to pay the difference of $84,573 between that sum and the $424,207 already paid.

To the remainder of the Ketler-Elliott claim the commissioner replies that it was not authorized by the city council. When the contractor comes to the commissioner's office to collect the $522,000 claim Col. Sprague will tell him what the office considers the services worth and tender payment accordingly. If the company does not accept, the contractors must battle the city law department in court, officials declare.

Collect Opinions on Cost.

Commissioner Sprague has been investigating the work for more than a month. For example, the deep caisson work for which the last administration proposed to pay the contractor $10 a cubic foot, is described as "excessive" by three engineers consulted. They point out that the average price of the eleven bidders is only $4.11, and that the average of the five low bidders was only $2.10. It is contended that $2.10 is "a fair basic price" at which to begin calculating what Ketler-Elliott should be paid for the work described as "unnecessary." When the reckoning is completed, the engineers arrive at the conclusion that the Ketler-Elliott company was paid 100 per cent too much for this "unnecessary work."

Other items in the bills of the contractor are estimated by the engineers at 14.6 per cent too high and others at 25.09 per cent "above the original contract amount."

The council committee on efficiency and economy has had this contract under investigation for several months with no action to date.

State Drops Charge Against W. R. Reynolds

William Ross Reynolds, on trial with his father, William N. Reynolds, and his brother, C. Doyle Reynolds, on a charge of conspiracy to defraud their clients in a bond and mortgage firm, was freed yesterday when the state quashed the indictment against him. Judge Peter M. Schwaba in Criminal court is hearing the case.

KILL PLAN TO REZONE GOLD COAST CORNER

The city council committee on buildings and zoning yesterday filed the petition of Henry G. Slavik, a real estate dealer, for the rezoning of the northeast corner of Astor and Schiller streets. Under the proposed rezoning plan, buildings, now limited to a height of 66 feet, could be erected to a height of 132 feet.

A protest petition with the signatures of seventeen nearby property owners was submitted to the aldermen. The property included in the plan is bounded by Astor and Schiller streets, the alley parallel to and east of Astor street and a line parallel to and 105 feet north of Schiller street.

Civil Service Board Fires Police Sergeant

Sergt. Edward J. Clohessy of the Grand Crossing police station was ordered discharged from the force yesterday by the civil service commission. The policeman was charged with neglect of duty and drinking intoxicating liquor. While on duty, according to the evidence given to the commissioners, he was drinking with a friend and failed to report to the station.

GIRL STICKS TO HER STORY IN PANTAGES SUIT

Explains Discrepancies Under Questioning.

San Diego, Cal., June 8.—(AP)—The second girl witness described to the jury in the "girl market" case today, a hotel party here last October which resulted in the arrest of Alexander Pantages, wealthy showman, and others on conspiracy and morals charges.

Helen Livingston, who the state alleges was brought to San Diego for the party by Olive Clark Day and William Fabelmann, alleged operators of a Hollywood "girl market," was the witness. Her testimony followed closely that given by Lydia Nitto, principal complaining witness against Pantages, Jesse H. Shreve, prominent San Diego business man, and the alleged court operators.

Before Miss Nitto was excused from the stand, counsel for Mrs. Day obtained from her on cross-examination an admission she had told the Day women that Pantages had "treated me very nice, but I don't know why."

Says He Wasn't So Stingy.

Later, on redirect examination, she explained Mrs. Day had told her Pantages "was stingy" and "I meant that he had treated me nice when he gave me $10 in the hotel room."

An affidavit, in which Miss Nitto let her have her age as 22, and the statement recorded the girl by the Los Angeles district attorney's office, reached as the focal points in her examination today.

Miss Nitto admitted she had told a girl friend, Jean Du Vall, in Los Angeles shortly after prosecutors had placed her in a hotel there with a police investigator as a companion, that she was "having a swell time."

Miss Nitto had testified that when first questioned in connection with the Los Angeles investigation of the "girl market" she told detectives Pantages had not mistreated her at the party here. She said she changed her story after spending three days in the juvenile hall.

Hair Changes Color Frequently.

Miss Nitto's hair now is black, but she admitted to defense attorneys it once was red and again blond. She admitted she was questioned and released in Los Angeles during the search for "a red headed bandit queen" last December.

Miss Livingston testified that, like Miss Nitto, she was interested in the party because $15 was offered her.

GRAND JURY TO CONTINUE PROBE OF POLICE GRAFT

Further inquiry into alleged graft and corruption in the Chicago police department will be taken up in a special grand jury investigation next Monday, Charles Mueller, assistant state's attorney in charge of the police inquiry, made known yesterday. Mueller said the jury probably would begin holding night sessions next week in order to hasten its work.

A decision will be made next week, Mueller said, as to whether this grand jury shall continue the investigation to the finish or a new grand jury be drawn.

Several more police officials will be summoned next week, the deputy prosecutor said. He did not disclose who these would be. The inquiry already has revealed that several police captains have had large bank accounts disproportionate with their official incomes.

EMPLOYES ASK U. S. RECEIVER FOR STEUBEN CLUB

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in the Federal court yesterday against the Steuben Club, Inc., on behalf of employes with claims for wages allegedly due, totaling $1,200. The petition charges that John Hesse, receiver for the club appointed in the state court, has mismanaged the assets, and asks that a federal receiver be appointed.

The Steuben club does not own the $5,000,000 building at Randolph and Wells streets, which also is in receivership, but has quarters in the building.

Attorney Louis Slutsky, who filed the petition, said that some of the employes, clerks, waiters, stewards, etc., had received no wages since December.

REDUCE PRICE OF ICE CREAM AS COSTS FALL

Lowering of the costs of cream, sugar, and other ingredients that are united to give Chicago its daily dish of ice cream, have caused a reduction in retail prices.

Led by two local chain drug stores, each of which make their ice cream in their own factories, prices of packaged quarts have dropped from 50 to 29 and 25 cents. Officials of both the Walgreen company and Liggett Drug Stores, Inc., stated yesterday no change had been made in the quality.

Along with the drop in price of ice cream, packaged at the factory, the Liggett chain announced a cut from 20 to 15 cents in the cost of a malted milk. The price change had been ordered by New York officials of the firm, it was said here.

WHAT PRICE SHOULD TELL YOU

It may be an old-fashioned idea, but it is our belief that a price tag on a suit, like a label on a bottle of pickles, should tell you what's in it. Price is a public trust and the acid test of a merchant's integrity. The price of a suit should accurately indicate its quality content and value

If quality at a price is what you want, you'll want one of these suits—you can't get more suit quality at $36 anywhere. They are, to the best of our knowledge and belief, the three

LINDY SERVED IN SUIT; SERVER KNOCKED DOWN

Admirer of the Colonel Resents Boast.

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—An old deal for newspaper clippings of his solo flight to Paris bobbed up today to confront Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

A process server appeared at the Curtiss airport, where Lindbergh is preparing for a flight via the north Pacific to Japan and the orient. The aviator was just about to test his plane after the affixing of pontoons. As the plane was being wheeled out into the water, the process server climbed upon a wing and thrust a paper at Col. Lindbergh. He accepted the summons, stuck it in his pocket, and flew off without reading the document.

To a small crowd, which had gathered to watch the take off, the process server boasted of his deed and remarked, "It's easier to serve big fellows than little fellows." He talked himself right into trouble.

He Is Knocked Down.

A Lindbergh admirer stepped up and with a sharp blow to the jaw, felled the process server. He was unhurt, however, and jumped up and fled the airport.

When Col. Lindbergh returned to the airport after his trial spin, he expressed regret at the "sock" administered to the process server.

"He was only doing his work," the flyer remarked.

From Lindbergh's counsel, Henry Breckenridge, it was ascertained that the summons had to do with the claim of an operator of a newspaper clipping bureau. It was said that before his flight to Paris, Lindy gave the bureau a small check for clippings to be mailed to his mother. It was arranged that the service should cease when the amount of the check had become exhausted. Since that time, it is alleged, the bureau was tried to collect many times the amount of the original agreement.

Served Before in Suit.

It was revealed that previously, in the field office, similar papers also had been served upon Col. Lindbergh. His attorney will look into the matter tomorrow.

Col. Lindbergh said he was much pleased both with the performance of the plane and the speed.

CHICAGO DEMOCRATS SEEK CLUBROOMS; INDORSE SEN. LEWIS

The first step toward providing a club for the Democratic organization of Chicago suitable for the entertainment of notable visitors was taken yesterday at a meeting of the county central committee in the Hotel Sherman.

P. A. Nash, chairman of the committee, was designated to head a special committee of seven which will investigate the possibility of obtaining quarters in the Steuben club building or some similar location.

The principal business of the meeting was the formal indorsement of Senator James Hamilton Lewis for the presidency in 1932. The indorsement was recommended at a meeting of ward committeemen held in Mayor Cermak's office last week. Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, presented the resolution, which described the senator as possessing "the qualities of statesmanship which ideally fit him for the exalted position of president of the United States."

RACKET BUREAU STUDIES RECORDS IN UNION CASE

Records of the city department of electricity were turned over to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury of the racket bureau yesterday as evidence in his investigation of alleged racketeering in the Chicago Motion Picture Operators' union.

Mr. Lounsbury said the records contained "startling revelations," and declared that the grand jury undoubtedly would vote conspiracy indictments against some officials of the union. He said Joseph Maloy, brother of Thomas Maloy, business manager of the union, formerly was head of the license bureau of the electric department, and that his records showed irregularities in the granting of licenses to operators.

A contempt of court citation against Thomas J. Reynolds, president of the union, for refusal to present the union's records for examination in compliance with a subpoena duces tecum, will be heard by Chief Justice McGoorty in Criminal court tomorrow.

TRIBUNE STORY BRINGS RUSH AT ART INSTITUTE

Papers Are Guide to Six Treasures.

Approximately 1,400 persons, it was learned last night, visited the Art Institute of Chicago during the last two days, who would not have gone but for the impetus of an article in the SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Proof of the inspiration of the sudden acceleration of interest in art was evident, the staff of the institute pointed out, in copies of the newspaper clasped under the arms of literally hundreds of the extra visitors.

It was an interview with Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, written by James O'Donnell Bennett, that proved the magnet for the Sunday and Monday throngs. Six of the greatest paintings in the Chicago galleries, some of them of world fame and what worth, were discussed in the article from a layman's viewpoint.

These great masterpieces, before which crowds were gathered continuously during the two days, included El Greco's "Assumption of the Virgin," Rembrant's "The Young Girl," Constable's "Stroke-by-Nayland." Seurat's "Sunday on the Grande Jatte," Manet's "Christ Mocked," and Renoir's "Two Little Circus Girls."

In spite of a chill and rainy Sunday, Director Harshe was informed yesterday that the augmented attendance for the day was 1,200 above the average. Yesterday 200 more individuals streamed through the corridors than on the usual Monday. The difference in the figures is due to the fact that Sunday was a free day, while admission was charged yesterday.

"Merely to say we were delighted with the response is putting it mildly," the director commented last night. "It was a vivid demonstration of the value of such publicity in acquainting the general public with the art treasures that are to be viewed in Chicago.

"While we have no way of checking on the number of visitors who may have been from out of town, it is safe to assume that a fair percentage carried back the story to their homes elsewhere. But there was no doubting the source of the sudden rise in attendance, as guide after guide remarked to me today about the hundreds who appeared with TRIBUNES under their arms."

FORBID SMOKING AS LONDON HUNTS HUGE GAS LEAK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—A heavy cordon of police cleared the streets around the historic St. Paul's cathedral this afternoon, when gas was discovered escaping in large quantities from a nearby main cracked in yesterday's earthquake.

All traffic was rerouted, and large danger signs were posted throughout the neighborhood, forbidding smoking on streets and in nearby buildings.

Gangs of workmen were rushed to the scene. Gas poured into the streets as soon as the manholes were opened. Crews set to work with drills and hurriedly ripped up the pavement to get at the leak. Thousands gathered to watch.

AGENTS SEIZE 4,000 GALLONS OF BEER IN BREWING

Federal prohibition agents last night raided a brewery in a purported factory building at 5811 West 66th street, seizing a truck containing 40 barrels of beer, and 4,000 gallons of beer about to be barrelled. The brewery was believed to have been operated by members of the Edward [Spike] O'Donnell gang.

The raid was led by Deputy Prohibition Administrators A. E. Hamilton and A. E. Aman. The brewery was deserted when the raiders arrived. Agents estimated the capacity of the brewery to be more than 300 barrels of beer a week. The apparatus was destroyed!

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

A RUBIO KILLED IN U. S.; HOOVER CABLES REGRET

Mexico President's Kin and Another Slain.

MEXICO CITY, June 8.—(AP)—A note from President Hoover of the United States expressing his regret over the slaying at Ardmore, Okla., of Emilio Cortes Rubio, a relative of President Ortiz Rubio, and Manuel Gomez, both students, was delivered to the Mexican president this morning by Ambassador J. Reuban Clark.

The ambassador also presented his own personal regrets and those of the state department, going later to the foreign office where he made a similar presentation of regrets to Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada.

Official comment regarding the slayings will be withheld until the Mexican consul at Oklahoma City makes a full investigation into the tragedy, Foreign Minister Estrada said. He said the consul had been instructed to go to Ardmore to look into the matter and that a quick and complete report was expected.

STUDENTS IN U. S. COLLEGES.

Ardmore, Okla., June 8.—(AP)—County Attorney Marvin Shilling announced this evening he would file murder charges tomorrow against Bill Gomez and Cecil Crosby, Carter county deputy sheriffs, for the fatal shooting early of two Mexican students from United States colleges—one a cousin of President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico. The deputy, who believed he had apprehended desperadoes, brought to a stop and the homeward vacation trip of the two students. Emilio Cortes Rubio, 20, son of a second cousin of the Mexican president, and his companion, Manuel Gomez, 22, were both shot by Deputy Gomez.

The county attorney announced the investigation after holding an inquiry which was not completed and was adjourned until tomorrow. Deputy Gomez said he would insist that the charges be filed and expressed confidence he would be exonerated.

Governor Enters Case.

Gov. W. H. Murray late today also entered the case, directing Shilling to make a complete investigation of the slayings. Emilio was a student at the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, Mo., and Manuel attended St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kas.

Gov. Murray, commenting on the slaying on a highway near here early today, said: "No officer has the right to make an arrest without a warrant except for disturbance of the peace committed in his presence. Shooting under other circumstances is done at the peril of the officer."

The youths were accompanied by Salvador Cortez, Rubio, 24, also a cousin of the Mexican president, the two expecting to motor to Mexico, their school year having ended. Salvador, also a student at St. Benedict's, had left the automobile and was standing out of sight down the highway when the shooting occurred. He was arrested.

Says Youths Drew Pistols.

Gomez admitted slayer of the two students, said at the inquiry that he had only allow the youths, whose automobile was parked on the road, drew revolvers.

Salvador said several guns were being carried in the automobile, partly for protection, and partly because they could be purchased cheaper in the United States and were being taken to Mexico to be used in hunting. Previous to the visit by the officers Salvador said he and his companions had been apprehensive because of an automobile pursuing automobile.

The two officers asserted the victims knew the identity of their visitors and exhibited weapons despite his knowledge.

Chicago Men Outnumber Women

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—For every hundred female inhabitants of Chicago there are 102.7 males. Of the city's total population of 3,376,438, as enumerated in April, 1930, a total of 3,117,731 were white, 233,903 were Negroes, and 24,804 were of other races, including Mexicans, Indians, Chinese, Japanese, and Filipinos. During the decade between 1920 and 1930, the white population of Chicago increased 20.4 per cent, while the Negro population increased 113.7 per cent. The white population included 2,275,674 persons of native birth and 842,057 of foreign birth. Of these latter, 800,515 were over 21 years old, and 168,815 were aliens. OSLO, Norway, June 8.—(AP)—Three policemen were seriously injured today in a clash between 1,000 water front workers and 120 police near Porsgrund. The workers attacked a quay where work has been proceeding in spite of a lockout, and police retaliated with their clubs.

Charges Against 'Tough' McErlane Are Continued

Charges of mayhem, disorderly conduct, intoxication, and a few other minor offenses against Frank McErlane, "tough guy" of gangland, were continued to June 13 by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in Felony court yesterday. McErlane was released under bonds of $11,000 shortly before he was to have been taken to the county jail. A subpoena was issued for Mrs. Robert Marvia, 7754 Crandon avenue, McErlane's sister, whom he attacked in a drunken rage last week. She failed to appear in court yesterday.

NEW PEACE OFFER BY DUCE SPURNED BY U. S. KNIGHTS

Reject Proposal to Let Playgrounds Reopen.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 8.—With last week's flare ups momentarily spent, Fascist Italy and Catholic Italy today settled down for what is thought likely to be a long period of "trench warfare" around the tiny walled circumference of Pope Pius XI.'s theocratic city.

EDWARD HEARN. [Pictorial Press Photo.]

Active diplomatic conversations were resumed today between Papal Nuncio Borgoncini Duca and Count de Vecchi, Italian ambassador to the Vatican. The former afterward had a long conference with the pope. In all of these talks a formula is being sought to ease the strained relations. When these conversations, which, however, are believed may extend over a considerable period, have paved the way, optimistic opinion tonight believes that terms of a general truce, with the possibility of some modifications and clarifications of the Lateran concordat, may be reached.

Press Is Hushed Up.

It was pointed out tonight that articles 44 of the concordat, obviously foreseeing such difficulties as have arisen, provides that "if in the future any difficulties over the interpretation of the present concordat arise, the Holy See and Italy will proceed in a common sense way to a friendly settlement."

At the same time all polemics between the rival press organs have been completely silenced.

Tomorrow the council of ministers will meet. Affairs with the Vatican will be examined and it is thought likely that the council will confirm the pronouncement issued last week by the directorate of the Fascist party that the party is against any one or anything which would oppose the principles of the Fascist revolution. This, it is thought, may exacerbate tempers again.

Clubs Refuse to Reopen.

Meanwhile, today the padlocked Catholic clubs of the Catholic Action society were quiet, all refusing to reopen, although the government intimated to some not suspected of political activities that they might do so.

The American Knights of Columbus playgrounds on Janiculum hill and other organizations were still tightly closed today. Edward O'Hearn, head of the Knights of Columbus' activities here, announced today that he would keep everything shut until a full and definite settlement of the whole situation has been reached. It was reported Premier Mussolini had said the Knights might reopen their playgrounds.

It is understood that the difficulty in the negotiations between the Fascists and the Vatican arises from neither side wanting to make the first step. The Holy See asks for a full apology and reparations for damages, together with a disavowal of the threat which it alleges was contained in the pronouncement of the Fascist party directorate.

Fascists Make Counter Claim.

On the other hand, the government insists that all leaders of the Catholic Action whom the government states it can prove indulged in anti-Fascist activities must first be removed.

The difficulty in this is that in such a case Count della Torre, editor of Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, Sig. Ciriaci, president of the Catholic Action, and a number of lesser authorities in the provinces would be involved, according to the Fascists.

THEY KNOW WHAT THEY WANT

• As we get older we are inclined to take life more and more philosophically. We don't chafe so under the little restraints that we fought so hard against in our youth. It may be the coming of wisdom—or perhaps we are just getting too tired to argue.

This change in point of view is reflected in our eating as in other things. You don't see older people push dishes away with violence the way children sometimes do.

These children of ours know what they like and what they don't like to eat. Of course we can't always give in to them—but when it's a wonderful food like milk, and Wanzer's Milk at that, we can let them have all they want.

We have noticed in our family since we tried Wanzer's Milk that the children ask for second glasses right along. They seem to love the flavor of the milk.

TEACHERS WANT FAT FRIED OUT OF BUILDING JOBS

War on Proposal for Cut in Education.

annually could be brought about by the dismissal of 10 advisers in the bureau of vocational guidance, it was pointed out. It was also found that a total of $3,000 in automobile allowances accompanying the eliminated positions could be effected.

In the business department, the auditors found that the heads of this department apparently were not cognizant of true conditions in the field. Reorganization of plant operations in this department would lop off $400,000, it was learned. An inspection of school buildings revealed to the auditors that the work of cleaning and maintaining them was not being done efficiently.

The report pointed out that the board employed far more men than women contrary to ordinary business practice in this type of work. It was suggested that the cleaning personnel be equalized so that not less than one-half the force is female and one-half male. It was also recommended that every person in the cleaning division be assigned to clean 5,000 additional square feet.

In the bureau of architecture in the business department the practice of assigning carpenters to particular schools was criticised and a centralization of activity in this line in connection with the division of repairs would probably result in an annual reduction of $70,000 in appropriations for this department.

The auditors suggested that the quarters of the three departments of the school board be unified and centralized. The educational department now occupies a building at 460 South State street, the law department is at 141 North La Salle street and the business offices are in the Steuben building at 188 West Randolph street.

Mrs. Hefferan Protests.

When the report had been presented, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, Democratic trustee, asked why an audit of the building fund had not been made. She pointed out that this fund had been subject to criticism and that suspicions of crookedness in awarding contracts and the substitution of materials, had brought this fund much into the limelight. A brief paragraph in the report explains that the auditors did not have time to go into this fund, involving as such a survey would, considerable historical research.

Mrs. Hefferan indicated that she would make a motion in the board meeting on Wednesday that a separate audit of the building fund be made and that the playground fund be looked into also. While the suspension of summer recreational activities was recommended, the playground fund was not mentioned.

Teachers Take Action.

The recommendations in the report brought an immediate reaction from teachers' organizations.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Federation of Women High School Teachers last night, the work of drawing up a written summary of the teachers' grievances and their reactions to the report for reading at the special hearing next Thursday, was begun. The summary will be presented by Mrs. Anna Schaacht, president of the federation.

The High School Teachers' association opened fire on the audit, using the ammunition which Mrs. Hefferan employed at the joint meeting. The association in a resolution adopted last night proposed that the various teachers' organizations get together and provide an audit of the building fund in an effort to discover possible economies which would not affect the employés, their pay, and their jobs.

Burglar Slain Trying to Break in Drug Store

An unidentified burglar was shot and killed early yesterday by a watchman who caught him breaking into the drug store of Louis Arnopol, 731 South Dearborn street. When the burglar broke the glass in the front door of the store an alarm sounded. Two watchmen from the American District Telegraph company responded to the alarm and Neal Rowe, one of the watchmen, shot and killed the burglar when the latter started to run.

Cermak and Emmerson Will Discuss Tax Relief Today

Mayor Cermak, accompanied by Corporation Counsel Busch, Ald Bowler, and several other advisers, left for Springfield last night in the interest of financial relief for Chicago local governments.

The plan is to confer with Gov. Emmerson this morning in the hope that an agreed program of legislation can be worked out.

Mayor Cermak said that whatever aid is given should be extended by the regular session, without waiting for a special session. The difficulties of getting legislation at a special session with a two-thirds vote so that it would become effective immediately are too large, in the opinion of the mayor, to be welcomed.

Outline Cermak's Program.

The mayor's program is to put teeth in the personal property tax laws, the passage of the bill abolishing the elective board of assessors and board of review, and the adoption of the bill which would increase the power of the city to collect license fees from big business.

"Bills to accomplish all of these ends are pending in the general assembly," said the mayor as he boarded the 6:50 train for the state capital.

"There is no reason or fairness in the license law which permits us to collect fees from the small business man and not from the large one. Better the license law were repealed altogether than let it remain as it is.

"I appreciate there is considerable opposition to making the personal property tax law more stringent, but the opposition does not come from the poor people. They have no lobby in Springfield opposing a workable personal property tax law.

"If the bill abolishing the board of assessors and the board of review and the township assessors and collectors is passed it will aid in stabilizing the tax anticipation warrants. It will give us a chance to borrow some money on which to operate the local governments."

Others Off to Capital.

Others interested in tax legislation, such as the Chicago Real Estate board, also left for Springfield last night. Local politicians predicted that the next three days will probably forecast whether any of the tax laws will be passed at this regular session. In fact, it was asserted that the meeting of the governor and the mayor will probably determine what shall be done before noon today.

The mayor said that he does not insist upon the particular three bills before the legislature. He said that he was willing they shall be amended in any way so long as the main purpose of each is preserved and the laws made workable.

EUROPE READY TO BEG FOR AID FROM UNCLE SAM

Excited Over the Visit of Stimson and Mellon.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 8.—European political and economic circles were thrown into a fever of excitement today by the news that Andrew Mellon, American secretary of treasury, as well as Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson are coming to Europe, and the air is full of speculation about how to tackle them on the necessity of the United States "coöperating" to rehabilitate Europe.

It is now known that Mr. Mellon's forthcoming visit was known to Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, before he attended the Chequers love feast with Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius of Germany yesterday. Furthermore, it has been learned that America will be invited to become the "rich uncle from Australia."

German Statesmen Silent.

The German statesmen, who are ordinarily the frankest men, have shut up like clams. On their arrival in England they were expansive and promised interviews after the Chequers meeting, but on their return last night and today all the newspaper men got were apologies for not talking.

It is learned that Prime Minister MacDonald personally impressed them with the necessity for silence and, above all, of avoiding any indiscretion, which might annoy the United States to which both Germany and England must look for help in "alleviating" the present economic conditions. They interpret that this alleviation can take but one form, and that is wiping out war reparations.

The argument seems to be that America is better off than Europe, and therefore must take part in Europe's rehabilitation.

Germans Visit King George.

The Germans today were received by King George at Buckingham palace, and afterward were entertained at lunch at Dorchester house by the Anglo-German association, with Lord Reading presiding. This afternoon they attended a reception at the Royal Institute of International Affairs, and tonight a banquet at the German embassy. They will leave for home tomorrow.

Chancellor Bruening briefly referred to the "friendly talks" at Chequers at the reception of the Royal Institute for International Affairs.

"I am happy to be able to state that, as a result of these conversations, the countries concerned are fighting the economic crisis and endeavoring to restore prosperity," he said. "Mutual coöperation between all the countries concerned to try to meet the situation has been agreed upon, and I am sure that this will find favorable echo from public opinion all over the world."

The British and the Germans, it is learned, differ on the proposal to rehabilitate Europe by international "coöperation." According to reliable information, the Berlin statesmen urged immediate action with Washington by British officials, but Prime Minister MacDonald replied that it was far too early to make any request of Uncle Sam, and that this must be regarded as the first of a series of conferences which might, in a year or two, lead to the desired re

Decline to Halt Navy Program.

On the British side Secretary of Foreign Affairs Arthur Henderson suggested that a suspension of the German naval program would create a better atmosphere in Europe, with favorable reactions in the United States. The Germans, however, declared that was impossible.

Despite this failure, cordial personal relations were maintained between the British and German statesmen, and it was agreed that Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Henderson would pay a return visit to Berlin before long.

In the interim they will consult with the French and Italians, although Chancellor Bruening is said to have expressed impatience at their insistence on the necessity of keeping step with France.

GERMANY EYES U. S.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 8.—"Everything depends upon America—a revision or cancellation of reparations!" This is the opinion of most German newspapers, from the Socialist to the Nationalist organs, as they conjectured today on the results of the conference of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius with the British statesmen at Chequers, England. Its main achievement, as mirrored in the press has been to convince Germans more strongly than ever that reparations and the business crisis hinge on America's stand.

Berlin is looking forward with great eagerness to the arrival of the American ambassador Frederic M. Sackett from whom they hope to glean the details of the forthcoming trips to Europe of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

"Something will be done soon to alleviate Germany's financial difficulties," economists assert.

This feeling is helping the republican moderate parties to keep in power despite the combined onslaught of the Fascisti, communists and Nationalists.

These three parties, clamoring for an early convocation of the reichstag, have asked the Socialists to help them overthrow the Bruening government. The Socialists refused, declaring they "first want to give Dr. Curtius and Chancellor Bruening a chance to tell what they achieved at Chequers."

IF EUROPE WILL DISARM, HOOVER MAY CUT DEBTS

Washington Stirred by News of Proposal.

son's projected two months' tour of European capitals this summer. It was stated that he was going unofficially and only for a holiday, but it is an open secret that he is going to have conferences with the elder statesmen of Great Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. He is going to spend a week in Berlin in July and without doubt will discuss the whole subject of reparations, war debts, and disarmament with the German cabinet.

Mellon Also Going Abroad.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon also will be in Europe this summer, though in his case there is reason to believe that his trip is without political significance.

When the trip of Mr. Stimson was announced it was understood that what he particularly desired to survey while in Europe was the potentialities of the disarmament conference scheduled for next year. He wanted to discover to what extent Europe was really disposed to curtail armaments. Washington is now wondering whether his mission is not to explore the possibilities of a general liquidation of war liabilities in which reparations and war debts would be reduced or wiped out altogether and armaments scaled down.

Still another straw showing which way the wind is blowing was seen in the suggestion of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, that war debt revision be linked with armament reduction. The senator said he had been discussing the matter with the administration.

Public Opposition Expected.

No less significant is considered the recent speech by Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, commending President Hoover's address to the international chamber and the view apparently prevailing at the Chequers conference of British and German statesmen that the disarmament of Europe offers the best means of approaching America with a proposition of scaling down the war debts sufficiently to cause the allies to consent to a reduction of German reparations.

That there would be tremendous opposition in this country to purchasing European disarmament at the expense of American taxpayers is a foregone conclusion. Typical of such opposition was the remark of Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] today that he could "see no good reason for cancelling the war debts and saddling them on the taxpayers of this country," though he would not oppose granting a moratorium of two or three years.

Whenever the matter has arisen in the past it has been pointed out that both Great Britain and France are paying the United States on their war debts less than they receive annually from Germany in reparations.

The only way to roast coffee to real flavor-perfection is Hills Bros' method

. . . evenly . . . continuously . . .

IF COFFEE IS ROASTED UNEVENLY, YOU CAN'T HAVE FLAVOR-PERFECTION. HILLS BROS COFFEE IS ALWAYS DELIGHTFUL AND MELLOW BECAUSE CONTROLLED ROASTING IS EVEN ROASTING

BUT this exact process—Controlled Roasting—belongs to Hills Bros. alone. They invented it. That's why no other coffee has the same wonderful flavor as Hills Bros. Coffee.

The ordinary method of roasting coffee is in bulk. But even with watchful care, there is bound to be variation in the roast, and that means variation in flavor. Hills Bros.' process absolutely prevents variation because the coffee is roasted a little at a time under exact control.

You will always find Hills Bros. Coffee perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out, and kept out of the can by this process. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

SUMMATION

It has been about two years now since these pages started to put into words what American men of affairs were putting into deeds, to try their hand at translating some of the emotions that were impelling these deeds, and to hold up a mirror to the responses which they had inspired.

Not an easy job to do, but altogether a pleasant one; and not unmixed with very tangible values in the progress of human affairs.

Now we come to the act of summing up these new social and economic values and trying to arrive at a total of all that has occurred thus far.

Very big things have happened here in America during the past ten years. Bigger, perhaps, than any of us now living will ever realize. It is one of the strange anachronisms of life that historians are always more accurate than reporters. The relative values of the things we do only find their proper proportion in the long yardstick of time.

So it is somewhat with the apologies of an observer that we approach a summation of the events of the past decade. We are too near to these events to give them relativity. And possibly, as William Dean Howells once said, it will be "like painting a picture of a dog with his tail on the mountain top." The perspective cannot be there. The very definition of perspective precludes its being there.

Out of the past, however, this thing is plain. And if it be included in the past, its relative value toward the welfare of mankind will not change.

During the past ten years, as never before in the entire history of the human race, a concerted effort has been made to spread wealth down into the hands and the pockets of a nation's wage-earning mass.

Neither the motive that impelled this effort nor the comparative success that accompanied it is of first importance at the present time.

The all-important thing is that no such concerted effort on the part of a nation's employers and financiers has ever been made before in any civilization at any time.

This has been the supreme effort thus far of the human race.

The motive back of the effort has, perhaps, been mixed. Most motives are. It has probably taken the course of most other motives. Beginning with necessity or selfishness, it has finally found its way into the emotions, and been sublimated by desire. Usually, individuals or nations start that way. Certainly, in America today there are thousands of important men who may have begun this effort at the spread of wealth through selfishness or necessity, but who now have come to a sense of almost sacred guardianship of the thing they have done. They want their wage-earning masses to be better fed and better clothed, to have more money and to spend more money than any of the other masses on the face of the earth. There are, literally, thousands of such men who really want this thing, even to the point where they have forgotten that it pays them to have it so.

And that, of course, is the history of all culture. First, that a thing should be finer, because it pays to have it so. And finally, that it shall be finer, because it is better to have it so.

The success of this effort, also of secondary importance compared to the effort itself, is equally interesting.

The per capita wealth of America today is so much greater than it has ever been before, even for ourselves, that it is a matter of financial astonishment. The very banks are complaining about the savings deposits. Whereas, if we were to compare the per capita wealth of this nation today with that of any other nation in any civilization at any time, we would seem to glow by that comparison with the radiance of a millenium.

And this can be said most carefully, even at a time when subscriptions are being taken against privations and unemployment headlines are on the front page.

On the other hand, none of this could have been said ten years ago. It has taken a whole new economic set-up and a whole new social order to bring about this change. Eighty-five percent of our wage-earners are still employed on a high wage-scale, entirely because a few thousand men with a new vision or a new emotion (call it what you like) have clenched their teeth and seen to it that it should be so. Less than three per cent of this population, even at this time, are suffering actual privations, because many millions of people, inspired by example and made conscious by precept, have taxed themselves more severely than they have ever been taxed by law to reduce this privation to a minimum. And they will probably wipe it out completely before the year is through.

It is true that in this high emotion there has been plenty of lip service and trickery on the part of both the humble and the great. But the basis of this new economic and social movement for the welfare of the wage-earning masses is still sound and still fine.

The only question now remaining in the minds of thinkers is—can this new economic and social movement go on? And, of course, the answer is that it will go on, provided our civilization itself goes on. Someone has said that man did not climb up through civilization of his own accord. He was kicked up from behind. But it is equally true that each time he was kicked up, he has stayed up where he was kicked, until his civilization itself went out from under him. But that is a thing we should class with our worries about the diminishing supply of air on our planet or the cooling of our sun. Sometime, of course, but not in our time.

Meanwhile, here on this continent, with our usual American zest we have not only set up a sublime ideal for the welfare of our wage-earning masses, but with our usual practicality of procedure we have set up the entire machinery of mass production for carrying out that welfare. So that, in order to scrap our ideal, we would have to scrap the entire insides of practically every factory in the land. Ours is now a commitment to the welfare of the masses in which, for our own sakes, we had better all hang together; because if we don't, as Franklin once said, we'll all hang separately.

And now for the mirror. Here at True Story Magazine we can give you the reflection of what is going on from the other side. Two million of these wage-earning Americans are our readers and our writers, and they offer the penetration point to millions more. This wage-earning America is the backbone of this new economic and social movement. Without it, you could not have begun your mass production movement, to say nothing of continuing it. Sixty-eight percent of all you make must be consumed by this one group alone.

So this we can tell you with some degree of authority.

The effort that has been made on the part of the few in the interests of the masses has been received with so much intelligence and understanding that the hundred and fifty year old barrier between capital and labor has virtually been wiped out. There is no degree of co-operation that you can not have, within the limits of human capacity to give.

In the coming up-surge of activity of this new decade, the world is going to be amazed at the fervor with which the mass of American wage-earners is going to take hold of its side of the job of creating a prosperity that will last.

Nothing could be more fortunate for us than that True Story Magazine should be practically the sole representative in its field of this great wage-earning mass upon which so much of our economic welfare now depends.

HELP FOR GERMANY AND HOW.

The week-end meeting of German and British statesmen at Chequers produces the suggestion that if Germany must get relief from reparations the United States must make it possible. America lost that war, apparently, and the collector will give it the bad news. It seems very simple in Europe. Germany cannot pay. The debtors to the United States say they can pay only if Germany pays them. The end of the road is plain and the moral muscle will be applied to propel the United States to it.

It is, however, not so simple. The allies are not so helpless. They may, first, take the clamps of the treaty of Versailles off Germany and give it a chance to recover. They may permit the union of Austria and Germany. They may return the Saar. They may give Germany back its colonies and possessions the world over. They may remove the frontier irritants on the map of Europe. They may cease fighting the next war now. They are not chiefly interested in economic recovery. They are preoccupied with the next march of armies. They are keeping wounds raw and peoples in rage or despair.

The economic condition of Germany is not an unforeseen consequence of the peace. It was provided for in the design. It was a part of the intent. The treaty makers feared the recuperative power of central Europe and they planned to retard it by dismemberment, by taking away territory, by separating mineral lands from producing centers, by occupying industrial regions with military forces and by charging the upkeep of these armies to the occupied country. With such terms the peace became as destructive as a war. Now the allies seek to lay the responsibility upon the United States because it is collecting a part of the money borrowed to make the imposition of these terms possible.

The debtors to America who seek relief for Germany in a release from their own obligations to the United States can restore Germany's resources and possessions. They can also seek relief for themselves by taking the next war out of their present budgets. They can take their armies and navies off the backs of their taxpayers. Then if they want to talk debt settlement again they can produce some equivalents for cash, chattels and possessions, islands and other real estate, particularly in the American region. The United States may not care to change the terms or to consider an offer of goods for currency, but the proposals at least will be self-respecting.

PLUCK AND SKILL IN THE AIR.

Our hats off to Lieut. Howard E. Engler, pilot of a plane at Rantoul the other day in parachute practice. To find your plane doing dangerous stunts in an effort to free itself from a youth unexpectedly attached by his parachute to its tail is a challenge to quick and clear thinking. Pilot Engler was there with all of it, and there was no tragedy. Lieut. Webster, who went to the rescue with another plane, also showed daring and resourcefulness, and the incident was a credit to both officers.

PASS THIS GUN TOTING BILL.

One of the bills which ought not to be lost in the crush of the last days of the session is the Schnackenberg bill, House No. 532, to curb gun toting. It has been carefully drawn to protect the right of officials and respectable citizens in having means of self-protection and to confine its terms to undesirables. It excludes certain specified officials and private employés or agents from the prohibition of concealed weapons and adds the following needed provision: "Nor shall any person carry in a motor vehicle, or otherwise, any firearm with the intention to use the same in the commission of any crime, nor shall any person who habitually associates with thieves or who habitually frequents houses of ill fame or gambling places carry in a motor vehicle any firearms."

This provision is intended to assist the police in dealing with gangsters. Notorious bad men have been caught with arms in their automobiles, but escaped the law because the weapons were not actually upon their persons.

Another section prohibits the carrying of firearms in a motor vehicle by any one who within ten years has been convicted of murder, robbery, burglary, assault or other crime of violence, or any violation of the law against carrying concealed weapons as provided in the first section.

Another provision forbids the obliteration of marks of identification on firearms.

This carefully restricted measure is sponsored by the Chicago crime commission and can be objected to only by criminals. It will assist the police to disarm the underworld, and the legislators responsible for the remaining procedure of the assembly should see that it is enacted at this session. Even rural representatives have reason now to be interested in more effective restraint upon organized crime, whose activities are no longer confined to the cities.

THE BANKERS OF CHICAGO.

A trying period in the history of banking in Chicago has just been concluded. Those who follow closely the trend in bank stock quotations could not have been unaware of a growing concern last week for the future of certain of our financial institutions. That the difficulties were met and surmounted with no loss to depositors and without loss of confidence in the soundness of the banking structure reflects most favorably upon the abilities and the sense of responsibility to the public of the members of the Chicago Clearing house.

The picture is in striking contrast to that presented in some other fields. When, for example, the movement of commodity prices had threatened to undermine the prosperity of the farmers, the government was called upon to save the situation. Congressmen representing rural constituencies, together with spokesmen for banks which had overextended themselves in lending money on wheat, cotton, and agricultural lands, worked in their several ways to place the government's credit behind the market for agricultural products. Despite the enormous sums taken from the taxpayers the effort proved a failure. Farm prices have not been maintained and rural banks in many sections of the country went to the wall.

The moral is that the Lord still helps those who help themselves. In some sections of the country the maxim is taken to mean that a handsome future awaits those who help themselves to the contents of the United States treasury. That, for example, is the way the people of Los Angeles propose to get a waterworks. It is the way the farmers tried to solve their economic problem and the way Senator Lewis would solve the financial problem which faces Chicago's local governments at this moment. It is the wrong way, and in the long run it will not work. The fact that our local government officials paid no attention to Senator Lewis' enchanting scheme and the more dramatic fact that our bankers did not go running to Washington to save a difficult situation in our financial structure are evidences of a tough moral fiber in this community which may be regarded as by no means the least of its assets.

FOR AN EFFICIENT STATE POLICE.

The spread of organized criminality outside of Chicago in recent years has been a development in Illinois calling for special consideration by the legislature. The state police system must be improved, and the bill to enlarge its scope seems to THE TRIBUNE desirable. The objections of certain organized labor leaders, who fear that an efficient police will be used as a strike breaking organization, have defeated previous efforts at amendment, but experience thus far has not justified them. The state police have recently worked efficiently against bank robbers and in the prison riots. The raids on banks and kidnaping cannot be efficiently dealt with by local officers or by a police restricted to highway regulation and surveillance.

The present law, we think, should be amended as proposed by Representative Hunter of Rockford, which gives the state police the powers of city police and sheriffs and does not require them to wait for the consent of sheriffs to deal with crimes of deliberate and organized character or such conditions as were created by the Shelton gang or the Egan Rats.

We think governors can be held responsible for restraining the state police from abusing their powers, and that they should be made an efficient agency fully empowered for the protection of life and property from professional criminals.

MISS GUINAN COMES HOME.

Miss Texas Guinan and her little girls have been shipped back to the United States by the French government. The American government has held up numerous distinguished persons at Ellis island, including Mrs. Pankhurst, Maxim Gorky, and the Countess Cathcart, fearing the undesirable effect of their presence on American order or morality. France did not raise a question of French morality, but rested upon an economic position. Miss Guinan did not have a labor permit for her troupe, and the French government barred out the alien competition for the protection of the native talent.

The acknowledgment of American charm implied in the rejection of Miss Guinan's passports and the dismissal of her young people may indicate either that Paris is not what it used to be or that America is more than was suspected. A pretty compliment, even if it contained hard beds and poor food for the period of detention. The French officials restrained their own gallantry and exercised their patriotism.

That no question of public order was involved would be indicated by the presence of the American mayors in France. Miss Guinan's expedition could be relied upon for behavior probably much more decorous than that of the mayors, who, however, have no economic meaning during their frolicsome holiday.

Editorial of the Day

DON'T BLAME THE "SQUIRES."

[Peoria Transcript.]

The Democratic house caucus at Springfield, dominated and directed by Chicago Democrats, has doomed a congressional apportionment bill which would have abolished the two at-large congressional seats and have given the metropolitan district of Chicago 14 of 27 seats in the state.

Congressman Rainey, Democrat, of Carrollton, who opposed the remap bill because two Republican counties were added to his district, supplied Cook county Democrats their argument for killing the measure. "When the Democrats come into power again," said Minority Leader Igoe of Chicago, "Mr Garner of Texas will become speaker and that will move Mr. Rainey into the post of floor leader. This will refute the charge that the south is in the saddle. We should do nothing that will interfere with Mr. Rainey's succession."

We may therefore assume that in order to protect a downstate Democratic congressman in his "succession," Chicago Democratic members of the legislature were willing to kill an apportionment bill which would have given the Chicago area a majority of the Illinois delegation to congress. It is customarily argued that downstate "squires" are responsible for denying Chicago its just legislative representation. The pending bill met Chicago demands, yet because a few lobbying congressmen—all representing downstate territory—would have been adversely affected by the reapportionment, the Democratic house caucus decides to kill it.

It is possible, of course, that the next general assembly will be overwhelmingly Democratic and that a remap bill can be framed which will better serve the Democratic cause, but that is a horse of another color. The record on the present bill is that Chicago Democrats, not downstate "squires," have blocked congressional apportionment.

PITUITARY TROUBLE NO BAR

RECENTLY F. P. A. wrote about Isaac Fleming in his column. From what he wrote the following is taken: "Day before yesterday Mr. Isaac Fleming, financial editor of the —— Star, died at the age of 80. Ike Fleming is one of our earliest memories. In 1903 he was financial editor of the Chicago Journal. What we remember about him is that he seemed the oldest man we had ever seen; he looked as though he had about twenty minutes to live; he was then 53, which nowadays seems to us like a dapper's age."

The writer knew this gentleman well just ten years earlier. He was then about 43 years old, and he looked like an old man with not many years to live. His hair was white, his face was wrinkled, and his complexion was pallid. In spite of his look of senility and debility he was a hard working newspaper man, and when he could steal away he fished as hard as he worked on his regular job. So noted was he as an industrious fisherman that a co-laborer composed a poem in which the big black bass was supposed to warn the wall-eyed pike that Ike Fleming was around today.

The writer told Mr. Fleming of the nature of his peculiarity. The appearances that F. P. A. comments on—and that the writer discussed thirty-five years ago—are the result of some disorder of the pituitary body, probably congenital in character and irremediable. The people with this disorder generally have large, bony frames. Their feet and hands are large. Their hips are broad, almost as broad as those of women.

The length of the arms is not in the usual proportions to body length. The cheek bones are high, as are the ridges over the eyes. This makes the orbits appear small and the eyes seem to be beady. The skin is coarse, pale, and wrinkled. The hair is coarse, straight, and white. As a rule, the beard is scrawny. The voice is likely to be high pitched.

The writer has seen scores of people with this disorder. He has encountered them in many places in America and in all walks of life. One was a mulatto. In his observation they have had very good minds. Many of them have been excellent business men and have fitted well into their social environment. If the disorder tends to shorten life or to incapacitate for work he has never heard of it. Nor does he know what causes it—that is, what causes the pituitary to go wrong; nor what can be done to remedy the abnormality.

ASTHMA AND ECZEMA.

H. F. K. writes: It cost me $8,000 to find out that pollen cause asthma and eczema. My child lived on a rich protein diet until she became sensitized. As a baby, she developed a bad eczema. Within a year she developed asthma. Her breathing was a struggle and her chest was becoming deformed. By sending her to another climate and by changing her diet we have saved her. She is sensitive to dextrine in her diet and to timothy hay pollen in the air.

USUALLY IS RINGWORM.

T. M. C. writes: Will you please publish the cause of blisters between the toes that itch dreadfully? Is there any cure for them? I am in torture.

REPLY.

This is pompholyx. The usual cause is ringworm of the feet. Hot weather and wearing heavy shoes and socks may be contributing causes. The cure depends on the cause.

NITS IN THE SCALP.

B. R. Z writes: I have been having nits on my scalp for over a month. Is there anything I can do to get rid of them?

REPLY.

Wash them away with warm vinegar. Use a fine comb. Grease the hair a little. Finally, remember that if you keep bees you will get errs.

NO DUMPING.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the People.]—We want to know when they will clean and put a sign, "No Dumping Allowed," on the southeast corner lot of Iowa and Kedvale.

We have reported it more than once without any satisfactory results. Some people in the neighborhood have this lot as the general dumping place, while their refuse cans are kept clean.

J. D. M.

Report is made that lot at the southeast corner of Iowa street and Kedvale avenue has been given a thorough cleaning. Notices have also been served on householders in the neighborhood to refrain from further dumping on said lot, which will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with. JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Ho for Vacation! Our Own Guide to Far Off Lands.

Now vacation time is coming and the great question is where to go. The north is always alluring in the summer time. South is towards the tropics and lands that pulse with heat in the summer time, but the north is towards the North Pole, the land of perpetual winter, of icebergs, and weather so cold that thermometers can't go low enough to tell just how cold it really is. So, then, on our first vacation trip let us journey north. Get aboard a North Clark street trolley and after a pleasant voyage disembark when you come to North avenue. Ah, here you are in the north on your vacation. You can buy ice cream cones and go over and see the polar bears and feel as though you were right at the North Pole.

If you wish to go east on your vacation there are many delightful places inviting you. There's the Municipal Pier, or as it is generally called the Muny-sip-pal Pier, with the accent on the middle syllable, and to the south there is Grant Park. But while Grant Park is to the south it is hardly so far south that you will know you are going towards the burning tropics unless, of course, you should cross 12th street. Naturally, when the traveler goes south of 12th street he feels the difference in temperature at once.

Many vacationists, as the time nears when they can get away from the drudgery of the office and the roar of the great city, will begin to dream of the west with its mountains and rolling plains, the crafty Sioux, the wild Apaches, and the sad eyed cowboys who ride around all day on their ponies singing "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie." So, then, Westward Ho, as Charles Kingsley so well said. One of the loveliest places in the great west is Maywood, that can be nicely reached on the elevated railroad. Then there is the Forest Preserve Park along the Des Plaines river out west. There are no Indians there now, but there used to be a great many. Anyhow, it's west, and that's where you said you wanted to go.

Next week we will tell you (if people don't quit talking to us about the depression) how one can have a jolly vacation walking up and down Rush street.

TULIP TREES.

You never told me you had tulip trees,
But here's a lofty pair—and laden now
With yellow candle-cups on every bough.
Ten years ago I saw the like of these Upon a college hill in Illinois.
Yes, it was iridescent June, and I
Was wearing cap and gown, eager to try
Pedantic sword against some modern Troy.

Quickly enough I learned a paper blade
Avails but little in a world of steel.
Crusading lost incentive—yet I feel
Envy for others who today parade
On campus walks, forsaking lecture rooms
With dreams as fragile as the tulip blooms.

IT'S GOING to be tough for Cal Coolidge on his vacation. He isn't going to write his column, but of course he will write to friends, and every time he puts down, "Having a wonderful time, wish you were here," he'll sit and look gloomily at it and realize that there's eight words, sixteen dollars, just utterly wasted.

PRESIDENT LOWELL of Harvard deplores the tendency of American education to prolong infancy. We always feel the same way whenever we watch the cheer leaders at a football game. IN THE OLDER DAYS they used to go around on their knees to beg somebody to be a good fellow and put his pride in his pocket and be the candidate of the Democrats for President. ANOTHER ONE OF HIS TRICK SHOTS

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 9, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary of State Bryan resigned from the cabinet and President Wilson promptly accepted the resignation. Unwilling to sign the forthcoming note to Berlin which he fears may precipitate war between the United States and Germany, the man who made Mr. Wilson President relinquished the position he was given as a reward for his work at the Baltimore convention. With the President and an overwhelming majority of the cabinet opposed to his views, Mr. Bryan struggled in vain to effect a material modification of the rejoinder to the German reply to the Lusitania note. The note to which Mr. Bryan could not bring himself to affix his signature will be signed by Robert Lansing, the counselor of the state department.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An entire reorganization of the Wilson cabinet is a possibility as a result of the resignation of Secretary of State Bryan. Few persons here regard the appointment of Robert Lansing, counselor of the state department, to the position of secretary of state as a permanent one

ROME.—"I stand ready now or at any future time to coöperate with President Wilson in any move that is destined to bring about European peace," Pope Benedict said when giving audience today to Miss Jane Addams of Chicago and Dr. Aletta Jacobs of Holland, representatives of the women's peace conference.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 9, 1901.

CHICAGO.—The University of Chicago is preparing to reach across the sea and secure footholds in the capitals of Europe. Kenwood Institute for Girls, an affiliated school of the university, is to establish a branch in Paris on Oct. 15, to be known as the American Home School for Girls. Its work will be under the immediate charge of Miss Elizabeth Wallace, heretofore instructor of French in the university and head of Beecher hall, and of Miss Emma Baird, for many years principal of a girls' school in Kansas City.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Margaret Chestnut, 5755 La Salle street, went to the meat market of John Williams, a neighbor at 5739 Wentworth avenue, and horsewhipped him. She charged that he had defamed her character.

CHICAGO.—Having called in vain for weeks for "Dr." John Alexander Dowie to come to her bedside and pray for her, Miss Sarah Sloan, the seventh victim of Dowieism within the last few weeks, died at her rooms in the Zion boarding house at 1425 Michigan avenue. Dowie disregarded every call from the stricken woman to come to her side, sending "Elder" John Gabriel Speicher and other fetchers and carriers in the church to mumble prayers.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 9, 1881.

CLEVELAND, O.—The Ohio Republican convention held here was harmoniously enthusiastic. Gov. Foster, State Treasurer Turney, and Attorney General Nash were renominated. J. G. Richards was nominated for lieutenant governor and Nicholas Longworth, one of the very ablest members of the Ohio bar, for Supreme court judge.

HARTFORD, Conn.—The reunion of the Army of the Potomac held here was an exceedingly successful affair. Gen. Sherman in responding to the toast, "The Army and the Navy," uttered a scathing criticism of Jefferson Davis' recently published work, "The Rise and Fall of the Southern Confederacy." He denounced as grossly and notoriously untrue the charges made against him as to cruel conduct at Atlanta and as to the burning of Columbia. He cited various trustworthy authorities to prove Davis' statements false in every particular. Secretary of War Robert T. Lincoln responded to the toast, "The President of the United States."

ALBANY, N. Y.—Surprising gains were made by friends of the Garfield administration in the voting to elect successors to Senators Conkling and Platt, who resigned their seats during a row with the President over appointments. A vote of 51 for Chauncey M. Depew to 29 for Platt was polled and for the Conkling seat Conkling received 34, Rogers 15, Wheeler 21, and Gov. Cornell 19.

EXPENSE OF ELECTRIFICATION.

Chicago, May 29.—The electrification of Chicago's railways as proposed is a much greater undertaking than the general public realizes, and the burden of expense incident to its establishment is seemingly entirely overlooked in the discussion in your columns.

From the facts so far disclosed it appears that the interest upon a new investment necessary for this purpose would be not less than thirty million dollars a year which would have to be secured from somewhere. The traffic would not be increased a particle by electrification and the present volume of traffic would have to support this thirty million dollar annual charge.

A burden of that extent would have the effect of requiring higher freight rates on all traffic to, in or through the city and also higher suburban passenger fares, unless the burden could be shifted to other localities. However, it cannot be presumed that other communities are going to assume this burden.

The terminal charges in and about Chicago are now fully as heavy as the traffic can support and the growing tendency of regulatory authorities will in time pin this expense upon the traffic of this community. Such a condition would have a tendency to drive manufacturing industries out of the city in order that they might be able to compete successfully with smaller cities and the whole effect would be very detrimental to Chicago.

Chicago's interest lies in the direction of lessening its transportation costs and by no means increasing them.

JOS. M. BART.

SCOTLAND YARD.

Chicago, June 4.—Quit calling the new police bureau "Scotland Yard." This is America, and let's find an American name for it. Have we no originality that we must always be adopting foreign names for our American organizations? Chicago has needed just such a police bureau for years. Now let Chicago, through the papers, name this new bureau. J. S. M.

A STRAY DOG.

Chicago, June 4.—For the last month the people living between 52d and 53d on Loomis have been trying to get the dog pound department to pick up a stray dog running loose on that street, but to no avail. I know positively that four different people called up that department on that subject, besides the two times that I had called up. He is always chasing after the children, and now that the hot weather is coming on he may turn vicious and bite some one.

JOHN P. THELEN.

VANDALISM.

Chicago, June 2.—In a leisurely walk the other day on roads and lanes along the Des Plaines river the writer was made sad in noting evidences of the terrific destruction of our delicately beautiful late spring woodland flora.

Such gems of the region as wild sweet william (phlox), wild geranium, and hyacinth and entire branches of wild burnum and thornapple, all new in blossom, were found thrown carelessly about, uprooted, torn from their natural home, their progeny cut off, the wilted bodies in mute appeal to every heart that beats with nature.

How soon will they follow other favorites of the fathers into the dead past—such as the ladies' slippers, moccasin, orchids, fringed gentians, innocent eyed blue-eyed Mary and Dutchman's breeches or whitehearts now hardly more than a memory or mummified in museums!

What is to be done about it?

Here's a hint: some years ago a campaign was waged against poison in public. It was found necessary to make a few of those who would not believe in signs nor heed suggestions feel the heavy hand of the law. Only a short campaign was found necessary. With its attendant publicity, some officials, etc., this had, a most salutary effect, the result was most gratifying and the evil has been well abated.

IF THIS BE TREASON.

Chicago, June 4.—Why do we continue to waste time, money and energy bickering with downstate legislators who refuse to play the game on its merits? Why should a mayor of the city of Chicago, a man of proved ability and integrity, have to sweat blood and water the best interests of his people to bring order out of treble years of chaos? Why can't the city of Chicago and the rest of Cook county receive as a harmonious whole, secede from the state and incorporate the "State of Chicago," as the District of Columbia is incorporated in the state of Maryland? If we sink then we sink alone and as a result of our own near-sighted policies and will not be needed under by a crowd of incompetents.

ROBT. P. DRAKE.

NAKED.

Chicago, May 31.—I wonder as to the why or wherefore of requiring boys and young men in the Y. M. C. A.'s and certain public schools to appear trouserless in the swimming pools? Does not tend to cause the youth of today to lose some of the self-pride and manliness needed in the world today? Why encourage youth to be more brazen than what it is?

"STILL ANOTHER GUARANTEE"

[New York World-Telegram.]

ENTER CHICAGO MAN IN $80,000 DIXIE MYSTERY

He Got Cash, Mississippi Inquiry Told.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jackson, Miss., June 8.—[Special.]—Mississippi's famous $80,000 political mystery, which involves governorship aspirations, professional reputations, the possible loss of millions to the state, and which even has had a marked effect on Mississippi's educational institutions, took a new turn today, bringing into the picture a Chicago road contractor named "Jack Wilson."

The latest development of a two year old scandal came in testimony of Curl Marshall, one of southern Mississippi's most famous lawyers, who was up before Circuit Judge Sidney M. Potter on proceedings started against him by the State Bar association.

"Who got the money?"

Question Finally Answered.

That was the question which the grievance committee put to him and which he has consistently refused to answer for nearly two years. All Mississippi was waiting the answer, hoping he might name any one from Governor Theodore G. Bilbo down.

That the $80,000 was paid to Marshall in a secret hotel conference in Memphis on Sept. 7, 1929, by Gerge E. Crafts of Boston, general counsel for the Warren Brothers Paving company, is admitted by Crafts and Marshall. Eighteen thousand of it went to settle claims which the city had against this company.

"Who got the $62,000?"

This was the question put to Mr. Marshall this morning as the hearing resumed before the political and legal life of Mississippi. The questioner was Judge Jeff Truly, a Chesterfieldian old lawyer with white side whiskers, representing the grievance committee.

A Reluctant Reply.

Marshall had refused to answer the question before other tribunals and was even cited for contempt by the court, but was pardoned by Gov. Bilbo, his close friend.

One last effort was made today to force answer when the question of relation of confidence between attorney and clients was raised by Mr. Marshall's lawyer, but Judge Potter ruled that no such relationship existed in this case.

"Who was the man?" insisted Judge Truly.

Mr. Marshall, at ease on the witness stand, frosted in white linen and taking the proceedings somewhat jokingly, tapped the ashes from his cigaret and said:

"The man was Jack C. Wilson of Chicago, a road man."

Q.—Tell us more about this man Wilson. Where does he live? A.—Chicago is his home.

Q.—What connection did he have with you? A.—I acted for him as an accommodation for him and for others associated with him.

Won't Know Others.

Q.—Who were the others? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you mean that this is the man to whom you gave the $62,000? A.—He's the man.

Q.—When and where did you give it to him? A.—In Memphis, all except $1,000.

The money was in the form of six $10,000 bills and four $500 bills. It has been revealed in other testimony that all of these bills were changed into money of smaller denomination at a bank in Gulfport, Miss., several days after Sept. 7, and that Marshall had charged them. He was accompanied to the bank by an unidentified man.

Q.—Where did you next see this Chicago man? A.—On the coast.

Q.—Did he bring the money down to get it changed? A.—Yes, but I didn't know until the committee investigated it that I had changed all the bills for him.

A Little Black Bag.

When put the money in a little black satchel, Marshall said, and caught the Panama Limited north. He last saw Wilson a few months ago on the gulf coast.

Q.—Did Wilson tell you anything to give you the impression that the money had been divided? A.—He did not. I got the impression that he might have given some of the money to Lester Franklin to use in his campaign, but I don't know what he did with the money.

Franklin, chairman of the state tax commission, is at present a candidate for governor in a five cornered primary race. He was impeached by the house on charges growing out of this scandal but was acquitted before the senate court by a vote of 26 to 22.

Marshall, although pardoned by the governor in his contempt case, was sought again by the house but fled to New Orleans until the session was over.

Why Money Was Paid.

The $80,000 mystery is not yet cleared up in the minds of Marshall's hearers today, and there was much speculation as to why a New England paving concern should pay out this money at all, and why a Chicago man should be the recipient of the major portion.

There was, it seems, a legitimate complaint against the paving concern in the town of Durant, Miss., and in connection with this settlement some Jackson attorneys came to the conclusion that the big paving company was subject to the anti-trust laws of the state and that millions might be collected from it. There is a suspicion that the payment of the $80,000 had something to do with the failure to press the anti-trust suit.

Caldwell Goes on Trial.

ARGUE KIRKLAND SENTENCE TODAY IN TRIAL COURT

Valparaiso, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge Grant Crumpacker will hear arguments tomorrow on whether Virgil Kirkland, convicted of assault and battery in connection with the rape and murder of Ariene Draves, Gary school girl, should have been sentenced to 5 to 21 years in state prison instead of 1 to 10 years in the state reformatory. Kirkland was returned to the county jail here from the reformatory to await the outcome of the arguments.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

REPUBLICANS RESUME EFFORT TO REMAP STATE

Fear Democratic Threat if They Delay.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Republican assembly leaders, stirred by threats from the Democrats of a Democratic remap on congress in 1933 if another landslide comes their way next year, tonight in a series of conferences prepared to renew their fight for congressional reapportionment this week.

HAROLD KESSINGER.

The Democratic caucus voted against reapportionment into 27 new districts last week, on the theory that if their party wins Illinois in 1932, it might control the assembly and be enabled to make a remap favorable to Democrats. This has stirred the Republicans, who fear that the result would be to freeze out Republican congressmen.

Other Fights Brewing.

Other battles set for the house in the final fortnight involve the questions of a constitutional convention, a gateway amendment, women's 8 hour law, judicial advisory reform bills, state highway police, election reforms and the move by a group of Chicago aldermen to have the two years for which they were elected in the spring doubled to four years.

The Chicago aldermen appear to have gummed up the cards somewhat by the failure of the city council to plat Chicago into fifty new wards. Downstaters have been saying the wards are as much out of kilter as are the congressional districts, and argument is raised that on top of their delay in making new wards the aldermen are now striving to keep the present ward scheme in effect until 1935 and to double their tenure.

The resolution by Harold Kessinger for a constitutional convention, which has passed the senate, comes up in the house tomorrow. A hot fight is looked for. Opponents argue another "con con" would be a waste of time, money, and effort.

Gateway Plan Advanced.

Revenue changes are the main subject in the discussions. As a revenue amendment was voted down last November, a similar amendment cannot be submitted again for four years. The ward gateway amendment proposing that amendments to three articles at a time, instead of only one, may be submitted by the assembly has been passed by the senate and is now on the speaker's table. An effort may be made to push this as against the "con con."

On revenue and taxation the prevailing sentiment among members is that the subject matter will be left almost entirely to a special session which Gov. Emmerson has said is likely to be called if the regular session produced nothing. Hundreds of measures are wilting and dying as usual, and some of the leaders say the main task of the next two weeks is to keep a weather eye cocked on the calendar to prevent bad bills from slipping over.

Tax "Teeth" on Shelf.

Proposals to "put teeth" in the personal property tax are being met with arguments that one result would be to slap a tax on money in savings banks perhaps double the amount derived from interest. They are on the shelf at present, with other revenue measures.

The women's eight hour bill is another installment of the twenty year struggle between the Illinois Manufacturers' association and Miss Agnes Nestor and the state federation of labor. It comes up in the house on Wednesday. It has been passed by the senate and leaders look for a close vote.

THIRD DEATH FROM ACCIDENT.

Herrin, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—The third death due to an auto truck accident a week ago occurred today when Emil Vansaghi, 50, died in a hospital here of pneumonia as a result of irritation caused by fractured ribs. Two others are in a serious condition. They are Angelo Ottolini, fractured skull, and his brother Louis, a broken shoulder and other injuries.

PROPOSED STATE INSURANCE LAWS UP TO SENATE

Half Dozen Acted On by House.

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—[Special.]—Favorable senate action upon a half dozen bills introduced in the assembly by Representative William G. Thon (Rep., Chicago), which have already passed the house, would enact most of the program proposed by the state department of insurance.

WM. G. THON. [Chambers Photo.]

One change in the laws which has interested insurance men would be provided by the bill dealing with the Lloyds plan. At present partners under the Lloyds plan can each underwrite risks up to a maximum of ten per cent of the net worth of such individual. The new law provides that the maximum to be assumed by each individual on any single risk would be limited to ten per cent of each underwriter's deposit with the insurance department or with a responsible bank.

Another bill would prohibit the exchange or withdrawal of any security on deposit without the permission of the department. Still another prohibits insurance companies from investing either capital or surplus in the common stocks of industrial corporations, or in preferred or guaranteed stocks of companies that have not earned dividends equal to at least four per cent through each of the preceding five years.

UNKNOWN MAN DROPS DEAD.

An unidentified man, about 65 years old, carrying only five cents and a few keys in his pockets, dropped dead of heart disease yesterday at Ashland avenue and 47th street.

DANCER WHO LOST SIGHT ACCEPTS $33,000 PAYMENT

Amanda King, 19 years old, 2144 North Hermitage avenue, yesterday accepted a compromise payment of $33,000 from the city and the surface lines for the permanent loss of her sight in an automobile accident.

The compromise agreement was reached at a conference between her attorney, Murphy O. Tate, and counsel for the defendants, as her suit for $125,000 damages was about to go to the jury before Judge Harry B. Miller. The city will pay $13,000 and the surface lines $20,000.

Miss King, a dancer, was injured while riding in an automobile which was wrecked on Feb. 17, 1930, when it struck a depression in the street close to the car tracks in North Western avenue near Bloomingdale avenue. She lay unconscious in a hospital for several weeks. Medical witnesses testified that she will never recover her sight.

IN U. S. HOSPITAL; ORDERED OUT AS ENEMY IN WAR

Marion, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—After being a patient at the Marion National sanatorium for ten years, Carl Marshell, 37, Coldport, Pa., has been ordered evicted from the institution on the ground that he was an alien enemy during the world war.

The order for his discharge came from the U. S. veterans' bureau. Marshell was committed to the county jail after being discharged from the sanatorium pending decision of a claim for his reinstatement filed by his guardians, the Marion National bank. An honorable discharge is said to be in possession of the guardian.

Marshell asserts he served in the 25th infantry, but was returned from France and discharged here April 25, 1919.

The case is said to be the first of the kind and caused officers of the Marion American Legion post to make an investigation of Marshell's claim for hospitalization.

Montana Woman Lost 17 Pounds Weight in 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully:

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And, I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. Just try one bottle, and by following directions I am sure it will convince any one. I bought my second bottle today.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drug store in America.

Why not try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back. It's the safe way to reduce.

Gets Cash Bonus and Champ Banner

"I had previously secured my position as sales manager through an advertisement in the Chicago Tribune," writes J. L. Simpson, 1131 East Pleasant Street, Milwaukee, Wis., "and soon after I was confronted with a new problem.

"My organization had fallen down on sales. Having a large quota, as I was participating in a national sales contest, I was worried, and even laid awake at nights thinking how we could win. This was in the early part of the month for which the contest was scheduled. Something had to be done quickly.

Hires More Salesmen

"Finally the thought came to me, why not hire more salespeople whom I could place in the field fully trained within three days? Believing in the power of the Tribune, I determined to depend on it once more to help me out. Accordingly, I placed two small, inexpensive want ads in it, which brought me a sufficient number of applicants.

Over the Top!

"The sales from this new blood during the next two weeks were large enough to put my organization over the top! I won a handsome cash bonus, and my sales division gained the championship sales banner and the honor of giving a real sales licking to an old rival city."

This true want ad experience won for Mr. Simpson one of the grand prizes in the Tribune's recent competition.

Romance Rides Even In the Smoker!

WILL YOUNG LADY WHO WAS ON Smoker 7:25 Matteson express from Randolph-st. last Saturday commiserate with gentleman who left train at 57th-st.? Address P 000, Tribune.—From Personal.

Young men who sometimes grumble because the ladies frequently occupy seats in the smoking cars now have less reason to be peeved. Who knows, Cupid may sit down beside you some day! Incidentally, we've learned that this want ad was answered.

TELLS U. S. PLAN TO ROUTE ROADS AROUND CITIES

Consider Proposals for Relocating Markers.

BY HAL FOUST.

The executive committee of the Association of State Highway Officials met yesterday in the Stevens hotel with Thomas H. McDonald, director of the United States bureau of public roads, and laid before him proposals for improving the location of federal highway markers throughout the country.

The proposals, in the main, consist of taking the U. S. markers, and thereby taking the through traffic, around cities wherever possible, rather than going through business centers.

"Cities all over the country," said Mr. McDonald, "are beginning to realize that through traffic is a detriment to business property as well as residential property, generally speaking. A few years ago communities were petitioning—and many now regret their success—to get the federal routes through the main streets of their cities.

Want Most Direct Routes.

"This committee representing the state highway officials of the nation, at the opening of the session this morning, went on record favoring the principle of circumventing municipalities. In making changes in the federal routes they are also giving preference to the most direct pavements and are rejecting attempts to divert traffic for the selfish benefit of some hotel group on some resort or other commercial enterprise catering to tourists.

"The attention we are giving to the problems of cities in handling through traffic is typical of the general trend throughout the country in highway administration. The nation has made progress in establishing a system of rural roads, and the connections through cities have become the bottle necks in this system.

"In the next few years a much larger portion of road fund expenditures will be made in municipalities. The greatest problem in highway administration today is the construction of adequate traffic facilities through metropolitan areas."

Will Go to Washington.

The detailed recommendations of the Association of State Highway Officials will not be made public until they have been approved by Mr. McDonald, who will carry the proposals to Washington for study by his staff.

Of interest to the state officials was a graph brought to Chicago by Mr McDonald showing the impetus of federal aid to 1931 road building, with its unemployment relief. On June 1, $172,000,000 of federal aid had been obligated as compared with $56,000,000 on the same date of 1930 and $31,000,000 on June 1 of 1929.

Mishawaka Rubber Co. Employes Call Off Strike

Mishawaka, Ind., June 8.—[Special.]—The strike of 2,800 employes of Mishawaka Rubber and Woolen Manufacturing company ended this afternoon when employes voted to resume operations on the company's promise to discuss wage revision.

IMPERIAL VALLEY WARNS OF BOULDER DAM LAND FRAUDS

El Centro, Cal., June 8.—[Special.]—The Chamber of Commerce of this city, center of Imperial valley, has forwarded a demand to the state real estate commission to put crooked land sellers out of business. Promoters have been retailing utterly worthless land on top of the Chocolate mountains and adjacent areas and have opened offices in many midwest cities, the Chamber of Commerce resolution states. The land is put on the market with fraudulent promises and intimations to distant buyers that it will receive water and become profitable as a result of Boulder dam construction.

Brazil Dumps 594,000 Lbs. of Coffee Into the Ocean

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, June 8.—The national coffee council here today destroyed 594,000 pounds of coffee, excess stocks, by throwing it into the ocean 17 miles from shore. This method has been approved as more satisfactory than burning or dumping it near the shore. The latter method has led to the coffee being rescued by the poor.

Largest Pleasure Steamer on Lakes Docks Here

The Secandbee, described as the largest pleasure steamer on the great lakes, docked at the Navy pier yesterday afternoon and was on exhibition for visitors last night. The ship has been chartered to carry the Chicago Shriners to Cleveland on July 11 to the national convention, opening July 12. Secandbee runs between Cleveland and Buffalo, N. Y., and has sleeping accommodations for 1,200 persons.

TWO DETECTIVES GIVEN TWO YEARS ON DOPE CHARGE

Police Detectives Wallington Britton, who claims to be an Indian, and "Jesse James" Howland, Negro, were sentenced to two years at Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday for conspiracy to violate the narcotic laws.

Britton and Howland were convicted by a jury which heard testimony of Jackie Reynolds and James Claiburne, both Negroes and alleged co-conspirators who pleaded guilty and aided the government. Reynolds and Claiburne were sentenced to one year and a day each. The four were charged with hijacking 18 ounces of morphine from two Negro dope peddlers.

Judge Barnes fixed $7,500 as the amount of supersedeas bonds to permit Britton and Howland to appeal.

SON IS JAILED ON HIS MOTHER'S 23D COMPLAINT

His mother's complaint, which she said was her twenty-third court appearance because of him, caused Robert Furbon, 18 years old, to be taken to the Bridewell yesterday to serve out a $50 fine imposed by Judge Frances E. Allegretti in the Boys' court.

"Every time my son is in town I am robbed or my home is burglarized," Mrs. Lawrence Broenan, 671 West 14th place, the mother, told Judge Allegretti. "On April 27, a few days after he got back in Chicago, two bandits threatened to torture my husband and me unless we gave them $200. We got rid of them finally for $9."

"I don't know anything about it," said the son.

"This is the twenty-third time I've had him taken into court to try to straighten him out," said the mother. "Once he even threatened to kill me."

"Sure I did, because she was putting bum raps on me," Robert admitted.

He left home several years ago and has served time on Georgia chain gangs and in Florida jails on charges of vagrancy brought against him during his wanderings about the country, the youth admitted.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

The Seashore in the 90's—seems old-fashioned today, but no more so than automatic refrigerators that are full of noise and machinery.

Noisy automatic refrigerators seem positively antique alongside the absolute noiselessness of Electrolux

IT IS plain good sense to discard obsolete ways of doing things, to adopt newer, better methods. And that's why so many people are turning to Electrolux. Already more than 150,000 homes have chosen this modern automatic refrigerator that works without so much as a single moving part.

The whole thing is so simple. No machinery is used to circulate the refrigerant in Electrolux. All the work is done by a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water. Common ammonia, little stronger than the household kind, is first evaporated, then condensed. That's all there is to it, and the result is constant, steady cold, abundant ice cubes. The chilling action never ceases, but goes on continuously. And the refrigerant itself is hermetically sealed within a rigid steel unit; the gas flame completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

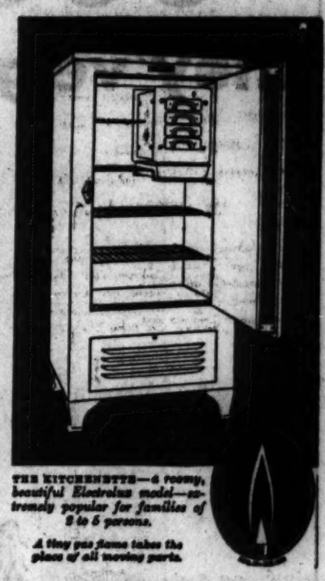
There's never any noise from this refrigerator, and there never will be. It has nothing that moves, therefore nothing to wear and vibrate, even after years of constant service.

Stranger still, the operating cost of this ideal refrigerator is far less than what most people spend for refrigeration. Never more than a few cents a day for both gas and water.

Electrolux is easily installed. Connections for gas and water are through concealed flexible copper tubing, and are quickly made for you by your gas company. And this is important to remember—should your Electrolux ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

These unparalleled advantages, present in no other refrigerator, have made Electrolux the choice of prominent architects and builders everywhere. It is featured in luxurious apartments, shown with pride in fine private homes.

There are 10 household models to choose from, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Despite the unique advantages of Electrolux, its prices are no higher. If you want to be sure of getting the most for your money in an automatic refrigerator, see this one at the nearest showroom of your gas company. When renting an apartment, look for Electrolux in the kitchen. And for complete information by mail, write us or phone Wabash 6000.



THE KITCHENETTE—A roomy, beautiful Electrolux model—extremely popular for families of 2 to 5 persons.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE

Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of any other means of refrigeration.

EVERY BRANCH OF NAVY FORCED TO SLICE BUDGET

40 Million Under Amount Voted for This Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—[Special.]—A call for the cooperation of his entire department in the formulation of new economy plans in line with the desires expressed by President Hoover during the week-end navy conferences at the Rapidan fishing camp was sounded today by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

HIRAM BINGHAM. [Fotogram.]

Immediately upon his arrival at his office he called for the chiefs of branches and other high administration officials and explained the necessity of stricter economies if the goal outlined by the President was to be achieved. While no details were made public it was learned that virtually every branch of the navy will have to spend less money in 1932 and 1933 than its financial program calls for.

As the navy chiefs met this morning, they had before them the net results of the week-end Rapidan conferences. There included a promise by the navy department to trim the appropriations voted for the 1932 year by congress by at least $15,000,000. As the funds voted for the navy during 1932 were cut $24,000,000 below the 1931 appropriations by the budget last winter, this means the navy will have to get along on something like $40,000,000 less than congress voted for naval activities during the current year.

Abandon Island of Guam.

In addition the navy at the request of the President has agreed to abandon the island of Guam as a naval station and to recall all naval personnel there with the exception of those needed for civilian administration.

Just why the island of Guam, where less than a million dollars is expended annually, should have been singled out by the administration as a place to economize puzzled congressmen and naval officials today. One navy wag hazarded the guess that it might be due to the fact that the island does not boast a single congressman or voter. In any event, this naval station is the only one of the scores of shore naval stations, yards and properties operated by the navy which has been definitely singled out for trimming.

Reductions in naval personnel at Guam have been going on for some time. At present the navy maintains 57 officers and 618 enlisted men and marines at this point. Of this number 170 enlisted men are stationed aboard the Penguin, a mine sweeper, and the Gold Star, a station ship.

Naval officials declined to say how many of these men would be retained to handle civilian activities and the naval radio station there that furnishes one of this country's most important communication links to the Philippines.

It was learned today that officials in control of the navy take the position that the Washington army treaty of 1922 which banned fortification of the island of Guam actually clipped it of any military value in peace times.

A division of opinion exists, however, as to the advisability of removing all military forces.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] today advocated transfer of the island to the interior department if it is to be given up as a naval base. Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] announced that he would confer with Secretary Adams on the Guam matter tomorrow.

ALDERMEN ORDER GOLD PORTRAITS OF EIGHT WAR HEROES

Portraits in twenty-four karat gold of eight Chicagoans who won the congressional medal of honor, the highest award for bravery in the world war, were ordered yesterday by the council finance committee, which recommended an appropriation of $800 for the purpose.

The photographs, done in gold on copper plates, will hang in Pershing hall, a memorial building which the American Legion is to erect in Paris, along with those of eighty-six other Americans who won the congressional medal. Chicago had more medal winners than any other city.

The eight are Corporal Jake Allex, Company H, 131st infantry; Sergt. Johannes S. Anderson, Company B, 132d infantry; Sergt. Sidney G. Gumpertz, Company E, 132d infantry; Private Harold I. Johnston, Company A, 356th infantry; Private John Joseph Kelly, 78th company, sixth regiment, United States marines; Private Berger Loman, Company H, 132d infantry; Corporal Thomas A. Pope, Company E, 131st infantry, and First Lieut. Harold Ernest Goettler, 50th aero squadron, who was awarded the medal posthumously after he had been killed while flying supplies to the "lost battalion."

The committee also recommended the purchase for $37,050 of fourteen seven passenger Nash automobiles for use as police squad cars.

Merit Board Starts Hearing of Gayton Ouster Petition

The civil service commission opened its hearing yesterday on the petition of Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague to remove Loren D. Gayton from office as city engineer, on the grounds that Richard W. Wolfe Richard W. Wolfe, former public works commissioner, and the civil service board under the former administration violated the law in allowing Gayton to take the examination on which he was appointed. Gayton is now suspended. Following opening statements by his attorney, Michael J. Ahern, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Francis J. Vurpillat, the hearing was continued to June 23.

PERSHING HONORS NEGRO GOLD STAR MOTHERS IN PARIS

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—Forty American Negro gold star mothers and widows, who arrived in France yesterday on a pilgrimage to the graves of their sons or husbands, were addressed by Gen. Pershing at a tea given in their honor today.

The former commander-in-chief of the American expeditionary forces praised the Negro soldier, saying he was the equal of any fighting man in the world, if properly trained and led.

Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Mrs. Edge, Consul General Leo J. Keena and Mrs. Keena, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence V. Benet of Washington and Paris were only a few of the distinguished group which welcomed the American pilgrims.

PLAN HEARING ON LAKE FRONT AIRPORT ISSUE

Members of the Chicago aero commission at a meeting yesterday voted to hold a public hearing on the question of a lake front airport on June 18 in the finance committee rooms at the city hall. The hearing will give all parties interested in the project their first opportunity to express their views.

Through the hearings the subcommittee on the proposed lake front airport will seek the answers to the following questions? Is a lake front airport necessary? If so, where should it be built, how shall the cost of construction be met, and who shall bear the expense?

Those invited to participate in the hearing include air line operators, well known pilots, airplane dealers, representatives of the city, county, state, and federal governments.

NEW DIVORCE TRIAL IS DENIED TO MRS. BERRY

Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday denied a new trial to Mrs. Frances Mary Berry, 200 East Chestnut street, whose husband, H. Roy Berry, real estate operator, was granted a divorce last Wednesday. Attorney Albert Sabath, representing Mrs. Berry, presented the motion for a new trial. Mrs. Berry had also asked for a divorce.

Attorney Sabath argued that he was not present at the hearing when the divorce was granted. He held Berry and his wife to be equally guilty of grounds for divorce, declaring it was inequitable to brand her a drunkard and guilty of cruelty. When the motion for a new trial was overruled Attorney Sabath asked that a divorce be given Mrs. Berry instead of to her former husband. The judge will hear the motion today.

The Interesting Reasons for Kimball's National Popularity

See our Wabash Avenue windows this week. They are of interest to Chicagoans and the hundreds of piano dealers attending the National Convention in session here.

The interesting first reason for seeing these windows, whether you are home owner or dealer, is found in the FIRST displays of new models in the Kimball line.

We prefer to leave to the pianos themselves the praise we might otherwise print. You know artistry of design; you know modernity; you know beauty. See these new models.

Then will you see, primarily, why Kimball is today nationally accepted by home owner, dealer, educator, professional musician. You will appreciate why there are more Kimballs in the home than any other single American make. (Comprising models to fit every budget.)

Note, too, how the story of music—and Kimball—is carried to the far corners of the land through the printed word. Then you will realize why this seventy-four year old business is as new in methods as the models themselves.

Come in, too, and HEAR these Kimballs. Then you will know the true, whole story of Kimball success.

SHIFT PUTS NEW POLICE ON JOB IN FIVE DISTRICTS

Alcock Transfers 673 in Sweeping Move.

Citizens living in five police districts, including practically all of the south side colored belt, will see an entirely new set of faces among the bluecoats patrolling their streets this morning, as a result of a sweeping transfer order issued yesterday.

CAPT. GREGORY MORAN.

Acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock shifted 5 captains, 6 lieutenants, 35 sergeants and 624 patrolmen, a total of 673 men. His order cleaned out practically the entire personnel of the South State street district, which embraces the old 22d street area, the Pekin and Stanton avenue districts in the black belt, and the Des Plaines street district, recently the scene of raids on gambling joints and vice resorts which were demanded by the special grand jury.

"For Good of Service."

The Deering district also has a new personnel, but transfers there were made to accomplish the cleanups in the other four districts, and not as a result of any complaints regarding conditions there, Chief Alcock said. To the other transfers he applied the stock phrase, "for the good of the service," but he admitted that they were made after he had received extensive reports from investigators regarding prostitution, gambling and general crime in the districts involved.

The new arrangement in the colored district, it is expected, will result in a tightening of law enforcement conditions there, which Mayor Cermak charged recently had been lax under the former administration. He stated that soft drink parlors and other businesses had been allowed to operate on a wide scale without payment of city license fees, and that he had received complaints from many respectable colored citizens of open prostitution near their homes.

"Too many patrolmen," Chief Alcock said after he had issued the transfer order, "become acquainted with operators of questionable enterprises after they have been on the same beats a long time. Later, they become friendly and allow law violators to go unmolested."

Name Captains Transferred.

Of the captains transferred, Gregory C. Moran was sent from Austin to Chicago avenue. Martin C. Mullen, who has been assigned to Des Plaines street, but actually on sick leave, replaces Capt. Moran at Austin. John A. Egan was sent from Chicago avenue to Wabash avenue; Daniel A. Gilbert from Wabash avenue to Woodlawn, and William L. Stapleton from Woodlawn to the detective bureau.

The transfer of Capt. Gilbert out of Wabash avenue completes the cleanup in that district. In a transfer order involving more than 400 men issued last Friday, Chief Alcock sent all of the rest of the Wabash avenue personnel to other districts, replacing them with men from south side districts.

The six lieutenants transferred are William A. Byrne, from Stanton avenue to Pekin; John E. McCarthy, from Pekin to Stanton avenue; Joseph Pieroth, from Pekin to Stanton avenue; Michael Golden, from Stanton avenue to Pekin; John Scott, from Stanton avenue to the detective bureau, and Michael Moran, from Englewood to Stanton avenue.

136 from Des Plaines.

The transfer order shifted 136 men out of Des Plaines street, 92 out of South State street, 86 out of Pekin, 78 out of Stanton avenue, and 89 out of Deering, which was practically the entire personnel of each station, excepting a few men carried on the rolls there but on special assignments elsewhere.

Among those who "cleaned out their desks"—the traditional departmental phrase for preparing to leave on a transfer order—were nine men who served a total of 256 years at the South State street station. All had survived hundreds of transfers.

They are Patrolmen Joseph McGurl, 40 years; James Touhy, 38 years; Andrew Creigh, 32 years; Frank Reich, 32 years; John Hayes, 24 years; Peter Ford, 25 years; John Burns, 25 years; Rodey O'Brien, 33 years, and Martin McTigue, 24 years.

DRY LEADER WHO ROBBED ORPHANS FIGHTS SENTENCE

Asks U.S. Supreme Court to Review Case.

Richmond, Va., June 8.—[Special.]—Preliminary steps toward having the United States Supreme court review the findings of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, which refused a writ of error in the case of James P. Jones, former treasurer of the Anti-Saloon league of Virginia, convicted in the Hustings court here of embezzling funds of the Virginia Methodist Orphanage, were taken when a petition for a writ of certiorari was filed with Charles E. Cropley, the clerk, in Washington.

Court in Recess.

The Supreme court is now in recess and the next term will open Oct. 5. The Jones petition, Cropley announced, will be considered by the entire court when it convenes. It had been hoped by the defense previously that the petition could be circulated during the court's vacation and that any one of the judges could order the writ, which would have the effect of permitting the release of Jones on bail pending the full review of the case.

Jones was convicted Nov. 7 and his application for a writ of error was refused April 8. A sentence of five years on the embezzlement charge was the verdict of the jury which heard the case. He was admitted to bail after his conviction and last week was ordered confined in the Richmond city jail, Judge John L. Ingram permitting him to choose between the jail and the state penitentiary here.

Member of Legislature.

Jones is a member of the house of delegates and was leader of the so-called "moral forces" in the lower branch of the Virginia legislature. He had been treasurer of the orphanage for more than three years. An audit of the institution's books showed an apparent shortage of approximately $37,000.

The defense last week appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals from the decision of Judge Ingram in refusing to renew Jones' bond. Judge Louis Epes declined to grant the writ.

Hero of Eastland Disaster Free from Asylum on Writ

John Siwek, an acetylene welder who cut through the side of the steamer Eastland and rescued more than 100 persons in the river disaster sixteen years ago, was released from the Kankakee asylum yesterday by habeas corpus proceedings before Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton. Attorney Jay J. McCarthy charged in a petition filed at the request of John Firy, a nephew, that Siwek's commitment two weeks ago was the result of "spite work" on the part of his estranged wife, Mrs. Catherine Siwek, 2811 South Winchester avenue.

CAUGHT STEALING FOR HIS GIRL FRIEND, FILIPINO KILLS DOCTOR

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—George Damiar, alias Damico, Filipino house servant, sought since Dr. George E. Deely, prominent Brooklyn physician, was found beaten and stabbed to death in his home on June 2, was arrested early today. Later he confessed.

"I killed Dr. Deely because I needed money badly for my girl friend, Mrs. Mary Dehon," he told District Attorney William F. Geoghan of Brooklyn.

Damiar said that he went to the doctor's house on the night of June 2, let himself in the front door with a key he had kept and made his way to Dr. Deely's bedroom.

"I went into the room," the Filipino continued, "and Dr. Deely was lying on his bed.

"He was dozing, but the lights were on. I went over to the dresser and took $54 and his wallet. But I made a noise. Dr. Deely leaped from the bed.

"I smashed him twice in the face with my fists and he fell. As he went down he grabbed one of the posts of his bed and the big ball on its end came off. I jumped on top of him and hit him with the ball until he was unconscious. Then I went down to the butler's pantry and got a fruit knife. I stabbed him with the knife. I don't know how many times."

Damiar said he went to the Dehon woman's home and gave her $13 of the money he had taken from the doctor. Then he paid her landlady $20.

WHY, FLORENCE PARKER FLED HOME OF LUXURY

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—The "family troubles", which caused Florence Parker, 22, stepdaughter of James MacDonough, formerly a vice president of the Manufacturers Trust company, to disappear from her Yonkers home last February turned up in Supreme court at White Plaines today in a separation suit filed by the girl's mother against the banker.

MRS. DONNA MAC DONOUGH.

Mrs. MacDonough, mother of Miss Parker, charged cruelty. Through her attorneys she charged that her husband hurled two chairs at her in their Yonkers home, that he once tried to choke her.

In reply, MacDonough entered a general denial of all his wife's charges and countered with the claim that directors of the Manufacturers trust asked him to resign as senior vice president when news of his marital difficulties became public at the time of his stepdaughter's disappearance.

Miss Parker was found in a Times square hotel by detectives after an extended search for her. She declared she left home because her mother and stepfather could not "get along."

BRAZIL'S STATES CRY FOR END OF 'DICTATORSHIP'

Want Constitutional Rule; Unrest Grows.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELEM, Para, Brazil, June 8.—Unrest rising out of dissatisfaction with the provisional government and its dictatorial system of federal interventors is growing throughout the states of Brazil. This nervousness is aggravated by the continued decline in the value of the milreis and the fact that several small states are facing imminent bankruptcy.

DR. GETULIO VARGAS. [Acme Photo.]

Elements hitherto indifferent to politics have become alarmed, and many who loyally supported Provisional President Getulio Vargas in last October's revolution are calling for a constitutional government, convinced that only such a move will stimulate business and overcome a threatened breakup of the federal union.

Calls for Constitutional Rule.

Minas Geraes, the most powerful political state, has swung over to former President Arthur Bernardes' campaign for federal elections and a constitutional government. The old Minas Geraes democratic party has been revived, and while declaring it will support Dr. Vargas, calls for an immediate constitutional regime.

Unrest in Sao Paulo has been marked by the wholesale resignation of all democratic leaders holding official positions and open opposition to Col. Joao Alberto, federal interventor. The resigning officials declare they have withdrawn their support from the provisional government. The revolt of two Sao Paulo militia battalions, forcibly put down by Col. Alberto, was hushed to prevent a spread of similar feeling.

State police of Pernambuco, under the influence of politicians of the late conservative regime, attempted a revolt against the federal interventor of that state. Federal troops were rushed there to quell this demonstration. In Rio Grande do Sul, where the October revolution was strongly supported, there has been an "about face" and those who were staunchly behind President Vargas originally, are now calling for elections.

Dr. Vargas has declared that the provisional government has had no time to complete the work of the revolution and that elections and a constitutional government will then follow. But this assurance has not stopped the cries of "wolf" from various regions, and ugly rumors are growing daily.

Censor "Alarming Rumors."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RAO PAULO, June 8.—Oswaldo Aranha, minister of justice, today announced that the provisional government of Brazil needs criticism, but not the alarming false rumors which are hindering the economic reconstruction of the nation. For this reason, he said, the government has created a publicity department to verify the truthfulness of reports before they are published.

"The situation calls for calmness, good will, and peace," he declared. "Four or five more months are needed before a change in government can take place. To return to the constitution before an economic reorganization would be folly."

ACTOR LOSES HIS ACTRESS WIFE IN STATION CROWD

Alfred Lunt and his wife, Lynn Fontanne, inseparable players with the New York Theater Guild, lost one another for a few minutes yesterday in the union station while passing through Chicago en route from New York to Milwaukee.

Mr. Lunt jumped off the Broadway Limited several steps in advance of his mate and sprinted down the platform to buy tickets for a Milwaukee train which was to leave in a few minutes. Returning, he found that the spot where he left his wife was vacant. All was chaos for several minutes until Mr. Lunt, at the head of a searching party of red caps, located his partner already aboard the Milwaukee train.

MOTHER AND HER 7 CHILDREN HELD IN CAR 11 DAYS

Tells of Trip to Prison Camp in Siberia.

ET R. VON ALFTHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, June 8.—An old woman from Ingermanland has succeeded in dispatching a letter abroad from a prison camp in Krasnojarsk, Siberia, describing the horrors to which Ingermanland women and children have been subjected.

Several months ago her husband was seized and forced to work in the underbrush, her letter states, adding that the bolsheviks entered her house in the middle of the night, seized her and her seven children and loaded them into a closed railroad car where twenty others were imprisoned. The journey lasted 11 days, and during that time the doors of the car were never opened.

Children Die on Trip.

Food was scarce, and there was insufficient drinking water. The filthiness, the woman declares, became indescribable, and several children died during the journey.

After arriving at Krasnojarsk, the prisoners were taken to a barracks with a leaky roof. All women able to do physical work were given tasks. Little attention was paid to the sick mothers and the children.

A soldier told was told by three boys who escaped from Krasnojarsk to Finland by swimming across the boarding river Yysterback. They also told of the 11 day journey in sealed box cars. When they departed four loaves of bread per car were distributed, and nothing more in the way of food was received until their arrival.

No Water to Drink.

Water was distributed once a day during the journey, but hardly enough was left for drinking purposes. The men, who were sent to work in Krasnojarsk, were given one pound of bread daily, and women, children and old people to work received only a quarter of a pound per day.

No milk was available for the children, and they were fed with some kind of grain. In consequence the mortality was extremely high, the boys and girls suffering most.

In northern churches of Finland prayers have been held for the Ingermanlanders, who are a small group of Finnish speaking farmers.

Canadian Shoots Horses; No Water; Abandons Farm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REGINA, Sask., June 8.—After shooting his twelve horses, John Thomas, a farmer from southern Saskatchewan, came to Regina today on his way out of the country. He called at the board of trade offices for road maps. He said that he could not get enough water for the animals because of the drought. He had been hauling it from a tank for water, but the supply had run short. The horses were suffering, he said, and "had to die."

ZITA REPORTED SEEKING WEDDING ALLIANCE IN ITALY

VATICAN CITY, June 8.—(AP)—There were rumors today that former Empress Zita of Austria, who was granted a private audience with Pope Pius today, has come to Italy to attempt to arrange a marriage between her son, Prince Otto, and Princess Maria, youngest daughter of the Italian king and queen. It was said in semi-official circles, however, that there was little likelihood that such a marriage would be considered at present.

DOCTORS ACT TO INFORM PUBLIC OF PURE FOODS

Analyze Labeled Product, Affix Approved Seal.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 8.—(AP)—The American Medical association today made public details of its latest health move for informing the public about the value of the new "scientific" foods.

This work superimposes upon the already established "pure food" practices an analysis of the health effects, and an attempt to get away from any risk that what is one man's food may be another's poison. It seeks to direct manufacturers and advertisers to give the public information which will build up health as well as sell food.

Offers to Examine All Foods.

The results of the first year of this campaign were reported at the opening session of the house of delegates by the committee on foods. It offers to examine all foods merchandised under a label. If it accepts them they are permitted to display an approval seal. Of 127 foods submitted during the year 45 were accepted.

"All ingredients, chemical composition to describe the product chemically," says the report, "preparation of raw materials, description of all steps of manufacture, and extent of sales are among the prerequisites to consideration. Biologic and bacteriological data are called for. Evidence to justify any unusual claim of a general nature is also required.

"Foods without specific 'health' or nutritional claims are no longer 'exempted,' but given the full privileges of 'accepted foods.' This action was necessary as 'accepted foods' by virtue of the 'seal' have unjustified merchandising values over equally meritorious exempted foods."

Samples of His Work.

Describing without identification examples of its work, the committee states:

"One of the chief cereals on the market will have to be renamed because of its deceptive name. Another accepted national cereal brand must be relabeled or rejected. The labels of two other well known cereals are being wholly revised."

Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, in an address on food said:

"The best diet of man includes adequate quantities of all the well known food substances. Such a diet will provide adequate quantities of the vitamins. The use of insulin for diabetes, of liver extract for pernicious anemia, of whole liver, heart and kidneys for anemia in general indicates the folly of vegetarianism.

No Panacea for Pimples.

"Every new discovery in medical science is promptly exploited beyond reason by commercial interests. Yeast is merely a food rich in vitamin B with some laxative effect. It is not a panacea for pimples or dyspepsia. Orange juice is simply a pleasant drink rich in vitamin C with a slightly alkaline effect eventually in the body. It is not a cure for acidosis of any severity nor will it prevent quite certainly either falling hair or falling teeth. Bran is a good food for horses, but may be severely irritating to a delicate stomach and intestinal tract.

"Whole wheat bread is somewhat richer in vitamins and roughage than white bread. It has not been shown that it will prevent cancer and there is no evidence that a modern civilized diet causes cancer."

Warns Against State Medicine.

The retiring president, William Gerry Morgan of Washington, D. C., warned against a "slow but steady trend toward federalizing medicine." State medicine, he said, would prove "more disastrous to the public than to the medical profession."

President Elect E. Starr Judd of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., suggested appointment of a bureau on the study of problems connected with cancer, to investigate claims and have charge of all cancer publicity.

Of course I've switched to CAMELS

You don't have to look beyond your own intimate circle to realize what has happened.

Everywhere you see evidence of a great country-wide switch to Camels.

That is because the new Humidor Pack performs a real new service for the smoker.

Throughout the nation, literally millions of people have found by actual test that the new air-sealed, sanitary package of moisture-proof Cellophane not only keeps out dust and germs, but also keeps in the rich, mild flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

To show their real appreciation of the Humidor Pack Camel smokers from all parts of the country write letters telling the advantages of this scientific new wrapping.

Women tell us they carry Camels in the Humidor Pack in their handbags without having them absorb powder and perfume odors. Workingmen say this moisture-proof wrapping protects their cigarettes from perspiration and pocket dust. Sailors are enthusiastic because the damp salt air does not reach Humidor-packed Camels.

All real benefits of course, but the chief fact that is causing this great nation-wide swing to Camels is the protection which this air-sealed wrapping gives to the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

No peppery dust to irritate the membrane; no dried-out tobacco to burn the tongue or sear the throat. Just the fresh, cool mildness of perfectly conditioned tobacco.

Switch to Camels for one day, then quit them—if you can.

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons
Columbia Broadcasting System—every night except Sunday

CAMELS

NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one

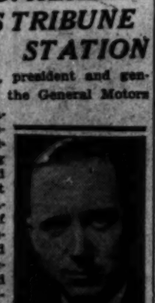
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Progress and Retrospection

G. M. R. C. HEAD PRAISES TRIBUNE RADIO STATION

R. J. Emmert, president and general manager of the General Motors Radio corporation, yesterday declared that Chicago broadcasting stations have had an important part in developing radio into one of the largest industries in the United States. He especially praised W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE'S station on the Drake hotel, commenting upon it's "uniformly high quality of programs."



R. J. EMMERT.

"As a newspaper THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has always been to the front in bringing to its public the best in news in the quickest possible time. With the advent of the radio it was quick to see the advantages of this method to augment its news columns.

The radio industry today is one of the biggest industries in the country, giving employment to thousands, and doing much to keep money in circulation. For example, the radio public pays annually approximately $50,000,000 for current consumed in the operation of sets."

Mr. Emmert is in Chicago to attend the convention and trade show of the Radio Manufacturers association which opened yesterday at the Stevens hotel.

MAY BRING U. S. BUILDING AT PARIS EXPOSITION HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 8.—"Mount Vernon," the American building at the French colonial exposition here, and the most of its contents, will be shipped to the Chicago Century of Progress exposition next fall if plans announced today by C. Bascom Slemp, commissioner-general of the American section of the exposition, materialize.

"I think the exhibits contained in 'Mount Vernon' and also the building itself would form an admirable section for the Chicago fair," Mr. Slemp said. "Figuring the cost of disassembling the building and shipping it and its contents to Chicago, I think that the Chicago authorities could save about $200,000 under the cost of constructing a similar building. Ambassador Dawes is interested in the project and it is quite possible that it will materialize."

MAYOR WILL NOT OPPOSE SUBWAY WORK INJUNCTION

Mayor Cermak stated yesterday that he is not opposed to the issuance of an injunction by Superior Judge William J. Lindsay to restrain the city from spending money from the traction fund on subways until the legality of the transit ordinance has been established.

"Why should the city spend large sums when the ordinance may be held invalid?" he queried. "We don't know what work can be done legally until the question has been settled by the courts.

"There may be some work that should be done. The city most likely can obtain the court's permission to proceed with work which must be done now."

Judge Lindsay indicated on Saturday that he would issue the injunction, but held up the issuance of it until next Saturday. The application for the injunction was made by Attorney Stephen A. Foster on behalf of two taxpayers.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the local transportation committee, said he is in favor of proceeding with the subway work.

Eighty-four men who are working on the contract drawings for the State street subway started yesterday on a five day week, according to Maj. R. F. Kelker Jr., chief subway engineer. Should the injunction be lasted, he said, the engineering staff will have to be disbanded. The monthly rental of $3,800 for the subway bureau headquarters would be continued, it was explained, as the city has a lease on the space.

Memorial services for Leo A. Phillips, superintendent of the Glenwood School for Boys, Glenwood, who died on May 14, were held yesterday in the offices of the Chicago Council of Social agencies. The service was a recognition on the part of social and welfare groups of the service to boys given by Mr. Phillips. Among the speakers were C. V. Reynolds, director of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

THOUSANDS JAM SHOW TO VIEW RADIO FEATURES

The Radio Manufacturers association trade show opened yesterday at the Stevens hotel with an imposing array of apparatus set up for inspection by thousands of visitors who represented radio companies throughout the country. The annual convention of the organization will be opened formally today when an address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Cermak.

Along the aisles of the exhibition hall every type of radio equipment was on display. There were television sets, automobile radio receivers and short wave apparatus for the reception of foreign broadcasts. The cabinet makers also showed their wares, offering a wide variety in radio furniture. A table, desk, piano or even a grandfather's clock may now conceal a radio.

One of the things which the show brought out was the development of the battery set to serve the 6,000,000 homes in the United States which have no electrical wiring.

PANAMA CANAL CLEARED TO RUSH AID TO FOUR MEN

BALBOA, Canal Zone, June 8.—(AP)—A traffic lane was cleared through the Panama canal today to make way for a fast tug on which a doctor was being rushed in an effort to save the lives of four men stricken with ptomaine poisoning at Cape Mala, 90 miles away.

The four men are radio operators at the United States naval station at Barren Point, which is the last outpost of land before the Gulf of Panama sweeps into the Pacific. They were taken ill after eating shrimp, it was said, and their six companions broadcast an appeal for help.

Orders went from here to the Atlantic side of the canal for the tug Sciota to proceed through the canal as rapidly as possible with the doctor, Commander G. F. Clark. With a traffic lane cleared, the boat passed through the canal in a little more than five hours.

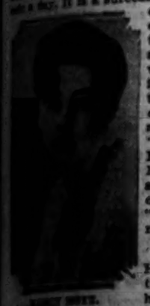
Nancy Hoyt Does Another Lively Novel

Deluxe Visitor Stirs Up Happy Family.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"CUPBOARD LOVE," by Nancy Hoyt [Doubleday Doran], is a boon for a bored afternoon or an evening which needs the coolness after too calorific day. It is a surcease from boredom and a companion that will amuse you, without asking you for too much cooperation. In a word "Cupboard Love" is a light, gay, amusing tale of the genus "hammock" novel.



NANCY HOYT.

Nancy Hoyt, its author, started her literary career some years ago with "Roundabout," a jolly, slightly adolescent, but delightful novel. She was 23 at the time of publication and success launched her into the literary firmament. She is the younger sister of Elinor Wylie and as different in personality as any one could well be. The at times austere and elegant exquisiteness, the prose of Elinor Wylie's prose, its at times finely and trained poet were nowhere to be found in the work of her sister. She wrote "Roundabout" with a lusty, youthful carelessness, as it were. Not for her any of the precious phrases that made her sister's work unique in its beauty, perhaps more lively, more robust and less ideal.

"Cupboard Love" is written in the same style as "Roundabout"—the same mixed style of modernity. It is obvious that her first novel was quite juvenile, her fourth is unquestionably adult. Not only in its subject matter but in its infinitely more sophisticated writing [of the two this is not in its infinitely more sophisticated attitude "Cupboard Love" is one that the 23 year old novelist now has reached the vast age of 30.

"Cupboard Love" is the story of a young married couple in New York, very married, conspicuously happily married among their often-divorced friends. And yet there is something lacking in their relationship. Phyllis drinks too much and pays little attention to his wife, as she does time to well the compliments of a charming young Englishman. There is no question of their being unhappy. They are just, both of them, open to propositions that bid fair to wreck their marriage. They don't realize it. And that is why Bob dealt them a real blow, one which almost hit the solar plexus of their love.

Then arrived from England the lovely Deirdre Hayling-Hamill, aged 21, a blond with dark eyes. She was a high colorably nightdresses which had to be sent to a special French boudoir that she had to borrow from Emmy. And when Emmy let loose her two most precious children, saved for the most elaborate outfit with their most gold plated cribs and had actually seem them through Deirdre's eyes (though they weren't really cheap at all, only not one to lose like Deirdre's) Emmy's wide lip suddenly appeared to her friends her super de luxe visitor's room. The five rooms on Park avenue which had seemed very grand to her "sweet and quaint" and her two servants and the nurse for the baby suddenly became a sort of unfurnished poverty, and . . . you know. But you don't know it at all. Emmy loved her husband and had actually begun casting eyes at the irresistible Deirdre, who hadn't a penny to her name, nor even a dash of sentiment, and who saw in him only another good looking male to add to her "souvenirs." Don't be misled about Deirdre. She was beautiful but not one bit dumb. She always knew what she wanted and she usually got it. Her luck hadn't been good fitted traveling case to her super luxuries, and she had absolutely no money, but plenty of ways of earning it. She borrowed money cheerfully and everybody and everything paid back, and her charm seemed rather than faded under lack of visible appreciation.

One of the most amusing characters in the whole group of gay souls is Emmy's young brother, a publicity man in a publishers' office who looks up his sister and her husband—aged twenty-six—as members of a much older generation which never really understands the "trouble with people these days" he says to her, "is that they've been such damned optimists. It's kept them thinking things would turn out just dandy. We know they won't. We know we can't win. I'm a realist, so I have a better time because I don't expect much. Now I figure that when we're married we'll have fun," he goes on about his approaching marriage to a child of seventeen, "or a twenty-to-one chance."

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—[Special.]—While the future policy and control of Warner Brothers' film interests hangs in the balance in conferences between bankers and movie magnates in New York and here, all Hollywood is waiting for announcement of the new lineup. Following their recent wholesale discharge of 400 employes, Warners' here padlocked two of their one time busy studios, the Vitagraph plant in the hollow east of Sunset boulevard, and the original Warner plant on Sunset boulevard, whose colonial façade and tremendous radio towers are so familiar to all tourists who ever visited Hollywood. Some of the many versions of the Warners' present financial complications have reached print in Hollywood and others are here printed for the first time.

In the latter class is the report that Howard Hughes, the young oil and movie multimillionaire, is dickering to pull out of his present financial alignment with United Artists and install his own independent production activities in the Warners' Sunset boulevard studio, which at present, as said before, the Warners' retrenchment policy has closed up. When called to attention of Hughes' staff, the report of Hughes' interest brought the comment for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE that it is true that Hughes is consolidating a numerous and complete motion picture organization of writers, directors, acter and actress stars, and outstanding technicians for the purpose of prosecuting his own film activities very aggressively.

At the same time Hughes' spokesman said Hughes' negotiations have not reached the point where it can be said that he is trying to buy Warners' plant or any other.

Hughes recently gave Lewis Milestone, director of "All Quiet on the Western Front," the most favorable contract ever handed to a Hollywood director. The contract allows Milestone 50 per cent of net profits on all pictures which the Russian directs for Hughes. He is allowed to direct one other, as a free lance, yearly. Milestone will be allowed free rein in his direction for Hughes.

The Hollywood Reporter in its daily editions publishes its belief that the Warner First National combination, due to withdrawal of support by bankers, is falling into the control of John J. Raskob, Michael Meehan, and others of a New York financial combination who are interested in the welfare of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum movie theater, vaudeville, and wireless interests.

Pelham Granville Wodehouse has pocketed his $104,000 from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Film corporation but he still is bewildered as to "why they paid it to me." He has spent one year in Hollywood receiving $2,000 a week. When imported from England Wodehouse was to write and adapt stories for film plays. He says, "I fele as if I had chepted them."

"You see," he added, "I understood I was to write stories for the screen. After all, I have twenty novels, a score of successful plays, and countless magazine stories to my credit. But apparently at the studio they had the greatest difficulty in finding anything for me to do.

"Twice during the year they brought me completed scenarios of other people's stories and asked me to do some dialogue. Fifteen or eighteen people had already tinkered with those stories. The dialogue really was quite adequate when the script came to me. All I did was to touch up here and there—slight and superfluous improvements.

"Then they set me to work on a story called 'Rosalie,' which was to have some musical numbers. It was a pleasant little thing and I put three months on it. No one wanted me to hurry. When it was finished they thanked me politely and remarked, that as musicals didn't seem to be going well, they guessed they wouldn't use it. That about sums up what I was called on to do for my $104,000. Isn't it amazing? But so expensive."

It was denied today that some similar arrangement is to be sought with George Bernard Shaw.

Good Morning!

You have here a photoplay in which none is good—no, not one!

The hero and heroine are bad, the villains are terrible, and all minor characters are steeped in iniquity. True, you get fast glimpses of a Chinaman whispering to the hero; of an old sea dog with a valise; of police officers, a jail matron, etc., and there's no evidence that these have sin upon their souls. But so little are they concerned with the story proper that the opening sentence holds good.

"The Maltese Falcon" is a screenization of the best seller mystery novel by Dashiell Hammett, a former Pinkerton detective. The shadow should be as popular as the book, for it is ingeniously directed, excellently acted, and keeps its secret well. The to-do is all about the loss and recovery of a famous missing valuable known as "The Maltese Falcon." Participants in its search find themselves in a maelstrom of murderous adventure.

You will be impressed by Ricardo Cortez's impersonation of a gay, unscrupulous, hard boiled detective. As Sam Spade he has a flashy brass front, and behind the front are a brain that works like lightning, a heart that obeys the head and a sensuous nature that has in it no element of sentimentality. A brilliant and slightly pulse quickening characterization, Mr. Cortez!

Bebe Daniels [who should return to brunettism pronto] is luscious, lively, and lawless as the heroine. Una Merkel is cute, cool, and merrily unmoral as Spade's secretary. Dwight Frye is a bit hair raising as an adolescent killer and Otto Matiesen, Walter Long, Robert Elliott, and J. Farrell MacDonald portray, well, dangerous gentlemen with one track minds.

Without a doubt, the story is far fetched and highly melodramatic; but, when a mystery film keeps you guessing, shivering, and laughing from start to finish—would you complain?

"EVERYTHING'S ROSIE."

Produced by Radio Pictures.
Directed by Clyde Bruckman.
Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST.

Dr. J. Dockweller Droop.....Robert Woolsey
Rosie.....Anita Louise
Billy Lowe.....John Darrow
Mrs. Lowe.....Florence Roberts
Mr. Lowe.....Frank Beal
Oberdorf.....Alfred F. James
Miss Van Dorn.....Lita Chevret
Sheriff.....Clifford Dempsey

Lupe Velez—in person—is the event at the Palace this week. The little Mexican girl is making such a hit with her impersonations of Gloria Swanson, Marlene Dietrich, Dolores Del Rio (whom she doesn't like), and Laurel and Hardy that the head of the RKO publicity department predicts Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll will never let her get away from New York. Miss Velez also does the "Rumba"—a Mexican dance—effectively. If you want to engage in a little guessing—Lupe's wearing a diamond and platinum wedding ring, BUT, the rumor is abroad that her romance with Gary Cooper has cooled.

As for the feature picture—behold Robert Woolsey minus his w. k. side kick, Mr. Bert Wheeler. We are pleased to report that the twain will again be united in the near future.

"Everything's Rosie" is a comedy composed of this and that. You have seen better and you have seen worse. It isn't exactly funny, nor can it be said to be entirely without humor. I would comment that everybody in the cast does remarkably well with remarkably little.

At the opening of the story Mr. Woolsey, a patent medicine vender who tags along with cheap carnivals, adopts a waif named Rosie. The scene shifts to years later, when Rosie is a fair damsel of seventeen summers. Doc still travels with the shows and Rosie assists him in his various rackets, the while yearning to settle down and have romance and fun like other girls.

Well, Romance arrives, with much attendant todo. The todo is composed of hokum of various kinds.

You'll like Mr. Woolsey and Anita Louise. The latter plays Rosie wistfully, looking and acting much like Esther Ralston.

"Everything's Rosie" won't cause you to dance in the streets with joy, but neither will it make you mad.

THE STAGE

GREGORY RATOFF'S revue will be staged at the Adelphi theater instead of the Harris, and the date of its premiere will be July 12, according to an announcement by Ralph T. Kettering, manager of the former playhouse. When Ratoff called the roll of his principals in New York yesterday, his company included Odette Myrtil, Bernard Granville, Gina Malo, Wini Shaw, Hope Emerson, Val Vestoff, Richard Craig Jr., and Ted Fiorito's orchestra. The impresario confesses that he may add to this list the name of Primo Carnera, the oversized Italian pugilist.

Lupe Velez, eager little señorita of the films, is having a marked success in vaudeville at the Palace theater this week, and a future in the revues is being prophesied for her. She will move on to the Palace of New York two weeks hence, and there, the soothsayers maintain, she will be promptly signed up for the "Follies," or the "Vanities," or the "Scandals." She is appearing four times a day, on the following schedule: 1:40 p. m., 4:03 p. m., 7:05 p. m. and 10:07 p. m.

The new plays called "Paid Companions" and "Common Property" have been mentioned as possibilities for Chicago this summer. The former, which has Miss Cecil Spooner in the leading rôle, recently had a try-out performance in Atlantic City. The latter, written by Willis Maxwell Goodhue, is in the larval state, and its title is being changed every other day. Here are its labels in historical sequence: "Common Property," "It's Not Being Done," "Come On, Red," and "Love 'Em All."

Ned Wayburn, stage director and dance master, sends word that he is making arrangements to produce a musical show for a Chicago engagement. The tentative title of the entertainment is "Believe It or Not," and its libretto and lyrics represent the work of Fred Thompson and Clifford Grey, who are adepts at that sort of thing.

Broadway's play-going catalogue continues to dwindle. "The Vinegar Tree," with Mary Boland as its star, and "The House Beautiful," Channing Pollock's play, will end their engagements next Saturday night. Both productions have been stalwart hits, and will be sent on tour in the fall. In addition, Henry Bernstein's drama, "Melo," will suspend performances until late in August, and the revival of "The Gondoliers" will make way for another Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Patience."

Pastor Seeking Funds to Help Poor Children

Plans Health Outings in Chicago Parks.

Plans to utilize Chicago parks as centers for supervised recreation for the underprivileged children of the city are being made again this year by the Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue. The plan also calls for the provision of food for the children.

"The children will be invited to come to the Immanuel building at 8:30 every morning, except Saturday and Sunday," explained the Rev. Johnston Myers, pastor emeritus of the church. "They will be given sandwiches and milk. The regular city buses will be waiting at the door to take them to the parks and with them will go competent caretakers.

"After reaching the parks the children will be expected to appear at the headquarters for the party at lunch time and again at 5 p. m., the time of leaving for home. They will be given perfect freedom to run barefooted, swim, fish, play games, and if they are tired, they can take a nap."

The Rev. Mr. Myers pointed out as a chief advantages of the plan, the service of caretakers who take the children to the parks when parents can not. Mothers, he said, may accompany the children if they wish.

"Bread winners have been out of work and the children are the innocent sufferers," the minister said in his appeal for funds to make the park outings possible. "Thousands of them are undernourished, thin, and weak. The Immanuel plan is inexpensive and practical. All gifts may be sent to me at 2320 South Michigan avenue."

POPE, WHO DIED AS WORLD FOUGHT, LIKELY SOON TO BE A SAINT

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

VATICAN CITY, June 8.—[Special.]—Pope Pius X., who died in 1914 of a broken heart at the sight of so many of his followers in Europe rushing at each other with weapons in their hands, probably soon will be proclaimed a saint.

The first step toward his beatification and later canonization was completed today. The Abbot Pierami, postulator of the cause for beatification, delivered to the sacred congregation of rites a voluminous collection of documents bearing on miracles attributed to the intercession of the pontiff, and on his saintly life.

By this act the apostolic process is now begun. That will be continued, according to canon law, through a procedure which may last some years more. The first period of the cause for beatification, which ended today, lasted eight years, for the postulator was appointed in 1923.

Clara Bow's Contract with Paramount Ends; She's Glad, She Says

Hollywood, Cal., June 8.—(AP)—Clara Bow's contract with Paramount has been canceled.

This action followed statements made previously by the actress and B. P. Schulberg, general manager of Paramount, that termination of the contract was under consideration because of Miss Bow's health. She recently left a sanitarium after spending several weeks there because of her nervous condition.

Miss Bow said that when she feels she has recovered her health she hopes to return to a film career.

Under the contract she was bound to make two more pictures. Although Paramount declined to reveal the salary paid the actress, it was reported in Hollywood that she had been receiving between $2,000 and $3,000 a week.

Miss Bow has been under contract since 1925 when she made her first starring picture, "It." She has made eight talkies.

"I wanted my contract broken," if Paramount saw fit, so that I might get back on my feet again. Now that this worry is over I can face the task of regaining my health with a free mind."

Schulberg said "the company realizes that the responsibilities of her contract have been hindering her to a certain extent in her fight for health.

"We have given considerable thought to Clara's numerous requests for a release. It is not easy to discard an association of so many years, particularly with one who has earned our personal liking and admiration. We finally came to the conclusion that her best interests would be served if our consent was given to the cancellation of our mutual agreement."

Beloit's Noted Scientist Plans to Retire Soon

Dr. G. L. Collie Is Expert on Man's History.

Commencement this year at Beloit college, Beloit, Wis., will mark the retirement of that institution's most famous faculty member, George L. Collie. Dr. Collie, originator of the theory that the northern part of the present Sahara desert was the cradle of humanity, has spent 33 years at Beloit as professor of anthropology, as dean, as professor of geology and curator of the world renowned Logan Museum of Anthropology.

When his former pupil, Roy Chapman Andrews, designated the first home of the race as the Gobi desert, Dr. Collie attracted national attention by disputing that point. Collie was the son of a member of one of Beloit's first graduating class, and received a degree from the college in 1881, having studied under Thomas Chamberlin, who later became famous as propounder of the generally accepted Chamberlin-Moulton theory of the earth's origin.

During his tenure of office in the last decade as curator of the Frank G. Logan museum, endowed by the Chicagoan of that name, the museum has purchased and uncovered evidences and relics of prehistoric man. Among its treasures is a necklace which dates back 30,000 years and is the oldest piece of jewelry in existence.

He is expected to spend most of his leisure in carrying on these explorations, but has announced no definite plans.

Eight Chicagoans are on the provisional list of candidates for degrees to be conferred June 15 at Cornell university in Ithaca, N. Y. Among them is one girl, Gladys Viola Hansel of River Forest, for the degree of bachelor of arts. She is a member of Alpha Delta Xi.

Robert Stelgists, active in undergraduate affairs and a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, is a candidate for bachelor of science; Carroll Martin Shaffer of Evanston, Phi Mu Alpha, and Theodore Leonard Osborn Jr. of Highland Park, Lambda Chi Alpha, for bachelor of arts, and four others, Harding Van Schaack of Wilmette, Chi Psi; Arthur Belsage Riddiford of Oak Park, Delta Tau Delta; Henry White Boyd Jr. of Highland Park, Kappa Alpha, and William Jeffery Hudson, Chi Psi, for bachelor of mechanical engineering.

Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago yesterday was awarded the degree of doctor of laws in Geneva, N. Y., at the 106th annual commencement of Hobart college. His citation read in part: "Richard Teller Crane Jr., promoter of human relations in American industry, philanthropy, worthy citizen of a great city. Recognizing his wide interest in educational and social welfare, Hobart is glad to welcome him to fellowship with her sons."

Judge Samuel Seabury of New York, the jurist whose recent investigation of the magistrates' courts in New York was widely publicized, gave the Phi Beta Kappa address.

Of 72 scholarships announced yesterday by Harvard university, five went to residents of Chicagoland. A one year faculty scholarship and a one year Phi Delta Kappa scholarship were awarded to Roy A. Price of Chicago. Lowell F. Bushnell of Danville and Benjamin W. Carey Jr. of Griggsville, Ill., received De Lamar research fellowships, and Robert A. L. Mortvedt of Joliet a Dexter scholarship for summer study abroad.

Alfred H. Granger of Chicago is one of the trustees whose annual meeting on June 13 will open the three day program of the 107th annual commencement of Kenyon college at Gambier, O.

The Rev. John Crippen Evans, associate at St. Chrysostom's church, received the degree of doctor of divinity from Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., for distinguished service among young men and boys. He is an alumnus of that school.

Oak Park and River Forest township high school will graduate its record class on Thursday. Diplomas will be handed to 559 students in the exercises at the school field house.

On that evening 327 graduates will receive their sheepskins at the New Trier High school in Winnetka. Twenty-three others who were given diplomas in February will also participate in the exercises. A questionnaire circulated among the class members revealed that 231 plan to continue their school work in college, attending a total of 92 institutions.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago yesterday appointed ten men and ten women from the student body to be his representatives at all formal university functions during the coming year. The men have the title of marshal and the women of aid.

Selection of these functionaries is made on the basis of scholarship and service to the university. Gilbert F. White, 5607 Dorchester avenue, president of the University Dramatic association, was made head marshal and Miss Sylvia Friedman, 7200 Luella avenue, chairman of the board of women's organizations, was chosen senior aid.

The new marshals are Forest Drummond, 161 Oak street, Elmhurst; Chester Laing, 5639 University avenue; Robert McCarthy, 1454 East 54th street; Everett C. Olson, 126 Hickory street, Hinsdale; Louis N. Ridenour, 606 Sheridan road, Evanston; Merwin S. Rosenberg, 1369 Hyde Park boulevard; Paul Stephenson, Elkhart, Ind.; Enos Troyer, Indianapolis, and George Van der Hoef, South Bend, Ind.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Claire, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously from her home in a remote section of Paris. Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel, a man of great charm but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmauret.

Iris planned to divorce Marcel and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood, about to depart for Africa, postponed his trip to look for Clare, assisted by Tommy Rossetter, a journalist.

Iris moves to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. Alan meets Marcel at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working, and learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. He recalls having seen Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily and beseeching with a coarse looking couple. That night Alan sees Marcel entering the home of Suzanne Marty, an actress.

A letter is sent to Iris, stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled. Marcel meets Iris and Alan at Helen's and drives them home. He accompanies Alan to his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to kidnap Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Marcel sent flowers to Iris the night Clare vanished. From Iris' description of the man who delivered them Alan recognizes him as De Bertincourt's companion in Le Touquet. Thereby involving Marcel as the suspected instigator of the kidnaping, with the couple, Yetta and Pierre, his partners in crime, the motive being to enforce the ransom money. Alan and Tommy set out in search of the couple and learn that they have a half-witted son.

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

TRAILING TWO BLACKGUARDS.

A half-witted son, a cottage on the Seine——! Charnwood's exultation over the car died as he was forced to reconstruct his conception of the two Lepins.

"How old is this boy?" inquired Tommy pleasantly.

"Sixteen, or thereabouts. A queer one, thin as a sparrow, wears an iron brace on one leg. He was never allowed out all the time he was here."

Tommy slapped his thigh as though recalling something.

"I believe I saw him with Lepin about a month ago, in a Citroën roadster, driving along one of the exterior boulevards. The car was a Citroën, wasn't it?"

She shook her head. "I can only tell you it was dark blue, with a black top—but wait! It seated four, for they put the boy behind, with the luggage. If you want to know the make, though, the shopkeeper opposite will remember." She shuffled past them in her worn pantoufles, calling out shrilly:

"Pierre, what sort of car did the Lepins buy? A Citroën?"

"What sort? Why, a Renault, 1918 model—four seater, movable top." The shopkeeper ducked and vanished amongst a jumble of blackened pewter, leaving a trail of garlic behind him.

The fifty francs changed hands, the concierge pocketed it with a muttered "Merci, monsieur," and the friends regained their cab.

"A second hand Renault!" whispered Tommy excitedly.

"Dark blue, with a black top!" rejoined Charnwood in a similar tone. Then they looked at each other nonplussed, the same thought in both their minds.

"But this invalid boy! Blast it, he throws everything out! Would they hamper themselves with a burden like that if they were bent on a dangerous enterprise? Still, the Renault sounds like the one we're after, and if they really went to Gambis——"

"We must find out, that's all." Tommy gave a rapid direction to the taxi driver, who set off at breakneck speed.

"What's this large photograph?"

At one-thirty, after a brief halt to purchase sausages and bottled beer, they were racing along smooth roads towards the southeast, tense with the hope of discovering the hidden truth.

Late in the afternoon two exasperated Englishmen issued from a mews and proceeded on foot to the Place du Palais Bourbon.

They had scoured the Gamois region, explored every bypath for miles around, and for all their hard driving and countless inquiries had accumulated nothing but dust and bad temper. No cottage in the whole countryside rejoiced in the name of "La Jolie Colombière," no inn, lodging or farmhouse could vouchsafe the slightest knowledge of the couple they sought, and though the postoffice authorities admitted a few circulars addressed to Hector Lepin lay waiting to be claimed, no one had called for them.

"They can't be living in the district under another name," argued Charnwood as they climbed the stairs. "What with a crippled boy and the woman's outrageous hair, they would be easy enough to spot. No, I for one feel satisfied they never had any intention of going there."

"You're right, they've chosen to disappear, which makes me more positive than ever they are the birds we want to trap. When the woman spun that yarn to me in the Deux Magots she had her reasons. You remember how she hung about outside the café? I should say she had an appointment with De Bertincourt himself, and was afraid for us to see them together. No doubt then and there she passed on her information about you and put him on his guard. Hello, what's this?"

From the pile of letters he had picked up inside the door he selected a large, bulky envelope.

"This looks as though another of my inquiries had borne fruit," he remarked, turning on the light. "Hoping to obtain a photograph of De Bertincourt for identification purposes, I telephoned two or three newspapers to see what they had on file. It appears that a colleague on the Femina staff has found something."

He drew out several clippings which he examined and passed on, his face falling perceptibly.

"Not much use. Doesn't the fellow ever wear clothes?"

The snapshots evoking this comment represented small groups in bathing attire, one at the Lido, the other at Juan-les-Pins. In each case the features were heavily overshadowed. The third, labeled "Society Rides," with the subtitle "M. Marcel de Bertincourt and Baronne de Crespigny Seen on Horseback in the Bois," had the same fault.

"What's this large photograph?"

"Ah, this is rather better. Not good, though—it's a flashlight taken at supper, fancy dress, worse luck."

In the front row of a festive party they readily made out De Bertincourt's features, visible and distinct, in a setting of XVIIIth century costume. Charnwood uttered a cry.

"I say—look at that!" he said, pointing.

"What, the powdered wig? My dear boy, you've got wigs on the brain. Still, it's an uncommon fine one—probably Chinese hair, chemically bleached. But if you want to make out it was De Bertincourt behind that bush——"

"I don't. I only wonder if this wig was."

"Worn by Yetta, you mean? By Jove," admiringly, "I believe you're right! What more imperative than to cover up that flamboyant hair, which would be the first thing one would hit on in describing her? And if, as we know to be the case, the abduction was planned at the last moment, she would have to grab whatever she could lay hands on in the way of a disguise."

"But if all this is true," said Charnwood, his somber gaze fixed on De Bertincourt's distinguished features, "we've not only got to make absolutely sure, but what is more, we've got to catch these criminals red-handed or at the time the ransom is paid."

"And," added Tommy, "we've a bare thirty hours to do it in." He made an impulsive movement towards the door. "See here, why do we flounder about like this? Why not go along to the police with our story and let them tackle things?"

Charnwood's hand strayed towards his hat. Then he shook his head.

"Not that. I daren't. Suppose we are wrong—as we may be, you know—and that all we do is to hold up proceedings? If those two blackguards are in this alone, they may easily carry out their threats against Clare."

After a moment Tommy gave an unwilling consent.

"There's that to be considered, of course. If Yetta Warshavsky is the ringleader, there's not much she would balk at. I've heard tales of her doings before. Well," with a sigh, "as we're committed to this alone, the only move at the immediate juncture is to run 'round to the Hotel Lamballe and show these pictures to the concierge. No, stay where you are. You forget you've left France. I'll see to it."

Twenty minutes later he returned to find his guest deep in an examination of the section road map.

"Well, any results?"

"None," growled Tommy peevishly. "That old imbecile ought to be certified." The manager still persists in regarding the affair as intended robbery—thinks the thief meant to slide in with a gas mask on, but was scared off by the noise in the next room."

"Well, it's better he should believe that. While you were out I formulated a working plan which may possibly meet with your approval. Like to hear it?"

"Go ahead," replied Tommy, fumbling for his pipe. "I'm listening."

"I thought we might drive down quietly to the Rambouillet forest early in the morning and compare the lay of the land with our private map—discover if the beech tree, the hole in the ditch and so on really exist, and try to find a safe spot for me to hide in when the time comes to spy."

"So you're determined to watch and see who fetches the money?"

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

New Brand of Bath Salts.

I was staying at a new hotel. On the tub in the bathroom was a small jar containing bath salts, which I used lavishly.

On the last morning I was there, during a chat with the room girl I said: "It's somthing new to have bath salts in the room, isn't it?"

Imagine my embarrassment when she picked up the almost empty jar, and said: "O, no, that isn't bath salts. It's my cleaning powder in a cold cream jar." E. D.

Old, Haunting Tunes' Return, Is Predicted

The slow, haunting melodies that captivated the hearts of lads and lasses and even elderly couples in the days of the old mill stream and when there were silver threads among the gold are about to upset the jazz dynasty.

At least that was the prediction made yesterday at the music industries convention at the Palmer house where more than 500 retailers and manufacturers of music and musical instruments are gathered. This group represents more than $75,000,000 in annual business, officials said.

"We are rapidly losing our taste for the raucous cacophony of so-called hot jazz, which often sounds like a tin tub full of broken crockery falling down a concrete stairway to the accompaniment of a police siren," declared E. C. Mills, who is president of the Radio Music company, a director of Radio, Keith, Orpheum, and an executive in the National Broadcasting company. "'Hot Lips' ceases to be the motif along with 'Livery Stable Blues' and we are coming back to the quiet, peaceful charm of melody."

Jazz music, Mr. Mills contends, was the reaction of the world to the fear and horror of war. He likened it to the man walking through a graveyard at midnight whistling to keep up his courage. But now, "as we grow more tranquil, our musical fare adapts itself to the state of our minds," he said.

The writers who wish to be popular in the future are those who will write to find the center of people's affections, as did Stephen C. Foster, the composer of "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Old Black Joe," Mr. Mills believes. He gave as instances of the successful modern songs with strains of old fashioned romance "When It's Springtime in the Rockies" and "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver."

Stripping Away False Glamour Makes Real Life More Interesting

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The morning mail brings many interesting things. The following is one, written by a devoted young aunt who is with the rest of us trying to do her bit to replace artificiality and false conceptions of life by the worthwhile facts of real living. This is what she jotted down:

"The life's at its spring,
The Child in its morn,
The age is just seven,
But the future's impearled.

The movie's the thing,
Real life's to be scorned,
Without riches to live on
All's wrong with the world!"

[With apologies to Robert Browning.]

"'I wish I could get married, Aunt Mary, so I could have some jewelry.'

"'You don't have to get married to have jewelry, Prue, darling,' I answered encouragingly. 'I will get you all the jewelry you want.'

"So saying, I made a flying trip to the five and ten cent store, where I bought a strand of pearls, two diamond rings, a ruby brooch, and some other trinkets. Enough, in fact, to satisfy the distorted longing of a child who has seen too many movies.

"It seems that little girls are inoculated with the notion that marriage will bring them chaises-longues, smart motors, furs, evening wraps, jewels, orchids, and all the other spangles and dangles seen at the movies.

"I wish that every young child who is permitted to see the movies could tour the studios in Hollywood. I can think of no better way to restore their rampant imaginations to normalcy. Show them the work rooms, the perspiring directors, the shirt sleeved technicians, glaring lights, scaffoldings, ladders, megaphones, makeup boxes, and the general confusion that goes in making a picture. They will soon realize how impractical is social life as shown upon the screen. No child would inject all the muss and fuss into his own well ordered life.

"But go a bit further. Let the children visit the homes of the stars. There they would find no complex and subtle lighting arrangements that give the movies ninety-nine per cent of their atmosphere. They would probably find people living quietly and unpretentiously, going through the ordinary routines necessary for normal living and, as the little mouse would say, 'There might be dust under the beds, and if very early in the morning, soiled clothes on the bathroom floor!' M. M."

Bright Sayings of the Children

Laura, age 6, was bothering her father, who was reading a science article.

"Daddy, read that to me."

"You wouldn't understand it if I did read it."

"Yes, I would, daddy."

Daddy read about a paragraph aloud when Laura interrupted: "That will be enough now, daddy. I'm getting a headache." H. A. N.

When Boy's Interest Lags Don't Chase Him, Doris Tells Moderns

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Young women, when a young man makes an engagement with you for a certain evening and he phones a late hour alibi for not being able to appear, you are privileged to believe that something really may have happened to prevent him keeping that date. But if he makes a second engagement and a third and you are kept waiting, the only sensible thing to do is to accept the fact that you'd better do your primping for some other boy.

It never stops amazing me that girls will keep on pressing the unreliable "friend," after he has expressed himself and his attitude in repeated alibis. It just isn't decent to put yourselves in the position of being turned down a second, third, or fourth time.

The motto about persistence winning out eventually were better not tried to the limit because if there is anything provocative of a healthy distaste for a person, it is to be forced to make continuous alibis.

"Lou" says, in explanation of her alibi-boy's behavior, that it is just stubbornness on his part. And she's not going to let him get away with it. He was supposed to have called Friday evening; he didn't. "Lou" waited in Saturday evening, and Sunday evening she got mad and called him up, demanding an explanation.

It's a pretty safe bet that when you have to begin demanding explanations of your beau, his beau instincts are away below par. And the only chance of reviving them is to leave the reviving to some other program than hectoring or demanding reasons. Leaving him alone, indeed, might prove an effective way of reviving said interest.

Anywa., if this course doesn't work, it is safe to assume there is nothing there to revive and the girl's face is saved, at least, by the more dignified way of meeting the situation.

Wife of Chief of U. of Chicago Has Art Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Would Maude Phelps Hutchins be the well received artist she is today, were she not the wife of the president of the University of Chicago? An exhibition of her recent work gives a strongly affirmative answer from the Chester Johnson galleries in the Fine Arts building. There pencil sketches are grouped on the walls and portrait busts in bronze stand casually about on scattered pedestals.

Last season Mrs. Hutchins was represented in the same gallery by her sculpture alone. It was an interesting exhibit and gave her at once a standing as a producing artist of decided talent. The present exhibition, which opened yesterday afternoon and will continue for two weeks, is as interesting, possibly more interesting, because in it is illustrated Mrs. Hutchins' facile use of paper and pencil. More than a score of sketches introduce us to her swift, sure, almost telegraphic technique, in catching a play of certain muscles, in portraying the leisure of relaxation or in simply feeling out pictorially the body that she may later mold in clay.

Mrs. Hutchins goes a little outside her beaten track of the humanities when she undertakes to capture the personality of a cow. Several times she has pursued her bovine subject, but in every instance it has eluded her. There is more to a cow than the artist has so far discovered. She is more successful with lions and several sketches of these great cats make fascinating studies. The figure studies of men and women are the more or less usual line drawings a sculptor's studio is rich in. They are delicate and positive, but neutral so far as character is concerned except for the Madonna, the startled woman, and the Negro girl's head.

The bronze busts, which were cast in Germany—a curious circumstance until we learn that the work is better done in Germany and more cheaply—are the bones of the show, the fine framework upon which the drawings hang. The portrait bust of Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed is one of the loveliest sculptured portraits you will ever see. It is a beautiful likeness and fine and delicate in texture. The head of Henry Morgenthau is splendid and so, too are those of Sir Rabindranath Tagore and Judge Brinton of the Mixed courts of Egypt.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

GRAPES NEED CARE.

Although it isn't necessary to pay much attention to insect and disease control in growing grapes in Illinois, there is a demand for practicing sanitation in the vineyard to get the best quality, according to A. S. Colby, chief in small fruit culture at the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois.

He advises thorough and consistent spraying.

"The first spraying should be made just before the bloom appears to control berry moth, rose chafer, black rot, and anthracnose. A combination spray of bordeaux, standard strength, and three pounds of lead arsenate in 100 gallons of solution may be used. The second spray, using the same materials, should be put on right after the bloom has fallen.

"Grape leaf folder, rootworm, and the downy mildew are controlled to some extent by this spray, as well as the pests already mentioned. Another spray made ten days after the fall of the bloom will give additional protection. It differs from the first two in that double strength arsenate of lead at the rate of four pounds in 100 gallons of liquid is recommended in combination with the standard bordeaux spray.

"In some cases a fourth application three weeks after the bloom has fallen is necessary to control grape pests. The same spray mixture is recommended as for the third except where leaf hoppers are present. In this case nicotine sulfate at the rate of 1 pint in 100 gallons of solution should be added. The leaf hoppers have to be hit by the spray or they will not be effectively controlled. An angle nozzle should be used and the underside of the leaves sprayed thoroughly.

"Many of the common grape troubles may be kept down by sanitary measures. Headlands, fence rows and surrounding areas where leaf hoppers live before migrating to the grape leaves in spring should be burned. Also raspberry plants should not be planted near grapes."

Taffeta Finds Favor Among Parisiennes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Taffetas have made a smart come-back this summer. Lucien Lelong is showing checked taffeta jackets or waistcoats with plain wool skirts, plaid taffeta petticoats and trimmings with dark wool frocks, and afternoon frocks all of plain or figured taffeta.

Flowered taffeta is being used for evening capes and jackets by Martial et Armand, Worth, Mainbocher, and others. Paul Poiret likes plain taffeta jackets trimmed with tulle.

Louiseboulanger is making evening bodices and sashes of wide flowered taffeta ribbon and evening gowns all of flowered taffeta. Cheruit and Callot both feature this fabric in their evening mode.

Jane Regny makes the practical summer afternoon dress, sketched herewith, in black and white line-checked taffeta. (There's something about taffeta that keeps you cool on the hottest day, maybe because it looks so fresh and crisp.)

The left side of this skirt is plain, while its right side is flared forward by a circular panel mounted in three curved plaits. The front of the skirt mounts over the bodice like an apron. It ties at the right side, making a little drapery at the waistline.

The long sleeves of the simple bodice are finished with turn-back pointed cuffs cut on the bias of the taffeta. The becomingly draped bib collar is of white organdie. The hat is of black straw with an inverted "toothy" edge of white organdie.

So smooth and fine, it blends naturally with any complexion and gives fresh, youthful bloom. No irritation. No flaky or pasty look. Never leaves the skin dry . . . It's wonderful.

Food Talk

"Right now I have an abundance of rhubarb going to waste in my little back yard garden. We have had so much in sauce, pie, and shortcake that rhubarb in any form no longer appeals to us. Is there any way of putting it up for future use? The rhubarb is the lovely strawberry variety that is beautifully pink when it is cooked," writes Mrs. L. E.

There are several ways of putting rhubarb up for future use. In combination with orange it makes a delicious conserve. This should not be confused with a conserve which combines rhubarb with sugar and nuts. The color, consistency and flavor of the following conserve, I believe, will strongly appeal to the palate of the average individual.

The juice extracted from rhubarb makes excellent punch. This juice may be prepared and canned just like any other fruit juice. Its lovely color and sprightly flavor are a valuable addition to refreshing drinks for warm days. The juice may also be used for pudding sauces, to make a tapioca dessert, or a delightful jelly. Commercial or a home prepared pectin, however, will be required for making the jelly.

Rhubarb may be caned just as is any other fruit. It is one food that may be canned raw. The stalks are simply packed in clean cans, covered with cold water, and sealed. It will keep for several weeks without any sterilization whatever. Or it may be canned by cooking just like any other fruit.

Not only the back door gardener but also the person who must buy his rhubarb will find the making of rhubarb conserve an advantage. Rhubarb is one of the most inexpensive food commodities at the present time.

RHUBARB CONSERVE.

2 oranges
2 lemons
2 ounces fresh ginger root
1 cup water
¾ cup vinegar
3 lbs. fresh strawberry rhubarb cut in small pieces
3 pounds sugar
½ pound raisins
¼ pound small cinnamon candies
¼ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ ounce cinnamon

Cook the finely cut up oranges, the lemons and the chopped ginger root with 1 cup of water and ¾ cup of vinegar. When they are thoroughly cooked add the rhubarb, the sugar, and the rest of the ingredients and cook all slowly until it thickens. This makes about two quarts. Store in pint or half pint jars.

PINEAPPLE MERINGUE

Choose the kind of meringue that breaks at a touch. Line individual glass cups or sherbet glasses with broken pieces of meringue. Add to this a thick layer of finely diced pineapple. Cover with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with grated pistachio nuts.

MERINGUE

4 egg whites
1 cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla, or
1 teaspoon vinegar

Beat the egg whites to a froth. Sift the powdered sugar three times and add it to the eggs, a little at a time as you beat. Beat these well together until they will hold the shape of the spoon. Add the vanilla. Drop the meringues from an enameled kitchen spoon onto a wooden baking board which has been wet and covered with wax paper. Bake in a very slow oven. It will take an hour or more. When the meringues are done they should be cream colored or a light brown. Remove carefully the paper and allow to cool.

A Smooth, Satiny Skin Looks Best Under the New, Wide Mesh Hose

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Those mesh stockings that already show indications of a wide popularity are only good leg dressing when the skin is clear of all shadow of hair. The superfluous hair on the leg has always been a summertime worry, what with bathing legs being so plainly on view. Anyway, there is something most awfully ungroomed looking about hairy legs. They're bad enough showing through the thin chiffon, making queer patterns on the stockings, but they're going to be extremely ugly showing out between meshes on the new kind of hosiery.

Besides, it's just one of those things that particular women do attend to. They have these hairs removed and keep them removed, even if it means giving them daily attention. But daily attention is not necessary if you use a good depilatory. In fact, you can run your small safety razor over the area, in an emergency.

If the hairs are dark, a fairly strong solution of ammonia and peroxide may be used on them to bleam them. Where the growth is not heavy and the hairs short, this bleaching may be all you need. But the point is to have the leg surface just as clean and free from superfluous hair growth as the under arm area. Test the strength of the bleaching solution on one small part, so that you will not suffer a wide stinging sensation in case you get it overstrong for your particular skin.

If you're one of the kind who likes to have her work done for her, you can have this leg hair removed by a professional. Unless you are one of the persons who will read and follow instructions to the letter, I would suggest that you let a professional give you a first treatment with the wax preparations, just to note how to remove the stuff and at what temperature of the mixture it should be removed. I say this because I have had complaints from women who did not read and follow instructions carefully, let the preparation remain on too long, and suffered discomfort in the removal.

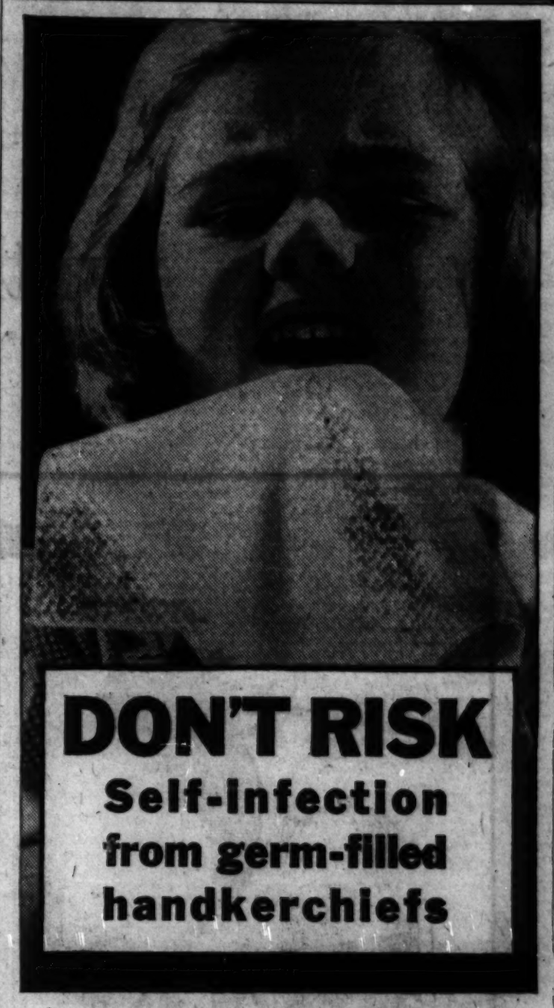
World W.C.T.U. Picks Mrs. Ella Boole as Its New President

TORONTO, Ont., June 8.— (AP) — The World Woman's Christian Temperance union convention today elected Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, N. Y., president. Mrs. Louis McKinney, Claresholme, Alberta, was named first vice president.

Mrs. Boole is presiding as vice president for Mrs. Anna Adams Gordon of Evanston, Ill., who has been forced to quit the presidency after nine years in service.

Mrs. Emilie J. Solomon, Cape Town, South Africa, and Miss Maria Sandstrom of Stockholm, were reelected second and third vice presidents. Miss Agee Black, England, retains an honorary secretaryship and Miss Margaret Munns of Evanston, Ill., was reelected honorary treasurer.

An attack on the government liquor control principle was made last night by Mrs. Mary Harris Armour of Macon, Ga., speaking in a Toronto church. She said such control would be similar to "government control of thieves."



DON'T RISK
Self-Infection from germ-filled handkerchiefs

BE SAFE!
Use Kleenex Tissues
you destroy after each use

COUNTLESS men, women and children now use Kleenex instead of handkerchiefs. They know handkerchiefs become filled with germs . . . germs which may self-infect the user every time they are carried back to the face.

Tests reveal that ordinary handkerchiefs may actually teem with living germs. As many as 4,170,000 in a single handkerchief! They're carried back to the nose and mouth again and again. They may self-infect the user time after time. Now there is no reason to tolerate this dangerous practice.

Doctors advise Kleenex

When you use Kleenex, there's no possible danger of self-infection from handkerchiefs. You use Kleenex just once, then destroy it. Germs are destroyed, too. Each tissue that touches your face is absolutely clean. That is why many doctors recommend Kleenex for safety.

Kleenex is a soft, immaculate, super-absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So gentle, so soothing, that irritation is impossible. So inexpensive that each tissue may be used just once, then destroyed.

The use of Kleenex will materially reduce your laundry bill. It is ideal for children.

Other uses

Kleenex has many other uses. Beauty experts say these absorbent tissues are the safe, sanitary way to remove cold creams and cosmetics. Being powerfully absorbent, Kleenex picks up all dirt and powder along with cleansing cream, leaving pores really clean.

Many women also find Kleenex invaluable for use in the nursery, for manicuring, for dusting, applying medicine, etc.

Kleenex comes in smart dust-proof boxes. Buy a package today at your drug, dry goods or department store. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00.

Bacteriological Tests Show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

The reports above are based on tests performed in the laboratories of Dr. Bertram Feuer, Chicago bacteriologist.

"Better than 20 miles to the gallon." "Its cost-per-mile is the lowest of any car." "Never have to add oil between crankcase changes." "Drove from Ohio to California on a repair expense of $1.05." "It just runs and runs and runs."

CHEVROLET

In each day's mail, the Chevrolet Motor Company and its dealers receive comments like these from Chevrolet owners. Some of them tell about the unusual gasoline and oil mileage they are getting from the Chevrolet six-cylinder engine. Some praise the way their cars keep running, day after day, month after month, without need for adjustments or repair. Others remark about the low cost of Chevrolet standardized service. Still others pay tribute to Chevrolet's remarkably long life.

Yet more impressive even than these are the unsolicited reports that come from leading American business firms who use large fleets of Chevrolets. These firms keep daily account of the money spent on their cars in the field. Their records show that Chevrolet costs less for gasoline, oil, upkeep and service than any other automobile! And this matchless economy has been achieved with no sacrifice of smooth, quiet, powerful performance—no sacrifice of appearance or comfort—no sacrifice of dependability and long life. The reasons for this unusually economical operation are as follows:

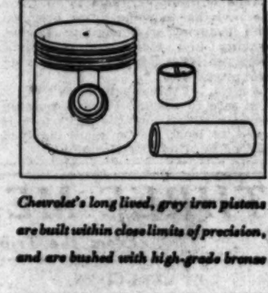
1. Efficient Engine Design. Every feature of the Chevrolet motor that affects fuel and oil economy has been the subject of specially intensive study and development by Chevrolet engineers. The result is that 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is a common experience with owners. And the small amount of oil used is equally impressive.

2. Modern Chassis Design. An important reason for Chevrolet's day-after-day dependability lies in its modern chassis design. For example: The long, heavy, 152-inch frame supports the body rigidly throughout its length. And Chevrolet's six-cylinder motor minimizes the wearing vibration that can lead to so many repair bills.

Chevrolet's 152" frame is rigidly braced and supports the body throughout its entire length, effectively resisting road shock

3. Excellence of Manufacture. As just one example of the extreme care used in building the Chevrolet Six—pistons are matched to within ½ ounce and individually fitted to less than three thousandths of an inch clearance. Piston pins, too, are allowed to vary in size only ⅛ of one thousandth of an inch and are individually fitted to their bushings. As a result of precision like this, thousands of Chevrolet owners have traveled 20,000 miles or more without having their motors opened for major servicing.

4. High-Quality Materials. Chevrolet rear axle gears are built of costly 3½ per cent nickel steel. Pistons are bushed with high-grade bronze. Transmission gears and springs are made of chrome-vanadium steel. Brake linings are a special high-quality moulded type. Obviously, a car made of such fine materials must cost less to maintain.



Chevrolet's long lived, gray iron pistons are built within close limits of precision, and are bushed with high-grade bronze

5. Economical Nationwide Service. Over 10,000 authorized Chevrolet service stations offer extremely low flat-rate charges on both labor and genuine parts. No charge is made for any of the parts or the labor involved in any replacements made under the terms of Chevrolet's liberal Owner's Service Policy.

If you want a car that will serve you through the years at the lowest cost, choose a Chevrolet Six. In addition to all the basic economies above—Chevrolet offers the extra advantage of one of the lowest delivered prices on the market. And this cost may be spread over a period of many months by the liberal G.M.A.C. plan.

Chevrolet's Owner's Service Policy is the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced car

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It's a pity that old men like Clarence Mitchell want to stick around and hold jobs that young fellows ought to have. Clarence surely has had enough success that he didn't have to nullify our Cubs with his saliva, arm, and bat the way he did yesterday. As a result of this 42 year old's talented work, the Giants took the third game of the series by a score of 6 to 1 and made the Cubs look helpless in the process.

In addition to doing all manner of old fashioned pitching tricks, Clarence personally scored the winning run in the third inning and in the eighth he doubled with the bases full to drive in the fifth and sixth Giant runs and make his own pitching relaxation complete.

The Cubs scored their run after two were out in the second on a triple by Jurges and a single by Grimm, the second and third hits off Mitchell. Thereafter, until one was out in the eighth, the only Cub to reach first was Hornsby, who walked with two out in the third. Pinch Batter Dan Taylor made the fourth hit off Clarence in the eighth, a double, and Stephenson got the fifth and last, a single in the ninth.

Mitchell's Seventh Victory.

It was Mitchell's seventh victory of the season and his second of the Giants' western trip. He beat St. Louis in the only other New York triumph of the present wanderings.

Pat Malone wasn't at his best. He allowed 11 hits, and in addition to taking the rap for all the Giants' runs, was saved from further distress by some red hot fielding endeavor on the part of Hornsby and Cuyler. However, Pat had the distinction of getting the only strikeout in the game when he fanned Hogan in the fourth. That was something on a day like yesterday.

Bill Terry was especially fond of Pat's stuff. He made three hits off Pat and in the ninth didn't notice that May was pitching to him and made it four for the day.

Young Mr. Verges, who hadn't been so aggressive in the first half of the series, fattened up with two doubles, but Lindstrom, Ott, and Jackson, habitual trouble makers, were pretty well stopped.

Sweetland vs. Hubbell Today.

The final of the series will be played this afternoon and probably it will be a lefthander's party, with Sweetland going after another victory for his unbroken chain and Hubbell working for the Giants.

There was plenty excitement in both halves of the first inning, but no scoring, because of twin double plays of the extraordinary sort, one on a great throw to the plate by Right Fielder Cuyler and the other on a great throw to the plate by Right Fielder Lindstrom.

Critz started the game by getting to first on English's error and went to third on Leach's single. Lindstrom flied to Cuyler and when Critz tried to score after the catch he was doubled on a line throw from Ki, which socked in Hemsley's glove without doing any bouncing. Leach held first, and a few seconds later was out by several yards when he tried to steal second.

Lindstrom Throws Out Cuyler.

Cuyler was feeling right frisky when he came to bat amidst the plaudits of the spectators and forthwith smacked a single to right and stole second. English walked and Hornsby sacrificed. It was at this point that Lindstrom showed he's pretty good, too, for after catching the same kind of fly as the one Freddy had sent to Ki in the first half of the inning, Freddy made the same kind of throw to the plate and Ki was sunk by the large Mr. Hogan.

The first of the second brought considerable hollering from the partisans and the second half brought much louder cheering. Terry led the Giant half with a single, but went down with Ott in a double play started by Malone. Malone then threw out Jackson. Wilson walked to start the Cub second inning, but promptly was

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Al Espinosa, who has been winning a nearly winning golf tournaments for nearly a day, yesterday issued a challenge to Tommy Armour, Gene Sarazen, and Johnny Farrell that he will be named from in the National open tournament at the Inverness Country club, Toledo, O., July 2, 3, and 4.

The Chicago professional, who has no club affiliations at present, served his warning by turning in a startling score of 135 to lead home a field of 75 professionals and amateurs in the final Chicago district qualifying event at the Medinah Country club yesterday.

Al's 135 set a record in Chicago district qualifying play for the National open event. It also was the lowest score of the 10 district meets held in the United States yesterday. He went around the No. 1 course in the morning in 71, two under par. Apparently satisfied with that achievement, he returned in the afternoon and sailed over the No. 2 course with a 65, five under par, giving him a lead of 13 strokes over his nearest competitor. Part II established a course record with 29 on the back hall. Harry Cooper negotiated the same layout last year in 63 with the aid of pellet.

Loos Second; Withdraws.

The Chicago district was allotted 15 places in the championship final at Inverness, but the situation was complicated last night when Eddie Loos, Lake Shore club professional, withdrew from the tournament. Loos played the 36 holes and tied Kuly Schlicht of Rolling, Wis., for second place among the qualifiers with 143.

Loos' withdrawal moved five golfers who thought they had just missed qualifying by into a tie for the 15th place. The U. S. G. A. this year ruled that all ties for the last qualifying berth should be played off. Chicago district officials, who received knowledge of this ruling too late to inform yesterday's entrants, decided to forward the names of the five tying players to the U. S. G. A. for a ruling, so that it is possible they may yet make Inverness.

Those Who Qualified.

Eddie Loos, who is reputed to have an aversion to playing in big golf tournaments, the Chicago district players who qualified yesterday for their scores are:

Espinosa, 135; Schlicht, 143; Art Anderson, Davenport, Ia., state open champion, 150; Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, 150; Abe Espinosa, Medinah professional and brother of Al, 150; Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields, former amateur champion, 150; James Bowen, Glen Oak, 151; Harry Beverly, 151; George Koob, Medinah, 152; Laurie Ayton, Eyanshire, 152; Tom Cooley, former Chicagoan residing in Tucson, Ariz., 152; Harry Wenger, Edgewater, 152; Norman Reinhold, Flossmoor, 153, and Oscar Mellevorn, Columbian, 153.

The five players whose qualifying score is still in doubt are John Van Hoesen, Jr., Chicago, 154; Herb Spanehower, Maywood, 154; Frank Kennedy, Kalamazoo, Mich., 154; Ray Cross, Oak Park, 154, and John Bird of Hammond, Ind., 154.

Lehman, Bowen, Cooley, Van Nortwick, and Spanehower are amateurs.

In addition to the leaders at Medinah yesterday, Harry Cooper of the Oak Park; Walsh of Bryn Mawr and George Smith of Onwentsia, who

RACE HORSE IS TEMPERAMENTAL, TOO, IT SEEMS

That May Explain Failure of Gallant Knight.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—Various reasons have been offered for the refusal of Gallant Knight, the western horse, to run like himself in the Suburban handicap, the big race at Belmont Park, last Saturday afternoon, but I wonder if it could not be that the horse just didn't want to run.

Sport is supposed to be fun and if a man doesn't want to play a round of golf or go swimming at a certain time he either calls off the date or goes under protest and consequently gets no pleasure out of it. His feet may hurt or he may be worried, small matters which, in a horse, might not reveal themselves to a trainer's or a veterinary's eye, or he may merely be in the throes of one of those little temperamental rebellions in which a man simply doesn't want anything from any one but to be let alone.

Sense Enough to Refuse.

Horse people tell me that these thoroughbreds such as Gallant Knight are very intelligent and high strung, so it seems possible that the long and expensive campaign to improve the breed of horses by racing them has begun to show this result: That when a steed doesn't care about running he has sense enough to refuse. Gallant Knight may have been thinking things over as he stood there in the stall waiting for the send-off, and if he reached a sudden decision to chuck it and walk off, that was a course of conduct which any motion picture director would be certain to recognise as distinctly human.

Possibly, Gallant Knight wanted nothing more than another start and this would have been recognisable as a human notion too. It was only a couple of years ago that a college rowing crew, composed of the best type of human beings, balled up a big boat race at Poughkeepsie to such an extent that most of the boats foundered, by insisting again and again that they hadn't really got away in their stride and should be allowed to start over.

Tide Adds to Troubles.

Each time this happened the big fleet of water bugs would come slowly about and walk back up-river, the long wooden legs flashing redder and redder as the sun dropped closer to the western ridges, and there would be a long to-doing out on the water as they all backed their sterns up to their stake boats. Then the tide would take hold of the referee's boat and flip it around into such a position that he would have to yell, "everybody hold still while we take a little ride for ourselves."

So then the referee would go upstream and come back down and fire his pistol. And then, again, after two or three jerks, some one in the bad acting boat would discover a mosquito boring him in the neck and up would go his hand, asking for still another start.

As a conscientious race horse, Gallant Knight may merely have been trying to show human intelligence. Possibly he had a bite or something was chafing him or he was frozen into his position as golfers and the hitters in baseball sometimes are.

Golfer Unwinds Self.

It is by no means uncommon to see a golfer suddenly unwind himself after he has spent several minutes in solemn contemplation of the ball and take a little walk, or a hitter step out of the box, pick up some dirt, take a hitch at his pants and a jerk at his visor merely because he has become too taut. He thinks his weight is badly distributed, which comes of reading those articles on timing, leverage and rhythm, and he is certain that he cannot do himself justice without first relaxing.

Certainly that horse had a mind of

Polish Falcons to Display Physical Efficiency June 21

The turbulent history of the Polish Falcons—their organization and development in the homeland to which they brought independence—finds a contrast in their orderly growth in the United States. The value of the physical training program which forms a major portion of the Falcons' creed will be exemplified on Sunday afternoon, June 21, in the Chicagoland Sports Congress to be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at Soldiers' field.

More than 1,000 men, women and children, all of them Falcons, will join thousands of other athletes in the congress, the largest demonstration of mass athletics ever staged in this country. In addition to the Falcons, the spectacle will bring together members of the American Turnerbund, the American Sokol union, the Norwegian-American Athletic association, the United Daughters of Norway, and a group of 500 Chicagoans of Ukrainian extraction.

Many Interesting Events.

The various groups will present calisthenic drills, and then will assemble on the field for one mass drill, in which approximately 5,000 are expected to participate. Among the other events on the program will be a giant tug of war in which a rope stretching from one end of Soldiers' field to the other will be used. In this performance 250 Czech athletes will array themselves on one side of the rope and 250 Poles on the other. Exhibitions by champion gymnasts and expert fencers and a series of team relay races also will be presented.

Chicago was the home of the first Falcon nest in America, and among other points of which the local Falcons are proud is the large number of professional acrobats and gymnasts who received their first training in Nest No. 2 at 1062 North Ashland avenue. M. J. Madrecki, the present manager of the nest, a pleasant man of 44, who looks fully fifteen years younger, played all vaudeville circuits from coast to coast for twenty years in an act billed as Wills and Maxim.

Others Make Good.

His partner, Louis L. Smigielski, was another product of Nest No. 2. Among other performers who have flown from this nest to the show business are John Kiet, Robert and Frank Dumont, A. Rusxczyk, J. Bajorek, Joe Kramo, Joseph W. Herman, Parish and Peru, and the Four Nicholsons.

The Polish Falcons of America first came into being on the northwest side of Chicago under the direction of F. Piotrowics of Lwow, Poland. The first nest, organized in 1887, was headed by S. Terczewski, president, and K. Studlicka, a Bohemian, instructor. The name "Polish Falcons of America" was adopted on April 7, 1888, when the first nest was officially formed under the leadership of J. K. Piotrowicz.

Three weeks later the first public tournament in which the Polish and Bohemian Sokols took part was held in Chicago. Officers of the first nest, elected in July, 1888, included S. Guczewski, president; L. Furmanowicz, vice president, and S. Berens, physical instructor.

By 1894 the organization had six masts, three in Chicago, one in Buffalo, South Bend and Jersey City. The first convention and tournament of the Polish Falcons of America was held here under the leadership of John F. Smulski.

The idea of organizing a nest of the Polish Women's Falcons, originated at Nest No. 37, 48 South Wood street, in 1899. The members present at the formation of this department were M. Pawelkiewicz, M. Wrzesinska, S. Zaleska, T. Wierczorek, W. Morzynska, M. Baranowska, O. Kaczynska, A. Boguss, M. Budna, M. Kwiatek, and K. Koslowska. The nest grew rapidly and within a few weeks had a membership of 35. The first gymnastic section was organized in May of the same year, and the Polish Women's Falcon nest received its charter in 1906.

The first instructors' course was given in 1910, and eight members passed the examination. The Polish Women's Falcons continued their work until 1917, when the Polish White Cross was organized under the direction of Mme. Helen Paderewska, and took active part at the front. Mrs. Ed M. Rosentreter is the organizer of the Polish Women's Falcons.

Headquarters in Pittsburgh.

The headquarters of the Polish Falcons of America is now located in Pittsburgh, Pa. Officers are Dr. T. A. Starzynski, president, who served as a Polish army colonel during the world war; J. Band Time Canters Home Victor in Homewood Mud

BY FRENCH LANE.

Most any budding young turf man would like to be in the shoes of Charles Fisher, Detroit automobile body man, as far as the ownership of western 2 year olds is concerned.

The running of the Forest Park purse at Washington Park yesterday just about made it certain that a Fisher color bearer will win the $5,000 Curran Memorial handicap at Washington Park Saturday, and it showed that the rich Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington, the Futurity at Belmont and other wealthy juvenile fixtures may go to the Detroit sportsman.

Mr. Fisher's Band Time won the Forest Park in a canter by four lengths. His Easter Time, never beaten until yesterday, ran the contenders into the ground before the field hit the head of the stretch. Then when Jockey Fronk on Easter Time became certain that Band Time was going to win he took Easter Time up and let him canter home out of the money.

Such stylish western juveniles as Tellico, Prince Hotspur, Prince Trafalgar and Anthony Wayne trailed Band Time home. They trailed him and that was all, for the son of High Time was breezing along from four to six lengths in front all through the early stages. Jockey Bob Finnerty, a noted rider on a muddy track, guided Band Time to his triumph. He completely dominated the running all the way.

Band Time ran his five and a half furlongs over the muddy track in 1:12 3-5. In the mutuels he paid $4.86 but won like a 1 to 2 shot. Old High Time seems to have sent a lot of good 2 year olds to the races this year.

Perhaps old Lady Luck has decided to smile on young Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's turf ventures in the west. She surely didn't smile on them earlier in the meeting. So many

SENATORS POUND FOUR WHITE SOX HURLERS, 18 TO 4

8 Runs in Second Inning Start Rout.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 8.—The second place Senators threw a reception this afternoon in honor of Tommy Thomas, but were a bit too rough for the dapper young man. Tommy tolerated the manhandling for only one inning and part of another, whereupon he went his way, leaving his White Sox mates to suffer through a spectacle which finally ended with the home entertainers in front, 18 to 4.

When Thomas got into difficulties in the second inning, Vic Frasier was elected to the job of putting things in order, but he didn't respond. Before he could bring the inning to a conclusion, eight Senators had scored. From then on it was just a matter of more hits, more runs, more pitchers, and more laughs. Altogether twenty hits, five of them two baggers, were recorded in the comedy which also saw Jim Moore and Red Faber trying to do their bit.

More Southpaw Pitching.

For the seventh day in succession the Sox looked at southpaw pitching, this time on the part of Bob Burke, but constant association doesn't seem to have acquainted them with that particular variety. They touched Burke for eight hits, but most of them were scattered. Three of the eight were the work of Johnny Kerr, who was moved in at second to add some strength to the attack. One of his taps was a homer. His appearance at second made it necessary to move Fonseca to third, but the veteran looked bad in a couple of plays, so Manager Bush soon yanked him, on the excuse that ailing legs need frequent rest.

As a warning that he wasn't going to be any better than in his previous starts, Thomas walked Myer, the first man to face him in the opening inning. Manush singled to right, Myer going to third. Cronin flied to center and by backing up against the fence Eichrodt was able to catch the ball. Myer scored on the out.

Big Parade Starts.

Thomas walked Kuhel to start the second and the big parade formed immediately. Bluege singled and Spencer beat out a bunt on which Fonseca and Thomas got tangled. Burke lifted a fly to center and Cissell tried to take it away from Eichrodt so it fell for a hit, Kuhel scoring and the bases remaining filled. Myer singled to center to drive home Bluege and Spencer. This completed Thomas' work for the day.

The banishment of Thomas worked no improvement, at least not for a few minutes. As soon as Frasier took a hand, Manush doubled to right, Burke scoring and Myer stopping at third. Frasier then walked both Cronin and Harris, forcing Myer to score. Manush registered on West's grounder to Blue. Kuhel flied to right and Cronin ran home. Harris scored the eighth and last run of the inning on Bluege's second single.

Sox Come to Life.

As soon as the game appeared hopelessly lost the Sox began to show a little ferocity in their attack. They picked up a couple of runs in the third. A single by Frasier, pass to Blue, Watwood's double and Fothergill's infield out did this. They also hung up a run in the fourth. Cissell singled and Kerr shoved him home with a two bagger.

The shelling that made it expedient to remove Frasier in the fourth got under way when Cronin doubled out to where Fothergill was breathing heavily as the result of his exercises. Harris flied out, but West peeled off a single and Cronin dashed home. Kuhel also singled. Bluege did the same and West scored. Frasier filled the bases by registering a bullseye on Spencer's left arm. Burke's liner hopped off Cissell's glove for a hit, Kuhel counting. Moore took Frasier's place. A long fly off Myer's bat permitted Bluege to take home the last run of the inning. This made the score 13 to 3.

Moore Gets His, Too.

Moore's chance at a touch of high life came in the fifth. Two more pairs of Washington shoes reached the plate. Cronin led off with a two bagger which gave Fothergill another workout. Harris' single drove in the runner. West doubled against the wall in right, Harris halting at third. Kuhel popped out and a pass to Bluege filled the bases. Hargrave forced Bluege and Harris scored.

Faber's opportunity to share in the festivities came in the sixth. Moore hit Myer and Manush doubled him to third to start the inning. Faber was able to end the inning after Harris. West and Bluege had frisked him for singles which fetched forth three more runs.

With hopes of salvaging one game of the series, Bush is going to come back with Pat Caraway tomorrow. The Senators blew him out of the opener in less than three innings, but they probably won't do it again. Alvin Crowder is to be the home pitcher.

Just before game time today Bush decided he wasn't satisfied with the rate at which Carl Reynolds' charley horse is improving, so the athlete was told to return to Chicago. An hour later he was aboard a homebound train.

Sweetland Proves Owner Wrigley Knows a Pitcher

They say that Mr. William Wrigley personally purchased Lester Sweetland from the Phillies last year. Mr. Wrigley hasn't exactly confirmed this report, but if he did it was the second personal purchase of a ball player made by Mr. Wrigley in his old home town.

One of the things that cooled Mr. Wrigley on Mr. McCarthy was the fact that after he had bought Lefty O'Doul, Mr. McCarthy let O'Doul get away, and by and by Lefty became the batting champion of the National league. And when, last August, Mr. Wrigley watched Lefty O'Doul, as a pinch hitter, knock ninth inning homers to beat the Cubs on successive days and as he also knocked the Cubs out of first place, Mr. Wrigley nearly swooned.

After Sixth Win Today.

So if Lester Sweetland was purchased by Mr. Wrigley, he was assured of a good tryout on the O'Doul precedent if for no other reason.

This afternoon Lester will be after his sixth straight and if he loses, it will be the first licking he has taken as a Cub. If Lester wins this afternoon and one more, he will have won as many games as he won all last year while losing 15 with the Phillies.

Sweetland's success this year is based on three kinds of pitches, his hook, a fast one, and a change of pace. By strange coincidence the number of different kinds of pitches is the same as the number of words he uses in chatting with newspaper men, the three words being no, yes, and ugh.

Unlike many left handers, Lester has pretty good control. He also has control of his emotions. The Seminoles in the vicinity of Melbourne, Fla., where Les resides, have made him an honorary member of their tribe and pay homage to him under the name of Chief Poker Face, 'tis said.

These taciturn characteristics are not set down critically. Sometimes you can hear a pitcher talking for several blocks after he has won two straight.

Although a good Floridian now, Les was born in St. Ignace, Mich. You may not know just where St. Ignace is, but it's a long way from Les' winter home. Melbourne is on the Indian river, where oranges, shrimps, chameleons, beautiful scenery, and many varmints abound. But going back to St. Ignace, Les was born there on Aug. 14, 1901.

Breaks in Florida League.

Les broke in with Orlando in the Florida State league and won 15 while losing 6. After terms in Charlotte and Spartanburg, Les went to the Phillies in 1927.

His first year with the Phillies he won 2 and lost 10; the next year he won 3 and lost 15; in 1929 he jumped up above .500 with 13 and lost 11. Last year in losing 15 while winning 7, Sweetland was charged with an earned run average of 7.71, which is very, very high, and establishes Mr. Wrigley as a clairvoyant in view of the Les' form reversal this year.

Sweetland got his first opportunity with the Cubs on April 24 when he took over a 5 to 0 heritage from Blake. On this occasion Hornsby knocked three successive homers and what had become a 5 to 0 trimming for Blake became a 10 to 6 victory for Sweetland. And Les has been going strong ever since, even without homers by his boss.

542 Athletes Enter Stagg Prep Games

College performances will be the rule on Stagg field Friday and Saturday when the pick of the country's prep athletes compete in the twenty-seventh Stagg track and field interscholastic. The records of the entries this year are uniformly high grade and promise many broken records. The entry list has reached a total of 142 schools, with 503 individuals from 24 states. Belated entries will bring the total to close to 600.

Oak Park High school, Illinois state champion for the last two years, and third place winner in the Stagg meet last year, is one of the favorites to win the national title. The Oak Park 880 yard relay team figures to be the best of the twenty-eight entered, for its time of 1:30 2-10 has been approached only by Urbana, Ill., which Oak Park defeated in the state finals. Wyandotte, Kas., Scott High of Toledo, and Tech High of Atlanta, Ga., will be other strong contenders.

Fort Collins, Col., which has won the Stagg competition three times in recent years and finished in second place three times, has entered the limit of 20 men. Scott High of Toledo, which uniformly turns out strong teams in all sports, has 13 entered, and Roosevelt High of Dayton has named 17.

There will be keen competition in the 100 yard dash for Randall Herman of Oak Park, the defending champion. Edwin Toribio, Jesuit High, New Orleans, a protege of Emmett Toppino, the Loyola of New Orleans star, was credited with :09 7-10 this spring, and Crain Portman, of Urbana, Ill., who won in the state meet, has likewise been credited with this time. Smith of Du Pont High, Louisville, has done :09 9-10 this season, and Richard Ballumpant of Corpus Christi, Tex., ran in :09 9-10, as did Perry Anderson of Messick High, Nashville, and Bill Cox, one of the Oklahoma entries.

JAMESTOWN, 1-6, WADES THROUGH MUD TO VICTORY

Threatens Twenty Grand's Chance in Belmont.

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—George D. Widener's Jamestown proved two things at Belmont Park this afternoon, both of them disquieting to admirers of Twenty Grand, which will stack up against the son of St. James in the Belmont Saturday. The first was that Jamestown can run well in bad going, which Twenty Grand can do with only indifferent success; and the second was that he can go a route, which has been considered Twenty Grand's great advantage over Jamestown, accused heretofore of being only a sprinter.

Jamestown easily won the Colin purse for three year olds and left many saying:

Wins by Four Lengths.

The race was a splendid performance, and marks the third time that Jamestown has run and won this year. He started in at seven furlongs, went up to a mile in the Withers, and clicked off a mile and a furlong through the mud today.

Joseph E. Davis' Gigantic, and Walter J. Salmon's Mad Career were the only two to compete against him. They finished in the order named, with Gigantic four lengths back of the winner, and fifteen lengths before Mad Career. Jamestown carried 124 pounds, as against 113 for Gigantic, and 110 for Mr. Salmon's colt.

Pays 1 to 6 in Betting.

Jamestown was the short priced favorite. He opened at 1 to 10, but his price lengthened to 1 to 6.

Jamestown finished the mile and a furlong in 1:53, and was worked out an extra eighth to finish a mile and a quarter in 2:07.

Rough Water Keeps Badger Oarsmen Idle

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 8.—[Special.]—University of Wisconsin oarsmen, forced into inactivity by rough water over since their first workout upon their arrival at Poughkeepsie Sunday morning, are having plenty of time to ponder over reports about rival crews.

Although the Badgers are supposed to be in strict seclusion at Louis Palmer's place, about two miles up in the hills back of the boat house, they seem to be as aware of these stories as the best informed observers at the Nelson house, Poughkeepsie's gathering place.

The information that impresses the Badgers is the report concerning Syracuse's time trial last Saturday. There is a feeling that old Jim Ten Eyck is out to sweep the river. The 83 year old coach has three of the best crews of his 29 years years coaching at Syracuse.

In Saturday's trial the crew stroked by Weller defeated Tom Lombard's eight by more than two lengths over the four mile course and was timed in a few seconds less than 20 minutes.

Syracuse has been regarded as dangerous ever since its decisive victory over Navy earlier in the year.

BATTING LEADERS FALL BELOW .400; RUTH OUT AHEAD

The big leagues were without a .400 clubber among the regulars today, the mighty Babe Ruth having fallen below that mark after being turned back four times yesterday by Wes Ferrell of the Indians. His .398, however, still was well ahead of the next best mark, Mickey Cochrane's .383. Al Simmons of the A's took over fourth place by hitting one out of three. The leaders:

Illinois Baseball Star Signed by Cardinals

Champaign, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—Bill Fuzak, left fielder on the University of Illinois baseball team, champions of the Western conference, has signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. He has been ordered to report to Danville for trial. Fuzak expects to be graduated this month. He hit .437 in ten conference games.

of the Whitney color bearers were beaten at short prices the tenors and the baritones in the crowd began to chant a song about Mose Goldblatt, trainer of the western division of the Whitney horses, which went something like this:

"Nobody knows
Where the money goes
When the favorite blows
Except Uncle Mose."

But Flimsy, a daughter of Broomstick-Yankee Maid, stepped into the Chesterfield purse, a four horse affair, yesterday. She was stoutly backed, although Bob Rogers was the favorite at post time. Flimsy, under a well judged ride by Jockey Kenneth Russell, galloped to the front at once and stayed there all the way. Bob Rogers couldn't do better than third, Hyman, a 3 year old, staggering home second.

Here and there—Tony Barrett of the Board of Trade, back from Bainbridge Park, where his horses are running, says it's nice to be back in the big league. . . . Race track cronies of John McGraw all gloomy over way Giants have been going on western trip—Singing Kid and Red Fitzgerald chief mourners. . . . Illinois license committee, in huddle, refused riding papers to Joie Judy and Dent Smith—granted licenses to Verlyn Swith and Stanley Lipiec—didn't say anything about the Willie Garner case. . . . Bub May, who saddled High Ball to win the American Derby 27 years ago, says the only comment Jockey Grover Cleveland Fuller made after he won the race was, "Hell of a haws, Mr. May"—May thinks High Ball was better horse than Roseben and can tell you why. . . . Reports coming out of Kentucky that the little red hero, Mistep, will be back to the races in time to fill his engagements at Arlington Park and Hawthorne. . . . Old Screw Sanders, sage of Churchill Downs, dug up two hundred bucks some place and bet it yesterday that Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby winner, will beat Jamestown in the Belmont stakes on Saturday.

It is seldom an American Jockey wins a stake fixture of any consequence after he has served in the saddle for 15 years, yet Fred Fox, the English rider who piloted Cameronian to victory in the English Derby at Epsom last week, is 43 years old. He has been riding in England for more than 20 years. He is known as a book worm and, as for culture, started it long before Gene Tunney did. "My culture has enabled me to outride many of my colleagues," Fox said after he won the Derby.

Hardly any of America's best jockeys have been in the saddle a dozen years. The few exceptions are Mack Garner, Earl Pool, and Eddie Ambrose. Yet Lucien Lynn, a Kentucky boy, has been riding abroad for various kings, queens, princes, and princesses for a quarter of a century. He pops down on a long shot every now and then on the French and English turf.

Quail, Deprived of Shelter, Are Leaving Farms

BY BOB BECKER.

Farms in the corn belt can't raise quail because three-fourths of them have no cover for the birds, according to a recent survey of game conditions in the central states. This is sad news, both for the agriculturists and the sportsmen, but the situation is just as hard for song birds because many landowners have misused woodlots on their property to the extent that valuable insectivorous birds cannot build their homes in them.

A recent investigation of woodlots in the intensively cultivated corn belt country of the middle west showed that the farmers were speeding the departure if not the extermination of birds most valuable in preying upon insects, because the feathered helpers are given nothing but heavily grazed patches of timber for their homes, and conditions which are wholly unsuitable for such birds.

Ninety per cent of the woodlots in the corn belt country, the scientific investigation revealed, are so heavily grazed that they are unfit and unattractive to birds, a serious situation when the landowners realize what an asset a big bird crop is in keeping down insect pests on the land.

Government authorities estimate that the bird life of the country has an economic value of $350,000,000 annually as judged by their activities against crop destroying insects and weed seeds.

More than half of the bird life of a woodlot nest on the ground or in the undergrowth of the woods and this portion includes practically all of the insectivorous species important to the farmer and fruit grower. Among these are the mourning doves, cuckoos, cardinals, towhees, indigo buntings, ovenbirds, yellow breasted chats, and wood thrushes.

The work of these birds is augmented by species which nest in thickets, such as the bob white, catbirds, and brown thrushes. A short time ago Aldo Leopold, the game expert, pointed out that the destruction of osage hedges in the corn belt had cut down the quail crop and now we have thicketed woodlots as well denuded so that they cannot house birds.

SUTTER TAKES TWO MATCHES IN TRI-STATE MEET

Cincinnati, O., June 8.—(AP)—Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, today advanced through the third and fourth rounds of the 31st annual tri-state tennis tournament, defeating John Conway, Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0, and Matson Tobin, Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-4.

Two Portsmouth, O., players, Frank Blood and John Johnson, respectively, defeated Jim Dodd, Cincinnati, 6-3, 6-2, and Mel Zikes, Bloomington, Ind., 6-3, 6-4, and went into the fourth round. Other results:

Martin Buxby, Austin, Tex., defeated Bill Chambers, Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0; Yama Guchi, Japan, defeated D. D. Driscoll, Cincinnati, 6-4, 6-4. On defaults Gordon Brown, Chicago, won from Francis Herfel, Cincinnati; Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., won from Edward Ardus, Cincinnati, and Karl Kamrath, Austin, won from Meyer Zeligs, Cincinnati.

MITCHELL STOPS CUBS WITH FIVE HITS; GIANTS WIN

caught napping off first, Mitchell to Terry to Jackson to Terry. Jackson threw out Hemsley, but Jurges tripled to right center and came home on Grimm's infield single. Charley went to third when Mitchell threw past Terry. Malone lined to Lindstrom for the third out.

That Terrible Third.

The Giant third was most distressing, speaking strictly from the Chicago point of view. Hogan singled with one out and Mitchell walked. Critz cracked a double to left center, Hogan scoring and Mitchell stopping at third. Leach singled, scoring Mitchell and Critz. Leach was kind enough to fly to Cuyler and forced Leach.

The fourth Giant run was ruled in the fourth. Ott walked and got around on Terry's out and Young's first double. Hogan fanned and Mitchell fouled to Hemsley.

In the sixth the Giants failed to add to their tabulation despite aid by Terry and Jackson, Vergez's second double, and a walk to Hogan the reason for the blank being the second double play victimizing Terry and Ott. Mitchel, up the first time with the bases full, fanned Hogan for the third out.

Mitchell's Hit Scores Two.

The Giants' eighth, which was more than a vulgar display of futility, saw Mitchell up again with the bases full and two out and this time he doubled to left center, scoring Terry and Ott. Jurges threw out Critz to end the punishment.

The Cubs filled the bases with two out in the ninth on a single by Stevenson and walks to Hemsley and Jurges, but the game ended when Grimm bounced out.

ROSENBLOOM AND CANCELA DRILL FOR RING BOUT

Phillips Replaces Fields Against Saguero.

Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion of the world, worked out at the Mullen loop gymnasium yesterday for his ten round feature with Tony Cancela of Tampa, Fla., at Wills stadium on Thursday night. Cancela also is training at Mullen's. The Rosenbloom-Cancela bout is the second meeting between the pair, Maxie having held to a ten round draw by the Tampa youth in Florida earlier this year.

Phillips Subs for Fields.

Tug Phillips of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will arrive tomorrow night to substitute against Ralsmpage Saguero for Jackie Fields, will be seeking his thirteenth straight victory. During 1929 and 1930 Phillips engaged in thirty-two bouts and won them all, according to the record books. Promoter Mullen said yesterday that Tug hasn't lost a bout this year, adding eight more victims to his string.

Saguero, Cuban welterweight title-holder, also is making his Chicago debut. Balampage is highly regarded in Florida and Cuban fight critics. The Saguero-Phillips bout is scheduled for ten rounds.

Two six rounders and three fours will round out the program.

Fights Follow to Dad's Steps.

Pinky Phillips Jr. and Edgar Norman are on the mark in one six rounder. Pinky, who is the son of the former lightweight champion, has made a name and won the majority by his energies.

The other six rounder will bring on Pep Justi, Madison, Wis., and Jackie Horner of St. Louis, Mo., at 124 pounds. Justo has scored 14 victories in as many local starts.

Horses Have Their Moods, Too, It Seems

its own when he stubbornly jabbed both of his hoofs into the ground and then ran sidewise, refusing to run the race.

But much of the personal character of the individual race horse is communicated to the public. The name is always coupled with a lot of mysterious abbreviations, such as "ch. g.," or "b. h.," and a sort of mathematical chart with umlauts and asterisks, to indicate the day's open, high, low, close and bet change of an issue of stock. This is more statistical information for the guidance of persons willing to gamble and it is almost impossible for a horse to endear himself to a personal following unless it be known, at least, whether he will steal sugar out of his trainer's pocket, or learn to eat a kitten or a goat for company.

Small Dog More Interesting.

Having seen him win the Kentucky Derby I have an idea that Twenty Grand is a very good race horse, but notwithstanding the little I have seen and the much I have read of him he remains much less interesting to me than a small Scotty dog named Annie, owned by a man named Mr. Drake.

There was a brush fire on the land near Mr. Drake's place one night and when it was over he went to the kennel to see if Annie's puppies were all right. When he raised the lid off the box where the puppies had been they were missing, so for two hours he and the neighbors whistled through the brush without finding the pups. But about that time he began to notice that Annie was not at all worried and moreover that she had mud on her whiskers. So the search was called off and Mr. Drake sat down to confer with Annie.

"Annie," he said, "where did you put them pups?"

Horse So Impersonal.

Annie wagged herself, gave a small questioning bark, and led Mr. Drake down the road, he in his pajamas and much annoyed by the mosquitoes, until she came to a corrugated iron culvert. There she disappeared and returned with fresh mud on her whiskers. So Mr. Drake got down in the mud and peered in at three little pairs of green eyes glowing in the culvert.

But as for Twenty Grand, he is likely the good son of So-and-So out of Whatnot, she by something else, the winner of a certain amount of money and as impersonal as so many skeins of steel.

SIRUTIS, GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTER, WINS PRO DEBUT

New York, June 8.—(AP)—Al Rowe, Philadelphia lightweight, and Joe Barbara, New York, fought six slow rounds to a draw in the feature bout of Madison Square Garden's third new indoor boxing show tonight. There were no knockdowns. Rowe weighed 135½; Barbara, 134½.

Tustis Sirutis, New York heavyweight, who was a member of the American Golden Gloves team, made his pro debut by stopping Gus Rodenberg, Brooklyn, in the second round of a six round bout. Rodenberg went down three times for counts of nine before the bout was stopped. Sirutis weighed 216½; Rodenberg, 199½.

Espinosa Bags Ten Birdies.

On his morning round Espinosa got himself in the rough on the first hole but came back with birdies on the second, fourth, fifth, and eighth, so that he was 2 up on par at the turn. He three-putted the tenth, but settled down to business the rest of the route and added two more birdies at the thirteenth and fifteenth.

The afternoon round of 65, found him 1 up on par at the run for home. He holed a 35 foot putt at the seventh and on the incoming nine he completed his list of ten birdies for the day by being one under par at the tenth, twelfth, fifteenth and seventeenth.

Loos turned in a great 68 in the morning round, collecting birdies at the first, second, third, and fourteenth holes. He coasted in the afternoon, sliding home with an 80 for his 148 total.

Qualifying Scores for U. S. Open Range from 135 to 162

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The 97 vacant places in the national open golf championship to be played at the Inverness club, Toledo, starting July 2, were filled today by 36 hole qualifying rounds in 20 districts, scattered throughout the country.

Qualifying scores ranged from the 135 by which Al Espinosa, Chicago veteran, led the field in the Chicago district, to the 162 by which Walter Bemish of Geneseo, N. Y., and Clarence Doser of Rochester, N. Y., qualified in the Buffalo district.

The best 18 hole round of the day was turned in by Whitty Cox, Brooklyn pro, in the New York district. Cox broke the south course record at the Westchester Country club with 64 in the first round.

The chief casualties were suffered in the New York district where two former open champions, Willie Macfarlane and Cyril Walker, failed to qualify. The veteran, Mike Brady, was another who failed to get within the charmed circle at Westchester.

53 Exempt from Trials.

All told, 86 professionals and 10 amateurs gained places in the field which will battle for the title Bobby Jones relinquishes. The 97th place, alloted to the Chicago district, was left to the United States Golf association to decide.

Fifty-three players were granted exemption from the nation-wide qualifying round and will go directly to Inverness to make the starting field exactly 150.

COX DISTANCES FIELD.

Rye, N. Y., June 8.—(AP)—A record breaking 64 on the first 18 holes enabled Whitty Cox, Brooklyn pro, to lead the field by a wide margin in the national open golf qualifying round for the New York district played today at the Westchester Country club.

Cox, whose sensational score in the first round broke the record for the south course, scored a 74 in the afternoon for a 36 hole total of 138 and a lead of seven strokes over his nearest rivals, Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., and T. Philip Perkins of Long Beach, former British amateur champion.

All told, eleven professionals and two amateurs—Perkins and George Voigt—qualified in this district. Among those who failed to get in the qualifying limit were two former open champions, Cyril Walker, who held the title in 1924, and Willie MacFarlane, title holder in 1925.

GARRY HERRMANN LEAVES ESTATE OF ONLY $120

Cincinnati, O., June 8.—(AP)—August [Garry] Herrmann, former chairman of the old national baseball commission and president of the Cincinnati Reds for a quarter of a century, left an estate of only $120, his son-in-law, Karl Finke, said today in Probate court. Finke made application to administer the estate, which he said consisted of real estate. There was no will, Finke said.

Before his death Herrman was understood to have given most of his property to his daughter, Mrs. Lena Fink.

FORTY AND EIGHT GO OVER TOP IN WAR AGAINST PAR

The Forty and Eight, world war veterans' organization, will hold its first 1931 handicap golf tournament tomorrow over the Big Oaks course, 6600 Lawrence avenue. Among the prominent veterans who will take part in the tournament are Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works; Edward J. Barrett, state treasurer; Sheriff William D. Meyering; Al Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court; and Judges William E. Helander, Mathew Hartigan, Philip Sullivan, Joseph Burke, and Edward Scheffler.

One of the features of the tournament will be a match between two one armed veterans who lost their right arms in the trenches. Sheriff Meyering and Joseph Dorfman will take part in this event. Prizes will be given for low gross, low net, blind bogey, low gross on the four short and four long holes, and high gross. A dinner for the players will follow the tournament.

One of the most interesting golf battles of the year will be held over the Westgate Valley course next Sunday, when the new ball, which has caused no small amount of controversy since its advent, meets up with the old one in a special 18 hole match among four Chicago district professionals.

Jock Hutchison of Glen View and Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr will stick to the discarded ball, while Harry Cooper of Glen Oaks and Al Espinosa will use the new pellet. The match will start at 3 o'clock.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

"YANKEE" GOLFERS.

WE Americans are prone to speak with a slight air of superiority when achievements of our golfers in the British open championships are mentioned. We have a perfect right to do so, but it seems to The Wake that we rather stretch a point, unless we explain the stretch, in claiming ten of the last open titles over there for this country.

It is questionable to us just how much credit, unless for home consumption, we should take in the triumph of Tommy Armour in the British open last week. Armour lives in this country and plays most of his golf here. However, he once was Scotch amateur champion and learned his golf abroad. The same might be said for Jock Hutchison, one of the other "Yankees" to take this premier honor. Jim Barnes comes under the same classification.

As a matter of fact, the record would be sweet enough with American players taking seven of the last eleven events. The peerless Bobby Jones accounts for three of that number and Walter Hagen for four. Hagen is a home-bred professional.

So it it will soothe British feeling or promote better international relations, The Wake is willing to let it stand as seven Americans, three British bred pros now residing in America and one Briton. Here is the record under discussion:

1921—Jock Hutchison.
1922—Walter C. Hagen.
1923—Arthur G. Havers.
1924—Walter C. Hagen.
1925—James Barnes.
1926—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1927—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1928—Walter C. Hagen.
1929—Walter C. Hagen.
1930—Robert T. Jones Jr.
1931—Tommy Armour.

Remember Heine Zim?

Dear Wake: Have been looking for some one to note a resemblance between Jurges and Heine Zimmerman. To me the likeness in the field is quite perfect. If Jurges, when wigwagging at the plate, would only whack the home plate the picture would recall completely the famous third baseman of "way back when."

My Dog.

My dog has no purple pedigree,
He won't go down in history;
He's underslung and awkward, too,
And does the things he shouldn't do.

He is my clown and loves his part,
My laughter echoes in his heart;
The sun and wind and woodlands know
My dog is just an old hobo.

But there is something in his eyes . . .
A trusting light that never dies . . .
I don't amount to anything
But to my dog I'm more than king.

So I must do something great, you see . . .
My dog has so much faith in me.

INDIANS GET ONE HIT UNTIL NINTH; BEAT YANKS, 4-1

Ferrell Halts New York with Three Hits.

New York, June 8.—[Special.]—For eight innings today Charles Ruffing of the Yanks pitched a masterful game, holding Cleveland to a single. Then the Indians made four hits, scored four runs and won, 4 to 1.

A single by Hodapp, triples by Porter and Myatt and Averill's eighth home run of the year did the work. Up to that time Hodapp's single in the first inning had been the only hit off Ruffing.

Wes Ferrell, pitching his ninth victory of the year for the Indians, allowed three hits, two of which were bunched with his own error to give the Yanks their run in the fifth.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES ENJOY MODERATE GAINS

Trading Moves Briskly Along Near Close.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading on the Chicago exchange wound up yesterday with a brisk advance, which was participated in by all classes of shares. Prices were carried forward for moderate gains with the improvement in some instances amounting to as much as 3 points. The upturn followed an early period of unsettlement, during which the utility stocks were forced below last week's final quotations, and stocks generally were off from previous prices.

The tape's action was interpreted as evidence that the market community was pleased with the consummations of the Chicago bank consolidations.

Aside from the developments in the Chicago banking field, there was little news of either a constructive or unfavorable nature that had much bearing on the day's trading.

Two Issues Feature Mart.

The two features on the Chicago board were U. S. Radio and E. L. Brice. Each stock enjoyed an aggressive sponsorship and made substantial gains from their previous quotations. U. S. Radio, which suffered acutely in last week's decline, was bid back up to 23½, which was an advance of 4¾ points for the day. The issue, after touching a low of 13¼ several days ago, has climbed back steadily to its present level. Bruce, which performed a spectacular 7 point advance last week, rose another 2½ points to 24¾.

Commonwealth Edison broke through 200 early in the day, dipping to 199¾, but scored a good comeback and closed the day at 197½, off only 1¼ points for the day.

In Moderate Volume.

National Republic Investment Trust turned over in moderate volume following the announcement of the consolidation agreement between the National Bank of the Republic and the Central Trust. The trust was formed in 1929 as a holding company to deal in securities and bonds of all kinds. The trustees and officers of the trust are directors and officers of the Republic bank. The stock brought 18 on the final transaction as compared with its previous price of 21¼.

The general trading was moderately active. The total volume of transactions amounted to 126,000. It was during the latter part of the session that the real buying demand manifested itself. In such issues as Insull and Middle West, which had been under pressure earlier, the demand was sufficient to raise prices above last week's final prices.

DARLING SEEKS TO BRING ABOUT SILVER PARLEY

Washington, D. C., June 8.—(AP)—Interest in an international conference on silver revived today following a round of conferences on the subject revolving about J. P. Darling, director of the Midland bank of London and an advocate of a silver parley.

Darling called upon President Hoover and had lunch with Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator King [Democrat, Utah], who was chairman of the subcommittee on silver at the recent meeting of the international chamber of commerce.

The London banker left immediately afterward for Canada without divulging the nature of his talk with the President. Senator King after the luncheon demanded the administration take the lead in calling an international conference regardless of the reported unwillingness of the other powers to act now.

The United States should lead the way to a solution of the silver question," said Senator King. "It should call the conference immediately. The prestige of the United States would insure a successful issue. Substantially every nation would attend. I regard the depressed value of silver one of the most vital questions in the economic life of the world. Until silver is given a monetary status the economic situation of the world will be most unsatisfactory."

Cites "Quickest Way."

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 8.—(AP)—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, today reiterated his statement that a nonofficial international conference was the quickest way to solve the silver depression problem. Senator Smoot has proposed a conference of delegates of the international chamber of commerce instead of official delegates from the interested nations.

ON FOREIGN BOURSES

LONDON, June 8.—(AP)—Bar silver, 12⅝d per ounce. Money, 1¼ per cent. Discount rates, short bills and three months 2¼ per cent.

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—A heavy tone prevailed on the bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 89 francs 10 centimes. Five per cent loan, 103 francs 0 centimes. Exchange on London, 124 francs 33 centimes. The dollar was quoted at 25 francs 53½ centimes.

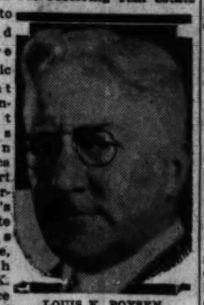
Bankers Offer Plan to Clear Up Mortgage Mess

BY AL CHASE.

Suggested plans for working out defaults and for restoring real estate financing to a sound basis were made public last night by the Investment Bankers Association of America in a report of that organization's real estate securities committee, of which Louis K. Boysen, vice president of the First Union Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, is chairman. The report declares that the real estate bond situation is one of the blackest spots in our present financial outlook, made so to some extent by general ignorance as to how the situation should be handled.



LOUIS K. BOYSEN.

"Estimates of the total outstanding volume of real estate bonds vary from eight to twelve billion dollars," the report states. "Ten billion dollars may be a fairly correct estimate. In the city of Chicago $400,000,000 in real estate bonds are in actual foreclosure and similar conditions exist in most of our larger cities."

The committee reports that it has received many plans that propose to work out defaulted bond issues in groups. As a general rule, says the report, these plans of including several different defaulted issues in a group are not fair to all depositing bond holders, some of the plans are sponsored by individuals who are intent on making a profit from the situation and all the plans are primarily weak, in that no capital is furnished.

Offers Definite Plan.

The report then offers a definite plan and proposes that, where state laws permit, corporations be organized by substantial interests in leading cities to acquire distress income property. These corporations should have adequate, paid-in capital and holders of defaulted bonds should have a choice of selling their bonds to the corporation at a fair price or of exchanging bonds for 5 per cent preferred stock, each share of which would carry with it one share of common stock, the report suggests.

The corporation might also acquire the equity and junior claims, either by foreclosure or purchase, and, the report adds: "We believe it is advisable for the principal banking interests in all cities where the foreclosure problem is a serious one to organize and get the defaulted real estate bonds out of the way as quickly as possible."

The report refers to the conservative type of real estate loans held by insurance companies and conservative mortgage guarantee companies and says that "While some of their assets are tied up in present foreclosures, they all feel that their eventual losses will be negligible."

Looking to the Future.

Looking to the future, the report says: "Until the present situation has cleared, there will be little real estate bond financing done. If the business continues at all the new issues will be more in accord with the standards of safety followed by life insurance companies. This means a sharp curtailment of new building projects, unless borrowers can be found to supply the required 40 per cent to 50 per cent margin of security."

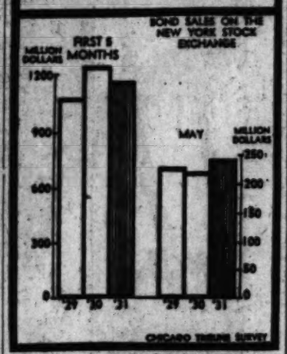
The curtailment of real estate development means a partial paralysis of many industries, the report declares, and adds that, "We believe that the most important problem is to provide the machinery by which confidence in real estate securities can be reestablished and through which the investing public be willing to make their savings available to finance proper and reasonable real estate undertakings and new construction.

Suggests Guaranty Companies.

"Your committee is of the opinion that a good method to accomplish this result may be through the medium of guaranty companies, specifically organized for the purpose of guaranteeing mortgages. The subject, however, is one of great importance, and without further investigation we make no specific recommendation at this time."

The report was presented by Chairman Boysen. Other members of the committee are Thomas W. Banks, Banks, Huntley & Co., Inc., Los Angeles; W. F. Finley, Cleveland Trust company, Cleveland; R. King Kauffman, John R. Thompson Securities corporation, Chicago; Sidney Maestre, Mercantile-Commerce company, St. Louis; Conner Malott, Spokane Eastern company, Spokane; John R. Milligan, Edward B. Smith & Co., New York; Irving H. Overman, First Securities corporation of Minnesota, Minneapolis; Otho C. Snider, Prescott, Wright, Snider company, Kansas City.

SALES OF BONDS ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE DURING MAY SHOW GAIN OVER PREVIOUS TWO YEARS



REPORT 4 OIL FIRMS WILL GRANT MEXICO LOAN OF $10,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8. — Negotiations have been virtually completed for a $10,000,000 loan to the Mexican government by four large oil companies operating in Mexico, it was reported today. Proceeds would be used for federal disbursements in arrears and for highway construction.

This is the first financial transaction between the oil companies and the Mexican government since Doheny interests advanced the Obregon administration $10,000,000 in 1923 to quell the De La Huerta revolution.

The Mexican Eagle Oil company (Royal Dutch-Shell) has already advanced $1,000,000, Standard Oil Company of California is awaiting only home office confirmation on a $3,000,000 advance, while Pan American Petroleum and Transport company (Standard Oil of Indiana) and Pierce Oil company (Sinclair) are understood to have reached agreement for amounts not yet divulged.

The loans are in the form of advance taxes and are the result of negotiations under way the last month.

Holds Teeth in Tax Law Would Drive Money Away

BY SCRUTATOR.

There has been much talk in some quarters of attempting to lighten the burden of taxes on real estate by putting teeth in the laws governing the collection of taxes on personal property.

Notwithstanding the fact that no state has ever devised a successful method of fully enforcing its personal property tax laws there are some who believe it can be done in Illinois. Legislation has even been undertaken at Springfield during the present session to accomplish this end.

The aim, of course, is to force bank accounts, stocks, bonds, and other instruments of credit to provide a larger share of the tax receipts.

Any attempt to make intangibles pay a tax in proportion to that imposed on real estate is like trying to bail out water with a sieve. The reason is obvious. The dollar is a transient and it shuns an unfriendly environment. Strict enforcement of a tax on bank accounts or securities in one state merely drives them to a friendlier haven.

Would Drive Money Away.

Any attempt to impose a tax of six, two, or even one per cent on intangibles in Illinois would quickly drive them out of the state. They would probably go to New York, where the tax rate is low.

The current tax rate in Chicago varies from $6.15 to $6.29 per $100, depending on the locality. The law does not differentiate between classifications of property, and cannot under the existing constitutional provisions. The same rate applies to real and personal property.

A yearly tax of $6.15 per $100 principal value of a bank account or a stock or bond would, in most cases, exceed the yield on the investment. Therefore, if the letter of the law were followed the owner of a bank account or a bond would be required to pay in taxes more than he would receive in interest.

In taxing real estate, however, the property is not placed on the books at estimated full value. The fiction of an "assessed valuation" has been adopted. This at present represents about 37 per cent of the full value on the average.

Would Hit Investments.

Extending this practice into the personal property division an assessor may say that the assessed valuation of a $100 bank account or a $100 government bond or other security is $37. But even on that basis the tax bill on the $100 of invested capital would be $2.27—which would not leave enough to make an investment worth while in Illinois.

It has been stated by proponents of a plan to impose taxes on intangibles that several billions of such property that now escapes could be put on the books. Thereby the tax rate for all property could be lowered.

If it were possible to tax intangibles the result would largely be a duplication of taxes, with the owner of real property carrying the load.

Assume that Smith owns a piece of property worth $1,000. Jones lends him $500 on a mortgage and a bank lends Jones $250 on his paper. If taxes were levied on these loans most of the tax burden would have to be passed along to the ultimate borrower. Smith, because the various lenders would have to get their normal return on their investments over and above taxes or there would be no point in their lending money.

The natural result would then be that Smith would pay directly the regular tax rate on his $1,000 worth of property and indirectly most of the taxes on the $500 mortgage and the $250 loan.

American Telephone and Telegraph company reported net operating income for April of $2,838,879, compared with $2,895,348 for the same 1930 month. Gross was $9,548,619, against $9,912,890. For the first four months of 1931 net operating income amounted to $11,929,319, as against $12,296,414 for the corresponding period a year ago; gross $38,115,121, compared with $38,863,714.

Sales of American Can About 8% Below Year Ago

Sales of the American Can company at the present time are running 8 per cent under the record levels of a year ago, said H. W. NET EARNINGS OF PENNSY SLIP IN FIRST QUARTER

The net loss for the period amounted to $1,205,241 after all charges, as compared with a net profit of $11,449,666 in the first quarter of 1930. Operations of the West Jersey and Seashore, included in this year's figures, are not taken into account in last year's results.

The operating figures for the first quarter of this year showed a net railway operating income of $9,309,004.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 8.—The stock market started the new week with a "hang over," but pulled itself together eventually and was going strong at the finish. Ratings on the whole improved anywhere from 1 to 4 points or more.

Although a majority of traders persisted in keeping their fingers crossed after the turnabout there was a disposition to view the new rally as further evidence that the worst of the long bear market is over and that a fundamental turn for the better has at last put in its appearance. Some optimistic souls tried to see it as proof positive that the "mob" was all wrong in setting down last week's recovery as a technical rally and nothing else.

An encouraging phase of today's upturn was the improved pace of buying as the advance gained momentum toward the close. Earlier operations had dragged so slowly, however, that the turnover fell considerably below the 2,000,000-share market, making it on a par with some of the dullest sessions of the decline.

Heavy Selling Orders.

The initial weakness was due to a heavy accumulation of selling orders brought in by the failure of last week's rally to hold over the weekend.

Once the books were clear of these orders, however, the reaction began to slow up. Absence of fresh offerings on any large scale suggested that the market was free from the threat of immediate resumption of selling on a large scale and the list gradually began to swing in the opposite direction as timid shorts began to cover commitments they had made Friday afternoon and Saturday on the theory that the bull inning was over. Also

Ten Years Ago in Finance

Striking evidence of the extent of the present prostration of the steel industry is offered by statistics regarding May operations. Pig iron production was the smallest for any one month of 31 days since July, 1908.

A rapid decline of 6⅝c brought sterling to the lowest rate, $3.74⅝, since Germany began its payments.

The Earl & Wilson Collar and Shirt company manufacturing plant at Troy, N. Y., will close down between July 16 and Aug. 15.

System traffic on the Milwaukee road for the first four days of June was 15,365 cars, a decrease of 1,470, and connecting receipts totaled 3,119, a decrease of 2,888, making a total decrease of 4,358 cars under the 1920 figures.

WORLD BANK TO STUDY MIDDLE CREDIT FINANCING

BASEL, Switzerland, June 8.—(AP)—Directors of the Bank for International Settlements today instructed the bank's management to study the best means of financing middle term credit "by creation of an international credit bank or by any other means."

The instructions, however, carried no explicit proviso that any such financing operations should be "without, under present circumstances, depleting funds at the disposal of the Bank for International Settlements."

The bank chiefs continued to maintain their traditional silence, only brief communiques being issued. Their assessment, however, was interpreted in informed circles as meaning that while the bank may approve the establishment of an international credit institution, it will not back it with the bank's own funds, either at middle or long terms.

This is considered by some as a decision, so far as the Bank for International Settlements is concerned, of the so-called Norman plan for creating an international financing company on a long term credit. At the Sunday meeting all of the bank directors were present except Montagu Norman, representing the Bank of England.

Allis Chalmers Approves Brown Boveri Purchase

The electrical patents and certain other electrical assets of American Brown Boveri are included in the transaction, which directors are vested with authority to acquire. Issuance of about 62,000 shares of Allis-Chalmers capital stock and payment of $600,000 in cash are provided in the terms of purchase.

Next Business Peak in 1932, Textile Study Says

A study of the cycles of general business and textile activity since the war, made by Tubize-Chatillon corporation, indicates that the next peak in the general business cycle will be recorded in 1932, but that it will not be as high as that reached in either 1923 or 1929, the current issue of "Textile Organon" says. The study shows the general business cycle reaches its peak every third year and the textile cycle every other year.

Report Soviet Planting Is 75 Pct. of Schedule

MOSCOW, June 8. — Despite unfavorable weather conditions which caused a delay in starting the spring planting, reported that 183,500,000 acres had been planted up to June 1, which is 75.5 per cent of the five year plan schedule.

If the cool spring weather continues all sowing should be completed about June 15. At present 55,312,500 acres of wheat are planted, about 78.9 per cent of the plan; 7,812,500 of corn, 62.5 per cent; 1,113,500 cotton, or 106.3 per cent, and 35,000 tobacco, 11.1 per cent. The total sowing compares with 174,-[illegible] acres in the same period of 1930.

Car Loadings of North Western Show a Decrease

While car loadings on the Chicago and North Western railway showed a 1.6 per cent decrease in the first week of June as compared with the first week in May, the decrease was 267 cars less than the first week in May. Grain loadings were up 163 cars in the last week over the first week of May, while lumber was up 157 cars, merchandise up 46 cars and miscellaneous loadings up 313 cars. The total carloads for the period June 1 to June 7 were 31,330 as compared with 34,233 from June 1 to June 7, 1930.

In the Central Mississippi Valley . . . the Central States Utilities group

SEVERAL of the most important operating subsidiaries of Utilities Power & Light Corporation are located in large centers of population, such as St. Louis and Indianapolis, where service is highly concentrated. But the System is a well-diversified one, also serving many smaller communities where opportunities for growth and expansion exist.

Central States Power & Light Corporation, which constitutes the bulk of the Central States Utilities Group, operates in nearly 200 communities, situated in large part in the Middle West and Southwest.

Nearly 99% of its revenues come from the sale of electric energy and natural gas. Last year its electric energy production gained more than 11% and, including new companies acquired, gained more than 43%. Most of the electric properties have been brought into unified operation with those of the Interstate Power Company, another major subsidiary of the Utilities Power & Light Corporation. The natural gas properties of the Central States Utilities Group are well located and offer unusual opportunities for further domestic and industrial growth.

Today more than 650,000 customers in 1,100 communities in the United States, Canada and Great Britain depend on the operating subsidiaries of Utilities Power & Light Corporation for one or more utility services. The total population in the territory served is approximately 6,000,000.

The economy and efficiency of group operation of public service companies, such as those controlled by Utilities Power & Light Corporation, benefit both consumer and investor. Detailed information upon request.

Cattle—Bulk of sales yesterday, $6.35; average, $7.35. Top yesterday, $8.50; average today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 21,000; sheep, 7,000.

Cattle and hogs prices forged ahead to higher levels on light supplies yesterday, while lambs slid down 25c more and yearling sheep showed losses of 25@75c at the finish. Steers are selling at the highest prices since May 20 and hogs are at the highest point since May 26. Lambs, however, show losses of $1.00@1.25 since early last week.

Hogs ruled steady to 15c higher, a big share of the supply showing 10c gain soon after the opening. The market improved as the day progressed, competition between small packers and shippers becoming brisk toward the close and some hogs were being held off the market late on the strength of the moderately small supply estimated for today.

The general average prices gained 10c at $6.30, while the extreme top advanced to $6.50. Prices are 40@50c above the low point less than two weeks ago. Supplies were small again, the total at 11 points at 101,000 comparing with 136,000 a year ago and with 161,000 in 1929. The federal inspected hog slaughter for May at 3,408,134 showed a decrease of 414,463 compared with a year ago, but the five months' total at 19,923,896 showed an increase of 192,563.

August Hogs Bid $6.50.

Light weight hogs for delivery during July and August were bid $6.50 on the futures market yesterday, but there were no offers to sell at this figure. September light were offered at $7.65. Mediums for September were bid $7.25 and offered at $7.75, while July mediums were bid $6.25. Heavy grades for September delivery were offered at $7.65 and bid $7.25. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today's delivery were bid $6.50.

Tearling cattle led the way up to higher price levels again yesterday, medium and weighty stock following slowly and some of the extreme weights were unable to pull away from last week's quotations. Buyers secured the yards for suitable quality cattle averaging 1,000 lbs and less, but were willing to take on a few 1,100@1,200 lbs averages at the advance to "fill out" their orders in mid session and later.

Most packers tried to hold weights down as much as possible. Fancy 1,058@1,107 lb yearlings reached $8.90, while $8.65 was paid for 1,330 lb steers. The bulk sold at $7.00@8.15, against $6.35@7.35 a week ago. The clearance was the earliest in recent weeks. Cows and heifers shared in the price enhancement. Calves were firm. Stockers and feeders moved up in sympathy with the advance in slaughter cattle.

Best Lambs Bring $9.35.

Best strong weight native lambs sold at $9.35 on yesterday's break, with the bulk of top kinds around $9.00, while culls sold at $6.00@6.50. Yearlings sold at $7.25 and below. Aged sheep ruled weak to 25c lower, handy weight ewes going around $2.00, about as low as they have ever been.

Sheep receipts are small compared with recent weeks, but they are fully up to normal for this time of the year. The seven leading markets handled 53,000, against 80,000 a week ago. It was the smallest Monday run of the year, but compared with 47,000 a year ago and with 43,000 two years ago.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Missouri Pacific railroad, controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, has asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to acquire the Chester and Mount Vernon road running between those two Illinois towns, by purchase of 2,000 shares of outstanding capital stock at $38.03 per share. The road runs through a rich coal territory and has been under lease by the Missouri Pacific.

Baltimore and Ohio handled 184,074 revenue freight cars in the first twenty-four days of May, a decrease of 2,004 from the same period of the previous month and 58,700 below like period in 1930.

For the week ended June 6 the Santa Fe handled 27,408 revenue freight cars, as compared with 29,066 in the previous week and 33,356 cars in the 1930 week.

NEW OATS FROM TEXAS

Oats are being harvested in Texas and samples of the new crop have arrived at Chicago. They tested 32% and 34 lbs. per bushel. There was no moisture test. Samples are understood to have been sent here asking for bids and to give an idea of what the oats looked like.

RAIN IN ALBERTA TAKES BULL EDGE FROM WHEAT PIT

Rally on Short Covering Proves Short Lived.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Scattered rains in the province of Alberta, the greater part of them, according to official reports, being too light to be of any material benefit to the new wheat crop, were still sufficient to take the bull edge off the market yesterday. At no time were prices above Saturday's finish and the close was within a fraction of the bottom.

According to private and official reports the rains which fell in Canada were received largely in the sections that needed them the least and up to 7 a. m. Monday only one point in Alberta had received as much as ¼ inch of rain. However, the wheat trade was kept uneasy by the shower reports and the bearish feeling was intensified by the lack of aggressive foreign demand for North American cash grain.

Short Lived Rally.

A strong rally was witnessed at one time due to short covering, but it was short lived and a reaction followed to the lowest figures of the day. Closing trades were 1⅛@1¼c lower, with July, 58⅛c; September, 59⅛@59¼c, and December, 62¾@63¼c. Winnipeg gained on Chicago, being off ⅛@⅝c, with July closing at 61⅝c, while Liverpool was 1⅛@1¾d lower, with July 63¼d.

In addition to the shower reports from the Canadian northwest, there were good rains at a few points in South Dakota and Minnesota, and some precipitation in North Dakota. Weekly statistics were generally bearish with the supply on ocean passage increasing 3,416,000 bu for the week, to 63,776,000 bu, or 29,144,000 bu in excess of last year.

Broomhall's Paris, France, agent surprised the trade by estimating the wheat crop of that country at 276,000,000 bu, or 44,000,000 bu more than was harvested in 1930, despite the continued complaints regarding the outlook for the new wheat which have been received for a number of weeks. A German official report showed the condition of wheat and rye was slightly better than average.

Reports Are Pessimistic.

A few showers or thunderstorms were expected in the prairie provinces overnight, but the general run of reports on wheat from that area were again decidedly pessimistic and unless rain is received this week irreparable damage is anticipated. The American government report on the winter wheat crop and the condition of spring wheat will be given to the trade today at 3 p. m., Chicago time, and is expected to show a larger yield than a month ago. An increase of 315,000 bu in the domestic visible supply raised the total to 194,329,000 bu, against 114,483,000 bu last year.

The combination of the weakness in wheat and faborable weather and crop reports kept the corn market under pressure a good part of the day, with the December selling down to 45¾c, or ⅞c under the finish of Saturday, and a new low for the season, being within 1c of the inside figure made during the post-war depression in 1921. Trade was mainly of a local character, with support coming largely from holders of bids and shorts, and the finish was ⅛@⅜c lower, with July 56⅝c@56¾c, September 52¼c, and December, 46¼@46⅛c.

Rains Aid Corn.

Rains over the belt were generally regarded as beneficial for the new corn crop. Country offerings to arrive were light and the shipping demand slow. Tightness in the July delivery has a tendency to keep the professional element off the bear side at the present time. A decrease of 1,316,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, with the total now 10,096,000 bu, against 10,266,000 bu last year.

Trade in oats was light and the market influenced largely by the action of other grains, closing ⅛@⅜c lower, with July 26⅝c, September 26⅝c, and December 29¼@29⅜c. Rye closed ⅛@⅜c lower with wheat, July finishing at 38½c, September 38⅝c, and December 42c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firm today and, while spot prices were unchanged, shipment sugars were higher. Local refiners showed no interest above 3.25c and then only for sugar in position to suit, but for these offers were asking 3.30c.

Early irregularity in raw futures was followed by increased firmness on covering and trade buying with the market closing 3 to 4 points net higher. All told only 12,700 tons changed hands. Prices follow:

There was a fair withdrawal of demand against old contracts in refined, but no new business, and prices were unchanged at 4.45c for fine granulated.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures were higher here today on trade and foreign buying promoted by steadier Brazilian exchange and rumors of a possible further Brazilian export tax on coffee. No. 7 contracts closed 11 to 15 higher. Sales, 16,000. Santos closed 11 to 13 higher. Sales, 10,000. BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Continued heavier receipts than anticipated resulted in selling pressure in butter and eggs at the opening of the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Further declines were made when heavier storage holdings were revealed in the four markets. The general rains of the last two days leading to expected improvement in pastures added to decline in butter prices. Buying at the close brought a recovery of ¼c in egg prices from the low. Butter closed ½c lower, eggs ⅝c lower, while potatoes were unchanged. Sales: Butter, 150 cars; eggs, 65 cars; potatoes, 4 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 4 cars; eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Favorable reports on winter wheat from the southwest tend to create a sufficiently strong bearish sentiment to largely offset a bullish tendency, owing to drought and crop uncertainties in the spring wheat states o fthe American northwest and the Canadian west. Between the two factors traders are inclined to go slow on both sides of the wheat market. It is believed this situation will continue until there is a decided change in either section. It is noticeable among commission men that despite the drought in western Canada outside buying orders are by no means numerous, which is given as one of the explanations why wheat prices do not advance and hold the appreciation.

The government crop report is due today. Estimates on winter wheat are for 675,000,000 to 690,000,000 bu. Last month's government was 653,000,000 bu, last year's June was 532,000,000 bu, and final returns 604,000,000 bu. Private reports estimate the spring wheat crop at 218,000,000 bu, against 247,000,000 bu as the final last year. Oats are estimated on an average of around 1,420,000,000 bu, against 1,402,000,000 bu last year. The government will not make an estimate on spring wheat and oats this month.

"Corn is 2 to 3 inches high in the Springfield - Bloomington - Decatur territory, and the stand is good, with fields clean," says M. H. Vehon, who covered that territory last week. "Wheat around Springfield is heading and is of good stand. Oats are thick. Rain has been sufficient for the time being. Farmers have given up ideas of higher prices and some of the oats have been contracted for at 17c."

"Winter wheat in the Decatur district looks better than we have ever seen it," says H. I. Baldwin of Decatur, Ill. "Stand is tall and shows heavy growth, with heads long and well filled. Harvest promises to be about one week earlier and may commence about the last days in June. Regardless of the time of planting, the size of the corn plants are more nearly uniform than usual. Farmers have been cultivating their fields vigorously and in most cases have won their battle with the weeds. Corn shows a general good stand and color. Acreage is larger than usual and in oats is smaller.

ILLINOIS WHEAT

"There is more wheat in central Illinois than I have seen in years," says Harvey Williams, back from a trip through Illinois and Iowa. "A few fields beginning to show a trace of color, general appearance excellent and very little lodged. In spite of the heavy rain and wind. Corn in southeastern Iowa is considerably later than in northern Iowa and South Dakota, but crop, as a whole, has a wonderful start and with a little quick repeat of favoring weather. Oats extremely uneven in Illinois and do not think will average nearly as good as Iowa."

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Indiana—Fair and warmer Tuesday; Wednesday unsettled, probably showers in west and north portions.

Lower Michigan—Fair and warmer Tuesday; Wednesday probably showers.

Upper Michigan—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Tuesday, possibly showers in afternoon in extreme west portion; Wednesday showers, somewhat cooler in northwest portion.

Wisconsin—Increasing cloudiness and warmer Tuesday; probably showers by afternoon in west portion; Wednesday showers, cooler except in extreme southeast portion.
